Chicago Thinks Hoover Going Too Far. Where Was the Soul? How Civilized Are We?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928.)

THIS is written in Chicago, where they HOPE Gov. Lowden will be nominated, but BELIEVE Hoover will be the Republican nominee. Experienced politicians especially believe it.

As for Gov. Smith, his nomination is a fact. Well-informed men in Chicago, including many NOT Democrats, believe that it will be hard to beat him.

JAPANESE troops raid a missionary school with the United States flag on it, take the Chinese Christian teacher and Chinese students to jail.

They act about as Americans or British would act if they found Chinese or Japanese teaching their religion to Christians.

IN Niagara Falls, Jacob D. Hanson, secretary of the Elks lodge, was driving off the Lewiston High road late at night, when three men not in uniform ordered him to stop. He thought they were highwaymen, and drove on to escape attack.

But they were Federal prohibition officers, and shot him through the head, blinding him for life. He may die.

THE grand exalted ruler of Elks sent word from Boston that Elks going about their business legally—Mr. Hanson had no alcohol in his automobile—should not be shot and blinded, and "a fuss must be made." It was made, 2,000 protested, in mass meeting.

It is fortunate that Mr. Hanson happened to be an Elk, with a grand exalted ruler back of him, otherwise little would have been heard about his shooting and blinding.

WE HAVE prohibition with us, and it is going to stay.

The bootleg and crime waves that come with it are bad enough. Shooting Elks through the head is going too far. Wouldn't it be a good idea for Federal agents to make sure that a man is a bootlegger before shooting him?

A SWEDISH scientist, Prof. Nystroen, in three cases, has brought back to life men who had dropped dead from heart stoppage due to embolism.

A long slender knife sinks in and removes the obstruction. Adrenalin is injected into the heart, salt into the veins, and after several minutes of artificial breathing, the "corpse" becomes once more a living man.

WHAT did the soul of the man do in the meanwhile? Did it start for the other world and come back again after Dr. Nystroen finished his work? Or does the soul hang around the body for a while to make sure that it is really dead?

WHAT is our civilization, apart from an artificial picture that we paint to flatter ourselves? What would it look like seen as it really is?

This country, for instance, spends half as much for education as it does for cigarets. The other day in New York City five gunmen abandoned an automobile with many thousands of dollars stolen. Policemen pursued them, and the crowd that gathered proceeded to steal the money that the bandits had left in the automobile, each struggling for his share of it.

HOW many of us are law-abiding citizens because we are afraid to be gunmen, or because we think the gunman business is unprofitable? Which it is.

DR. HUNTINGTON of Yale recently announced, in the Yale Review, "The upper classes in the United States are dying out."

That's bad enough, if you happen to know what the upper classes ARE. The lower classes are not dying out and threaten to swamp the upper classes completely. That's really serious.

It would be too bad to have such men as Abraham Lincoln, Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and similar lower class types dominate the earth.

KEMEL PASHA, high boss of Turkey, decides that the Turks shall adopt the alphabet in use among a majority of civilized nations, including ours.

Perhaps Germany will take the hint and abolish her unnecessarily complicated alphabet responsible for so many pairs of spectacles on little boys and girls.

AND possibly the United States and Great Britain will have sense enough to adopt the metric system of weights and measures as they should have done long ago.

4 OFFICERS BATTLE; 2 KNOCKED DOWN

Guns flashed in a fight between four patrolmen in the corridor of the City-County Building today following the police trial board meeting.

Sergt. Michael Daugherty and Patrolmen Harry Williams, William Polland and Joseph "Bozo" Lavery, who had stood trial on neglect of duty charges, participated in the fight and again will appear before the trial board next week. At today's hearing each was fined $25.

A score of patrolmen, waiting in the corridor to be called as witnesses or principals in cases before the trial board, jumped into the melee and disarmed the combatants.

RAID STARTS FEUD

Two weeks ago Sergt. Daugherty led the three patrolmen in a raid on a Lockhart street house to capture a man wanted for burglary. Lavery, it is alleged, disobeyed orders and rushed into the house and started breaking down the door. The man escaped through a window. The escape resulted in the four men appearing before the trial board today.

Testimony of Lavery was at variance with that of the other officers. When they met in the hall afterwards, Lavery is declared to have drawn his revolver. In the ensuing scramble other revolvers flashed. Sergt. Daugherty attempted to disarm Lavery, but was knocked down, it is claimed, by Lavery, who later was felled by Patrolman Williams. Then the other patrolmen intervened and ended the fight.

Title Fight Off Until Friday

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The fight between Jimmy McLarnin, challenger, and Sammy Mandell, champion, for the lightweight boxing title, was postponed this afternoon until tomorrow night by Tex Rickard, promoter, when he learned that showers are forecast for tonight.

Buc-Phila. Game Off

The opening game of the Pittsburgh-Philadelphia series, scheduled at Forbes Field this afternoon, was called off on account of rain and wet grounds.

The postponement will be played off as part of a doubleheader on Saturday, August 18.

Today's postponement is the second in a row for the Corsairs, inclement weather having prevented the final clash of the Pirate-Dodger series scheduled here yesterday.

SMASHES INTO PORCH

Mrs. Margaret Hays, 63, 226 South Negley avenue, veteran teacher in Wightman public school, and Daniel Drummey, 39, 300 Stratford avenue, were seriously hurt when an automobile, driven by Henry Goldstein, 35, 5650 Bryant street, hit them as they waited for a street car at South Negley and Friendship avenues. The upper picture shows the scene of the accident. The machine hurtled over the sidewalk and damaged a porch at the home of Mrs. Helen T. Robinson, 300 South Negley avenue, as shown in the lower picture.

CLARK'S KIN HIRE ATTY. IN CHURCH KILLING

Attorney Elmer I. Ecker, of Braddock, has been retained by the family of Philip Clark, slain Sunday by Attorney Fayette J. Tyrrell in the First Christian Church, Munhall, to represent them in the prosecution of the lawyer-Sunday school superintendent. Attorney Ecker had been engaged as counsel by Clark to contest the divorce action of Clark's wife, the suit, it is alleged, being the indirect cause of the shooting. Tyrrell represented Mrs. Hazel Clark.

Prior to the shooting, Clark had filed an answer to his wife's charges of cruel and barbarous treatment. He wanted to bring a cross suit, according to Attorney Ecker, but his counsel urged him to refrain from this.

EVIDENCE FOR CORONER

Robert A. Clark, Sr., of 202 Ann street, father of the slain man, will confer with Attorney Ecker today, following which the Clark counsel will consult with District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner to consider what evidence will be presented at the coroner's inquest tomorrow. All the evidence will not be presented at this time, Attorney Ecker said, but he declared there will be sufficient upon which to hold Tyrrell for the grand jury.

At the inquest the district attorney's office will be represented by Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park and George F. P. Langfitt.

MRS. TYRRELL VISITS JAIL

Mrs. Tyrrell visited her husband in jail this morning. This is the wife's second visit. She spent a few minutes with him Monday, following which she set about retaining counsel for his defense. She spent almost an hour with him this morning.

Every member of the official board of the church in which Clark was slain will be interviewed by County Detective Michael McDermott before the inquest.

POLE BLIMP HEADING BACK TO BASE

International News Service.

LONDON, May 17.—The Italian exploration dirigible carrying the North Pole expedition headed by Gen. Umberto Nobile is returning to Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, after reaching Nicholas II Land (Lenin Land), said a Central News dispatch from Rome this afternoon, quoting a radiogram received there from Gen. Nobile himself.

At the time the wireless message was sent, the Italia had been aloft approximately 34 hours.

Gen. Nobile said he had not discovered any new land.

The weather was very cold, the thermometer registering 15 degrees below zero.

Gen Nobile is expected to start almost immediately on another flight of exploration to the so-called Crocker Land, which Peary and other explorers expected to see.

Messages received by the base ship Citta di Milano at King's Bay from the Italia indicated that generally the airship had favorable flying weather. It made a speed of from 30 to 50 kilometers an hour, depending on the wind. In passing over Franz Josef Land and heading toward Lenin Land, the dirigible found a little fog, but visibility was good for 100 kilometers.

BALK U. S. IN MOVE TO GET BOOKS

City authorities won a victory over federal authorities conducting a grand jury booze probe today.

Judges W. H. S. Thomson and F. P. Schoonmaker held the subpenas issued Tuesday on city officials to produce police records were too broad and too general and did not specify what was wanted.

The judges decided it was not practical to issue a general subpena to bring in all police records asked for by District Attorney John D. Meyer.

The court stated that if Attorney Meyer would specify particular cases in particular dockets the court would then issue subpenas for the records. To bring in all that Meyer asked would hamper the operation of the police department.

The court's ruling came after a complaint had been filed by Meyer this morning that city police records of liquor cases had been denied the Federal grand jury. He was accused of being on "a fishing expedition" by City Solicitor C. A. Waldschmidt.

"He doesn't appear to know what he wants," Waldschmidt told the court.

Meyer indicated the trend the investigation is taking when he answered that the government wanted a record of the police magistrates' dockets to learn whether charges and names of defendants had been changed.

Judge Schoonmaker ended the Appeal to Court To Stop Odor From Dump

An injunction against an odor in the exclusive Sewickley Valley residential section was asked in Common Pleas Court today by J. D. Berg, who asserted his estate at Glen Osborne was affected by the condition.

Berg claimed that Julius A. Scott was using adjacent ground as a dumping lot. He asked that Scott be restrained from dumping rubbish into nearby Mitchell Creek.

Lure of Movies Seen in Girl's Absence

The lure of the movies is believed to have impelled Virginia Harper, 17, of Cedarville boulevard, Mt. Lebanon, to leave home. Police in this city and Los Angeles are seeking the girl who is a senior at the Dormont High School. In reporting the disappearance of the girl to police her mother said that she left a note in which she told of wanting a movie career.

COAL PROBE ENDED; LAW CHANGES ASKED

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee's investigation of the bituminous coal strike, which has been under way since February, was concluded today. The final session was devoted to consideration of injunctions, particularly the injunction obtained by Southern West Virginia coal operators prohibiting the United Mine Workers from organizing unions in that field.

The alleged injustice of this ruling was presented by Henry Warrum, of Indianapolis, chief counsel of the union.

Warrum was bitter in denunciation of injunctions restraining the union from attempting by "peaceful persuasion" to ask miners to join the organization.

Warrum asserted that the growth of Communism and contempt of the courts among the strikers could be traced to unjust and un-American injunctions. He appealed to the committee to initiate legislation to curb the injunctive power of the courts.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, chairman of the committee, asked Warrum what legislation he would sugest.

WOULD AMEND TRUST LAW

The miners' attorney proposed the repeal of the section of the Clayton act, which permits individuals to get injunctions, a law providing that federal injunctions shall not be issued against labor unions unless they interfere with the transportation of goods, a law [illegible] "yellow dog" contracts, [illegible] which employers bind their employes not to join unions, and a law providing that injunctions shall be issued only for the protection of property rights, and not for the regulation of human relations.

Spurned Student Slays Dancer, Kills Self as Romance Crashes

MARIE MONTERO

NEW YORK, May 17.

BEAUTIFUL Marie Montero, vivacious dancer of old Spain, is dead, and dead, too, is her fiery Argentinian admirer, Horatio Colombres, scion of a wealthy planter.

Colombres killed the danseuse yesterday in her studio here and then turned the gun upon himself, dying of the wound today in the prison hospital on Welfare Island.

Colombres shot the dancer because she had spurned his further attentions. She had learned that he had a wife and four children in Paris and had ordered him never to speak to her again.

Before the murder and suicide, Colombres, a medical student, wrote this note, which police later found:

"I loved her dearly and I have always loved her. She did not care for me. Life without her is not worth while."

All the while I have been climbing in and out of taxicabs and waiting at the end of trips for drivers to unbutton several coats only to discover they didn't have any change after all.

I don't know exactly what contributed most to my decision to buy a car (Note to auto salesmen—it has been selected) but I believe it was that embarrassing moment when in crossing Fifth avenue at Forty-sixth street traffic was suddenly unloosed.

I found myself jockeying back and forth in front of a taxi in a mad effort to reach the curb. As the taxi finally veered around me and shot away, the Tarzan of the Apes who was driving leaned over the side and with withering scorn inquired:

How do you like the city?"

The next morning I went right out and selected a car. I am told people shop for weeks before making a decision. I bought mine like Karl Kitchen drops in for a hair cut, —not even removing my hat.

On second thought it may be a trimming at that. There is something up near the throc-

BEAUTY PAROLED IN MAIL FRAUD

Small wonder if men fell in love with "Kitty Buckley;" showered her with gifts and even furnished her with money to purchase machinery for her "coal mine." She is 19, and unusually pretty. Some became engaged to her. Loving epistles were exchanged by "Kitty" and admirers in various parts of the country, it was established in Federal Court yesterday. Unfortunately, "Kitty" usually hinted need of money for one purpose or another, often to buy coal mine machinery.

"Kitty" was progressing finely until Postoffice Inspector Gallagher arrested her and her aunt, Mrs. Helen Curykowski, 42, for using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Then the admirers learned they had been "stung," as "Kitty" has no coal mine; no intention of marrying them. Her name is Kathryn Bokanovich. The only reality was her picture.

Yesterday the two women pleaded guilty to writing the "Kitty" letters, and mailing the "victims" photographs of Miss Bokanovich.

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker sentenced Mrs. Curykowski to serve six months in the Westmoreland county jail. Miss Bokanovich was placed under parole for two years and must report to Federal Probation Officer George O'Brien. Both women live in Jeannette.

Auto Runs On Walk, 2 Hurt

A city schoolteacher and a pedestrian were seriously injured shortly after 8 o'clock this morning when an automobile swerved to avoid another car and crashed over the sidewalk and into a porch at South Negley and Friendship avenues.

Mrs. Margaret Hays, 63, of 236 South Negley avenue, teacher in the Wightman Public school, Squirrel Hill, waiting on the sidewalk for another teacher, was struck by the machine, suffering a probable facture of the skull.

Daniel Drummey, 39, of 500 Stratford avenue, was taken to West Penn hospital suffering from probable fracture of his right shoulder and contusions.

The machine, driven by Henry Goldstein, 36, of 5650 Bryant street, bounded over the sidewalk, and crashed into the porch of the home of Mrs. Helen T. Robinson, 300 South Negley avenue, causing $50 damage.

Goldstein was arrested. He and his brother, Ralph Goldstein, a Pitt student, were badly shaken up, but did not require medical attention.

ANOTHER VETERAN, 83, DIES AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 17.—John Johnson, 83, Civil War veteran, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George White, of 75 Fulton street. He was a member of Company E, Seventy-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry. He formerly resided at Monongahela, [illegible] birthplace.

80 SEEK THOMSON POST

More than 80 names have been suggested for the vacancy in the United States Court here caused by the retirement from active service of Judge W. H. S. Thomson, it was said yesterday at the office of Senator David A. Reed.

Senator Reed said he hopes to have the appointment made before the end of the present session of Congress. An effort may be made to have the Allegheny County Bar Association and other organizations confer in an effort to recommend one of the applicants.

B. & O. LAGS ON COAL RATE CUT

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is not ready to go along on the 20 cents per ton reduction in freight rates on coal to the Great Lakes and Northwest, as has been agreed upon by the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads, it was learned yesterday. The Baltimore and Ohio will not make any definite answer until after the new tariff schedule of the two roads has been submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission, tomorrow or Saturday.

It is likely that the Baltimore and Ohio road will agree to a similar reduction in the event that the commission approves of the cut made by the two roads. If the new tariff schedule is approved the reduction of the Pennsylvania and New York Central roads will go into effect June 18. If a reduction is made by the Baltimore and Ohio road it could not go into effect for 30 days.

A reduction of 10 cents a ton on Fairmont, W. Va. district coal and four cents a ton on coal from the Connellsville district are the only changes the Baltimore and Ohio road is prepared to submit to the commission. These rates are to become effective June 18. The cuts were made without restriction as to the destination of the coal. The 20 cent reduction by the Pennsylvania and New York Central applies only to coal consigned to points north and west of the Detroit River.

NEW DETECTIVE CHIEF TO ALTER REGULATIONS

Behind a flower-decked desk in the Central Police Station building, Frank R. Boyd yesterday assumed his duties as inspector of detectives. He succeeds Clyde S. Edeburn, resigned to accept a position with a downtown department store. The new inspector and Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, both made short addresses to the detective force. The inspector said he intended to put several new regulations into effect.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Expenditures in Pennsylvania in behalf of Gov. Al Smith's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination were inquired into late yesterday by the Senate Campaign Funds Committee.

Joseph F. Guffey, state Democratic national committeeman, testified he handled an $11,625 fund for Smith, of which all but $500 has been spent. The expenses were mostly for headquarters maintenance and literature.

Previously the committee examined Smith's heaviest contributors in New York, and heard testimony of Rush Holland, a Hoover worker, that $10,000 had been sent into the South to capture Republican delegates for the Secretary of Commerce.

BELL, JR., ADMITS MAKING MILLIONS

John A. Bell, Jr., testified in Common Pleas Court today that he had gained $2,200,000 in Oklahoma oil deals. Yesterday witnesses testified he had profited by $3,400,000. The testimony came in the suit of James N. Jarvis, trustee in bankruptcy for Bell's father, to obtain the money from sale of the Bell farm.

An 160-page deposition of John A. Bell, now in Allegheny General Hospital, in which he fixed his net worth as of 1923, at $12,000,000, was read to the jury.

Oil men, attorneys and others were put on the stand to detail how the younger Bell had made the money, part of which went into the purchase of the Bell farm, which the father later deeded to his son for $1.

One of the transactions included the sale of leases on 14,000 acres of Oklahoma Oil lands sold to the Roxanna Oil Company. For a time young Bell had a production of 3,000 barrels of oil daily.

He was very successful in the oil business from 1908 for a period of six to 10 years later, it was testified.

clash by announcement that this afternoon he would hear both sides on the government's petition to have access to the records. Judge Schoonmaker admitted the terms of the subpenas served Tuesday on Mayor Kline, Public Safety Director Clark, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh and the police magistrates were rather "broad."

Meyer's complaint was inspired by order of Supt. Walsh late yesterday that government investigators were not to be allowed to study police records unless the examination was made in the presence of city attorneys.

Yesterday a subpena was prepared for service on Clyde S. Edeburn, retiring head of the city detective bureau, summoning him to appear before the grand jury. No inkling came from government officials as to what information is sought from the former inspector of detectives.

John Bukowski, 63, a former Carson street saloonkeeper, was arrested in the corridor of the Federal Building on a charge of perjury yesterday afternoon, a short time after he appeared as a witness before the grand jury.

The warrant was on a complaint filed by a prohibition agent before the United States Commissioner. Bukowski was taken to the office of United States Marshal J. C. McGregor and later released under $2,500 bond pending a hearing before the commissioner. What transpired in the jury room to cause the arrest was not divulged.

I first saw Pittsburgh when I was trembling violently. I had just alighted from a Chicago train early in the evening of a perfect summer day. I was under instructions to proceed at once to Homestead, Pa., and break through the lines of pickets established by the strikers and report to a waiting world the real meaning of the rioting and killing. This was in 1892, and I discover, after some figuring, that 35 years have elapsed since I first saw your town. It impressed me then as being large and formidable and important. I have seen it occasionally ever since, and every time it seems larger and more important and, since this is what you may wish to hear, struck me as being one of the great cities of the world as regards architecture, civic improvements, home pride, and general appreciation of the arts.

WOMAN'S SLAYER IS SOUGHT

THE DAILY PICTORIAL — THE SUN-TELEGRAPH — GENERAL NEWS SECTION

THURSDAY, MAY 17, 1928

With virtually no tangible clues, county detectives today are seeking the person who yesterday shot to death, Mrs. Mary Komatz, 45, while she was alone, working in the kitchen of her home at Epton, Snodwen township. Detectives are attempting to determine if a purse containing about $50, and some jewlery was stolen by the murderer.

Search has failed to reveal the purse, but it is thought that possibly Mrs. Komatz had secreted it. Detectives are inclined to discredit the supposition that robbery was the initial motive of the intruder as the Komatz residence is in the midst of a settled community. It was explained by county detectives that if the purse was stolen it probably had been snatched up by the slayer just before he fled.

The bullets which ended the life of the housewife, were mistaken for railroad torpedoes by persons nearby. There is a branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad a short distance away and torpedoes exploded on the tracks are plainly heard throughout the community. Belief that the shots were torpedoes diverted suspicion and gave the murderer ample time to flee. Doors of the house were locked by the slayer and Komatz had to break down a door before he could enter.

11 COUPLES GLIDE ON IN DANCE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 17.—Eleven couples are still dancing in Fayette county's marathon dance which passed its seventy-ninth hour this morning. The 11 couples were still gliding ambitiously and indications point to little change in the number of dancers during the day. A few complained of aching legs.

Unable to stand the pace, Ed DeJulius, just home from the U. S. Army, and Lenora Curtis, Morgantown, W. Va., along with Benny Zend and Betty Cossack, of Uniontown, quit this morning after 80 hours hoofing.

At noon today the dancers shifted their activities to the Penn Theater and will shift again at midnight back to Gallitin Gardens, the scene of the marathon start. The dancers will be moved in trucks so that no dancing time will be lost.

COMMITTEE TO PRESS STUDENT-CHURCH MOVE

Fifteen local clergymen and representatives of the Carnegie Institute of Technology met last night to discuss a plan to establish more active contacts between students at the institute and the local churches. Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Tech, introduced the plan. It was decided to appoint a committee of faculty members and students to co-operate through the school branch of the Y. M. C. A. The committee will begin in September.

AMERICANS IN BATTLE ZONE

SHANGHAI, May 17.—(AP.)—Northern forces were moving into position today to battle against the southerners threatening Peking as American and other foreign troops prepared to protect their nationals in Tientsin, fearing it would fall into the hands of the Nationalists.

Companies of American and British soldiers, who were beginning their summer training at Shanhaikwan and Chinwangtao, were ordered to return to Tientsin. American marines, Italian and Japanese soldiers barricaded the exposed points in the foreign concession area and threw walls of sand bags about them. Other preparations for the defense of the concessions went forward steadily.

BATTLE ALONG RAILROAD

A dispatch to Rengo, a Japanese news agency, from Peking said the Manchurian adherents of the northern dictator, Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, had decided to launch an offensive against Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, southern (Nationalist) commander. The northern forces choose the Peking-Hankow Railway as the line of their drive and for this purpose Yang Yu-Ting, chief of staff under Marshal Chang, and Chang Hsueh-Liang, the marshal's eldest son, left for Paotingfu, about 100 miles southwest of Peking on the Hankow railroad.

AMERICAN COMMANDS

PEKIN, May 17.—(AP.)—Threatened by advancing Nationalist troops, Pekin was tense today. Larger patrols than usual moved through the streets of the native city and about the foreign concessions.

Preparations for the defense of the legation quarter had been made by the guards, whose senior officer is Lieut.-Col. Thomas Holcomb, United States Marine Corps.

WOMAN FAILS IN SUICIDE TRY

Physicians of the South Side Hospital this morning stated that Mrs. Sally Alukonis, 38, of 1725 Wharton street, who is said to have swallowed poison in the vestibule of the South Side Police Station, probably would recover. After the reputed act Mrs. Alukonis walked into the court room where almost a score of policemen were awaiting roll call. She collapsed and police had her removed to the hospital.

BAST IS FOUND GUILTY

KANSAS CITY, May 17.—(AP.)—Bishop Anton Bast, of Copenhagen, Denmark, was found guilty on two charges of imprudent and unministerial conduct and of imprudent conduct by an ecclesiastical court of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which reported its findings to the quadrennial general conference of the church here today.

OUTSIDE BISHOP

The court, composed of seventeen ministers, sustained the suspension of the bishop following his conviction in Denmark in 1925 on charges involving the alleged misuse of charity funds.

While suspending him permanently from exercising the functions of bishop, the ecclesiastical court continued him in the membership and ministry and recommended provision for his support until the next meeting of his conference, which will be held next spring.

The sentence of the court read:

"While continuing Bishop Anton Bast in the membership and ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the committee suspends him permanently from exercising functions of the office of bishop in the Methodist Episcopal Church."

SCHWAB LAUDS PITTSBURGH IN ADDRESS

Tribute to Pittsburgh as a steel center was paid by Charles M. Schwab in an address last night before members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, at their spring meeting in the William Penn Hotel. A feature of the meeting was the presentation of the Holley medal to Elmer A. Sperry, of New York, inventor of a gyroscope compass bearing his name, and a searchlight which is said to be remarkably effective in fog.

George S. Davison, past president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, was toastmaster. In addition to receiving the Holley medal Mr. Sperry was nominated as president of the organization for the ensuing year, a formality which, it was explained, is virtually tantamount to election.

Besides Mr. Schwab, former Congressman James Francis Burke also spoke. Like the steel magnate he told of Pittsburgh's dominance in the manufacture of steel. The session which began Monday with a council meeting of the society will end today with trips to industrial plants.

FLOOD BILL TO AID PITTSBURGH

The enactment of the Flood Control Bill, signed Tuesday by President Coolidge, means much for Western Pennsylvania, according to a statement made by George S. Davison, president of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh.

The approval of Congress and the President of the 17 recommended storage reservoirs above Pittsburgh will result in the prevention of the recurrence of flood disasters in this city, Mr. Davison declares.

"The Flood Commission of Pittsburgh was concerned actively in the drafting of the bill, and through its efforts certain sections were embodied therein which take care of the local situation," explained Mr. Davison. "It has long been the contention of the Flood Commission that source control of the many contributaries of the main stream was absolutely necessary in addition to such local work as heretofore has been recommended.

"At the time of the great Mississippi River flood in May of last year, the Flood Commission presented a memorial to President Coolidge setting forth its views on a method of arriving at a permanent scheme of flood control. This same plan was later adopted by the Chicago Flood Control Conference and its main features are contained in the flood control law."

The special session, which begins next month, will be conducted in association with Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

ON TRIAL IN MURDER, ADMITS ROBBERIES

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 17.—Wray H. Wormsley, Negro, 23, on trial for the murder of Israel Slotsky, local youth slain as he was leaving the home of a girl friend several months ago, yesterday pleaded guilty to eight robberies when arraigned on the charges during his murder hearing. He will be sentenced at the conclusion of the murder trial.

An alleged confession, in which Wormsley is said to have admitted killing Slotsky with a heavy iron bar, was read into the trial evidence yesterday.

Pep! Every girl wants it. Every girl knows how her physical condition can make her draggy and dull. Yet so often she hesitates about using ordinary laxatives . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's. Correct constipation—now!

COAL BILL REGULATES MINING

ONLY LICENSED PRODUCERS MAY SHIP

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Following is the bill, in full, for the regulation of the coal industry, which Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, introduced in the Senate yesterday:

A bill to regulate interstate and foreign commerce in bituminous coal; provide for consolidations, mergers and co-operative marketing; regulate the fuel supply of interstate carriers; require the licensing of corporations producing and shipping coal in interstate commerce; and to create a bituminous coal commission, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

That a commission is hereby created to be known as the Bituminous Coal Commission, hereafter referred to as the commission, which shall be composed of five members appointed by the President, by and with the consent of the Senate, and one of whom the President shall designate as chairman. The first comsioners shall be appointed for terms of two, three, four, five and six years, respectively, from the date of the taking effect of this act, the term of each to designated by the President; but their successors shall be appointed for terms of five years, except that any person chosen to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the commissioner whom he shall succeed.

"The commission shall convene at such times and places as the majority shall determine. They may appoint a secretary and such clerks, experts, engineers, counsel and other employes as may be necessary to the proper performance of the duties of said commission. The members of the commission shall receive a compensation of $—— per year and also their necessary traveling expenses. Said commission shall promulgate rules and regulations for fully carrying out the provisions of this act, and shall annually make full reports to Congress.

"Section 2. That it shall be lawful for persons, firms, and corporations engaged in the production and interstate or foreign commerce of bituminous coal to form marketing pools and co-operative selling associations for the purpose of agreeing on the market prices of their coals; provided, that such persons, firms, or corporations first apply to said commission for and secure from it a license therefore; such license to be granted only upon the applicant's acceptance of the provisions of this act, and their compliance with the rules and regulations promulgated by said commission for the purpose of carrying the act into effect.

"The commission shall have authority to inquire into all matters touching the mining and shipment of bituminous coal by said pool or association and the members thereof, and to fix the maximum prices which may be agreed upon or charged through the operation of said pool or marketing association. Such maximum prices may be changed from time to time, upon hearing by the commission. Any member of such pool or association may withdraw at any time upon notice to the commission; provided, that if such withdrawing member be a corporation, it shall remain subject to other provisions of this act.

Must Be Licensed

Section 3. No merger, combination or consolidation of two or more corporations engaged in the production and shipment of bituminous coal in interstate commerce shall be lawful without a license therefor granted by said commission; and such license shall be granted only upon the applicant's acceptance of the provisions of this act and compliance with the rules and regulations of said commission promulgated for the purpose of carrying the provisions of said act into effect. The provisions of the Sherman and Clayton acts shall not apply to mergers, combinations and consolidations created and licensed under the provisions of this act.

Section 4. The commission shall have jurisdiction and general control over such marketing pools, co-operative selling associations, mergers, combinations and consolidations. In considering the request for such licenses said commission shall have authority to inquire into all matters relative to the mining and shipping of coal by said applicants, including the quantity of coal to be marketed, the wages paid miners, general production and distribution costs, capital invested and the reasonableness of the prices which may be fixed at any time by such pool, association, merger, combination or consolidation. The commission shall further inquire as to the preparation of applicants for maintaining and their ability to maintain direct selling agencies in their principal consuming markets, and shall provide reasonable regulations requiring the maintenance of such agencies of direct sale to the consumer.

To Fix Prices

Section 5. The commission shall have authority to fix the maximum prices which may be agreed upon or charged by the members of said marketing pools or co-operative selling associations, or by said mergers, combinations, and consolidations, engaged in interstate commerce and licensed under the provisions of this act. Said maximum prices shall be fixed with due regard to fair wages paid for the production of coal and a fair return on the capital invested. Such maximum prices may be changed from time to time, upon hearing, by the commission. At any hearing to fix or change maximum prices the members of such marketing pools and selling associations, or such merger, consolidation, or combination, shall be heard through counsel or representatives of their own choos-

No one is safe!

Immigrant woman or ballet dancer—college graduate or laborer—every one of us, no matter who we are, may offend unknowingly.

An offense that none forgive . . . body odor

An easy way to avoid embarrassment

AN ATTRACTIVE FACE—a fascinating manner—cleverness—what can all our charms avail us if we're guilty of body odor?

We may think we never offend. But we can't be sure. An odor that has become familiar can no longer be detected by our own sense of smell. Yet it's shockingly noticeable—to others.

We have to perspire to live. Even on cool days, our millions of pores constantly give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of odor-causing waste every 24 hours. So why take chances?

Use this deodorizing toilet soap

An easy way to avoid offending—a delightful way that millions enjoy—is Lifebuoy. Just wash and bathe regularly with this purifying toilet soap—it deodorizes pores—keeps you fresh.

Lifebuoy's bland and abundant antiseptic lather keeps complexions radiant, too. And it guards health by removing germs. "Wonderful for every toilet purpose," say women and men everywhere.

Such a clean scent!

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies. It quickly evaporates after rinsing. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

Stop Over-Weight
Others Have Done So

Mrs. J. writes that she healthfully lost several pounds in as many weeks. Her sister is now taking Neutroids

NEUTROIDS is a tonic. You'll realize this when the first few treatments increase your interest in life. Neutroids has helped thousands; it may help you to feel better, look better, and act your old self.

A nationally known female impersonator keeps his girlish figure with Neutroids; pleasantly, healthfully, and easily.

Be thin and strong...it's not impossible, in fact it's altogether probable if you proceed along the scientific lines laid down by Dr. Graham, a specialist in cases just like yours. For over thirty years what is now called Neutroids was Dr. Graham's prescription compounded by chemists for his private patients. Unlike many other preparations, it contains no thyroid. All druggists can supply Neutroids in either the two or six week treatment package.

And Now Our Finer Dresses

An Important Regrouping Tomorrow, at

Following our great event in lower priced dresses, held earlier in the week, we have gone into the stocks of our women's and misses' finer dress sections and made equal reductions there, and tomorrow will offer more than three hundred beautiful and unusual dresses at this one price. The street dresses are of satin crepe, flat crepe, georgette, and a few are of finer printed silks. The afternoon dresses are of georgette, satin, and some are of plain or printed chiffon.

French evening frocks are included in both the women's and misses' groups, and there are also a few exquisite evening dresses of other fabrics. A few of these are soiled.

PRINTS

Are Features of the May Silk Sale

With printed silks the brightest star on fashion's stage this season it is only natural that they should be prominent in the May Sale of summer silks. There are many patterns in many colors on silks of many weaves . . . delightful fabrics for a whole summer wardrobe of prints! Here are a few of them:

Printed Crepe de Chine

$1.45 Yard

A splendid assortment of eminently fashionable prints for all sorts of daytime frocks. Light and dark grounds. 39-inch.

Printed Radiums

$2.25 Yard

About 50 different designs on a wonderful quality of this firm, semi-lustrous fabric. Light and dark grounds. 39-inch.

A group of imported crepe radiums with a semi-visible satin dot, printed in charming small designs. Both light and dark colorings, all delightfully cool and summery looking. 39-inch.

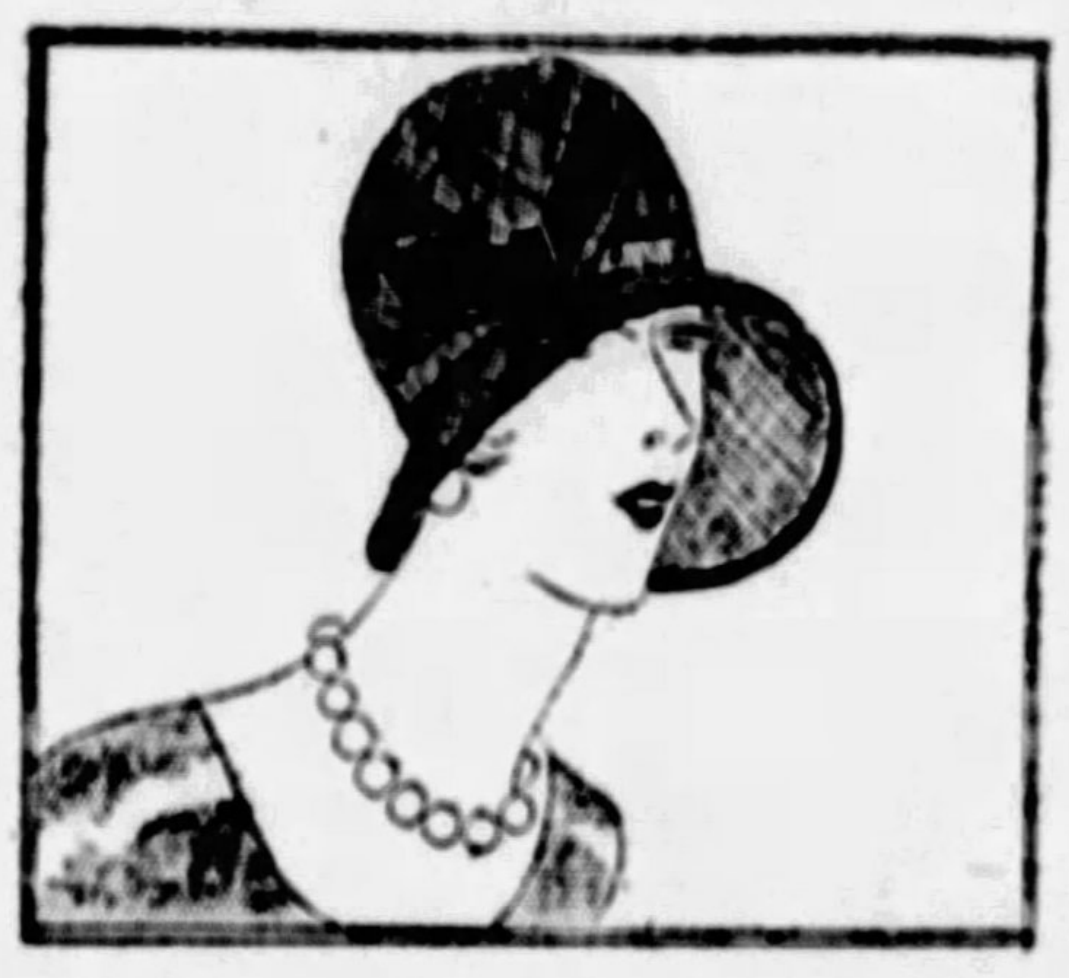
A Summer Millinery Event



Ballibuntl and Other Straws

Featured at $10.00

Besides those of ballibuntl, there are summery hats of

Hair
Leghorn
Crocheted Visca
Milan
Novelty Straw

One of the most eloquent evidences of the special values of this event, is the fact that hats of ballibuntl, much coveted and regularly priced far beyond this figure, are included. They are in street and sports models, in light and dark colors.

This is more than a sale. It is an exploitation of the summer millinery mode, in which new styles, fashionable colorings and new effects in trimming, are presented in hats at a special price.

Finest Grade Worsted

Wilton Rugs

9x12 ft. Size

Special, $87.50

Seamed and Seamless

This group of finest Wilton rugs in popular room size was selected for this special selling.

There are seamless Worsted Wilton Rugs, and a few seamed ones in fine designs and colors.

There are also fine grade central European Seamless Rugs, of blended yarns, in rich Oriental patterns woven through to the back, resembling Orientals.

The designs are richly colorful and decorative, usually on rose, blue, black or beige grounds.

Anyone who knows the beauty and wearing qualities of a good Wilton rug, will undoubtedly find unusual interest in this showing. For these are all good quality, serviceable rugs, in desirable patterns, at a surprisingly low price.

OHIO NAVIGATION TO BE BLOCKED

Navigation on the Ohio river will be obstructed for some time as a result of improvements under way at Louisville, Ky. Notice to rivermen has been issued by the United States Engineers calling attention to the work. The chute between Towhead Island and the Kentucky shore will be blocked completely at its lower end and by falsework under the two south spans of the Big Four railroad bridge after May 23. Falsework also will fully obstruct passage between the first river pier and the shore on the Indiana end of the bridge after June 6. Drawings showing the falsework are on file at the office of the District Engineer, Louisville.

SHE ENDS FIVE YEARS' SUFFERING

Local Lady Finds Ten Herbs a Blessing; Indigestion and Constipation Relieved.

"Although I suffered with constipation, gas on my stomach, headaches and dizzy spells for five years, two bottles of Ten Herbs made me feel like a different person," was the statement of Mrs. Samuel Hoffman, 219 Hawkins Avenue, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this popular herbal medicine.

"I did not know what a good night's sleep was, as I would have terrible pains across my back," Mrs. Hoffman continued. "I surely did suffer from gas on my stomach after eating, and was always belching a great deal. I would awaken in the morning with a severe headache, and had to keep taking some kind of laxative because of constipation.

"After taking Ten Herbs, my bowels are more regular, and the pains have disappeared from my back. I feel fine upon awakening in the morning, and those headaches are a thing of the past. I have also been relieved of gas on the stomach. Ten Herbs gave me such good results that it merits my highest recommendation."

The most common ailments of today are those which arise from the undernourished, half-poisoned condition of the system, which is caused by sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Ten Herbs is widely used and highly recommended to relieve such ailing conditions. Its wonderful natural ingredients not only benefit and invigorate those important organs, but cleanse and revitalize the whole system, eliminating poisonous waste matter and impurities.

Every day the Ten Herbs Man is receiving reports from men and women throughout this section, in which they tell of the great relief this new medicine has given them, and some ask that their statements be published in the daily papers, that others may learn of the merits of this successful preparation.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

TOWNSHIPS ASK ROAD HELP

Hearings on contemplated township road improvements were continued yesterday by County Commissioners and representatives of three townships.

Frazier township wants two miles of Tarentum-Culmerville road hard surfaced at a cost of $184,000; Stowe township requested the county to take over Tunnel way and improve it, and Fawn township wants Tarentum-Saxonburg road, from Bull Creek road to Butler pike, resurfaced.

Commissioners informed the delegations that their requests would be given consideration when the Commissioners meet to decide on what items will be included in the coming $40,000,000 county bond issue.

COAL BILL REGULATES ALL INTERSTATE MINING

ing, and the mine workers shall likewise be heard through their counsel or chosen representatives. The scale of maximum prices fixed by the commission in any case shall be made with reference to the different grades, kinds, and quality of coals marketed in interstate commerce by said licensee, and should any licensee feel that any such maximum price is unreasonable or confiscatory, it may apply to the District Court of the United States in the district in which its mines or a par thereof are located, asserting by its bill of complaint the unreasonable and confiscatory nature of such maximum price. A copy of the proceedings had before said commission shall be filed with said court, and 30 days notice of said proceedings shall be given the commission, and such District Court of the United States shall have jurisdiction to review the finding and order of the commission with respect to such maximum price or prices complained of, and, if they are found to be unreasonable or confiscatory, to adjudge and require the commission to set aside its findings and make further and additional orders with respect to such maximum price or prices.

Section 6. No corporation not engaged in mining and shipping or in shipping bituminous coal in interstate or foreign commerce at the date this act goes into effect, shall thereafter be permitted to engage in interstate or foreign commerce in bituminous coal until it has applied for and secured a license from the commission permitting it so to do, and said license shall be granted only upon applicant's acceptance of the provisions of this act and its compliance with the rules and regulations promulgated by said commission for the purpose of carrying this act into effect. And any corporation now engaged in mining and shipping or in shipping coal in interstate or foreign commerce may apply for and receive such license upon 'accepting the provisions of this act; provided that no corporation now engaged in mining and shipping or in shipping bituminous coal in interstate or foreign commerce may claim or exercise the right and privilege granted hereunder of becoming a member of a marketing pool or co-operative selling association, or of consolidating, merging, or combining with other corporations as above provided, unless it file with the commisison its application for license and its acceptance of the provisions of this act within three months after the act goes into effect.

To Inspect Coal

Section 7. The mining and interstate and foreign commerce of such licensees shall be supervised, encouraged, and promoted by said commission, which shall make suitable regulations for inspecting, analyzing, and grading the coals marketed by said licensees in interstate and foreign commerce, coal so graded to be known as government-graded coal, and the commission shall furnish information of the character and service ability of such graded coals to domestic and foreign purchasers and consular agents of the United States.

Said commission may inspect the mines of said licensees and shall have authority to recommend methods, inventions and devices for increasing the safety of the miners and developing economies in mining operations. The commission shall have authority to recommend to departments and agencies of the federal government coals of such licensees in accordance with the requirements and fuel qualifications required by such federal departments and agencies.

Said commission shall study and encourage the economical distribution of markets between said licensees and the development of joint or co-operative selling agencies, yards, and docks which said licensees may desire to use.

The commission shall study the problem of exporting coal and the bunkering of ships and shall make such reasonable rules and regulations as will promote the export and bunkering trade of said licensees. Said commission shall investigate and report to Congress concerning the importation of coals into the United States.

Railroad Fuel

The commission shall investigate the fuel service of railroads engaged in interstate commerce, including the qualities required, the tonnage consumed, and the prices paid for such railroad fuel, and shall make reasonable rules and regulations governing such fuel service as will prevent discrimination between coal mines or coal fields, and for such purpose said commission may consider the fuel service of railroads during the past ten years, together with the price paid therefor, and may further determine relative costs of railroad fuel coal by consideration of the commercial traffic rates on such coal over the distance it must be transmitted from any mine or mines to the fueling point on such railroads.

It shall be the duty of such licensees and their employees to exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning wages and working conditions and to settle disputes in connection therewith: and in the making of such agreements the licensees may negotiate through an operators association, and the employees shall be entitled to deal collectively by representatives of their own choosing without interference, or coercion exercised by their employers. No such licensees shall make it a condition of employment that the employee shall not join a labor union, but the right of the mine workers employed by such corporations to organize and maintain their union shall not be denied or abridged.

Section 8. Any license granted under the preceding section may be revoked by the commission upon a hearing with thirty days notice to the licensee, upon proof that such licensee has failed or refused to comply with the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations of the commission promulgated to carry the act into effect, and it shall be thereafter illegal for the party whose license was revoked to ship bituminous coal in interstate commerce.

Illegal Shipments

Section 9. Any shipment of bituminous coal in violation of the provisions of the preceding sections of this act is hereby declared to be illegal, and for each day's shipment of bituminous coal in violation of the foregoing provisions the offender shall be fined in a sum not less than $1,000 nor more than $5,000.

Section 10. Every corporation engaged in mining and shipping bituminous coal in interstate or foreign commerce, at the date this act goes into effect, and declining to accept the provisions hereof and to comply with the rules and regulations of said commission, shall apply for an secure a secondary license from the commission permitting it to continue in such interstate or foreign commerce, the granting of which license shall be conditioned upon the said corporation agreeing to and accepting the following conditions:

"If any such corporation desired to employ only non-union mine workers, its employes shall be free to terminate their employment and join a labor union at will, and no contract of employment which is intended to impair this right shall be lawful; said employes shall have the right of asemblage for the purpose of peaceably discussing and hearing discussed principles of organized labor and collective bargaining; the employes of such corporation shall be paid in lawful money of the United States and be free to purchase their necessities of life where they choose; said employees shall be entitled to select a check-weighman to inspect the weighing of their coal and the weights and scales used by said corporation for the purpose of determining the wages of its employes shall be open to inspection by the agents of the Bureau of Standard Weights and Measures of the United States or of this commission; and said corporation shall make anual report in the manner to be prescribed by said commission.

No such corporation after the date above fixed for securing a secondary license shall be permitted without such license to engage in the shipment of bituminous coal in interstate or foreign commerce, and any shipment made by such corporation without the license herein provided for shall be illegal, and upon conviction thereof such corporation shall be fined for each day's illegal shipment a sum not less than $100 nor more than $1,000.

After the granting of such license the commission may revoke the same at a hearing, with thirty days' notice to the offending corporation, upon proof that such a corporation has refused to comply with one or more of the conditions upon which such license was granted.

Section 11. After the taking on of this act no railroad or carrier shall build any siding or switch, or cut its lines for any siding or switch to any bituminous coal mine or tipple until after it has received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission so to do, and such permission shall only be granted upon approval of the Bituminous Coal Commission.

Section 12. Should any part of this act be held unconstitutional it is the purpose and intention of Congress that the remainder thereof shall continue in full force and effect.

Section 13. There is hereby authorized to be appropriated the sum of $——, or so much thereof as may be necessary prior to the passage of the next general appropriation act, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act.

Take a Spring Tonic
for a very GOOD REASON

You feel sluggish—lack pep—appetite gone, you do not care to eat when you should enjoy your meals — pimples and boils may appear. You need an alterative tonic.

Why it should be S.S.S.

Because S.S.S. is the one remedy tested by time and perfected by science, which has been demonstrated by the experience of literally millions of satisfied users and by scientific tests in clinical laboratories to increase the appetite and build up to normal the count of red cells in the blood. This is the true basis of health and strength — the bright eyes, the clear unblemished skin, the glow and joy of bodily vigor, and resistance to disease.

POISON-OAK
(Poison Ivy—Thunderwood)
We believe that S.S.S. will cure acute cases of poison-oak poisoning and will build up an immunity against further attacks. This belief is based on scientific reasons and is confirmed by such experience in actual cases as we have been able to collect. But we wish to be sure of success in all cases before beginning to advertise it as a specific for this ailment. Try it and write us your experience.

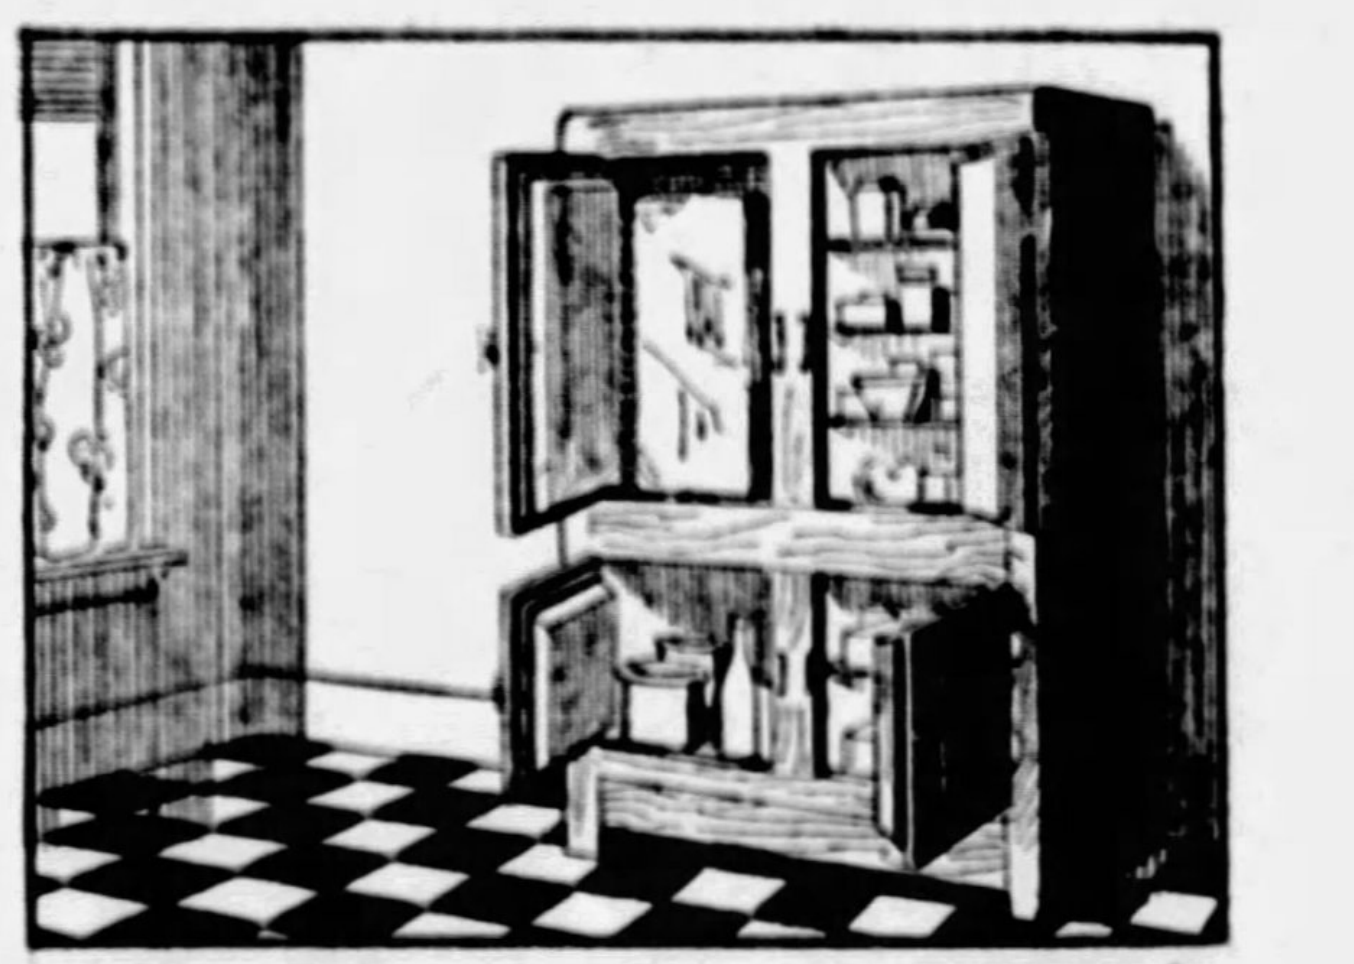
REFRIGERATION

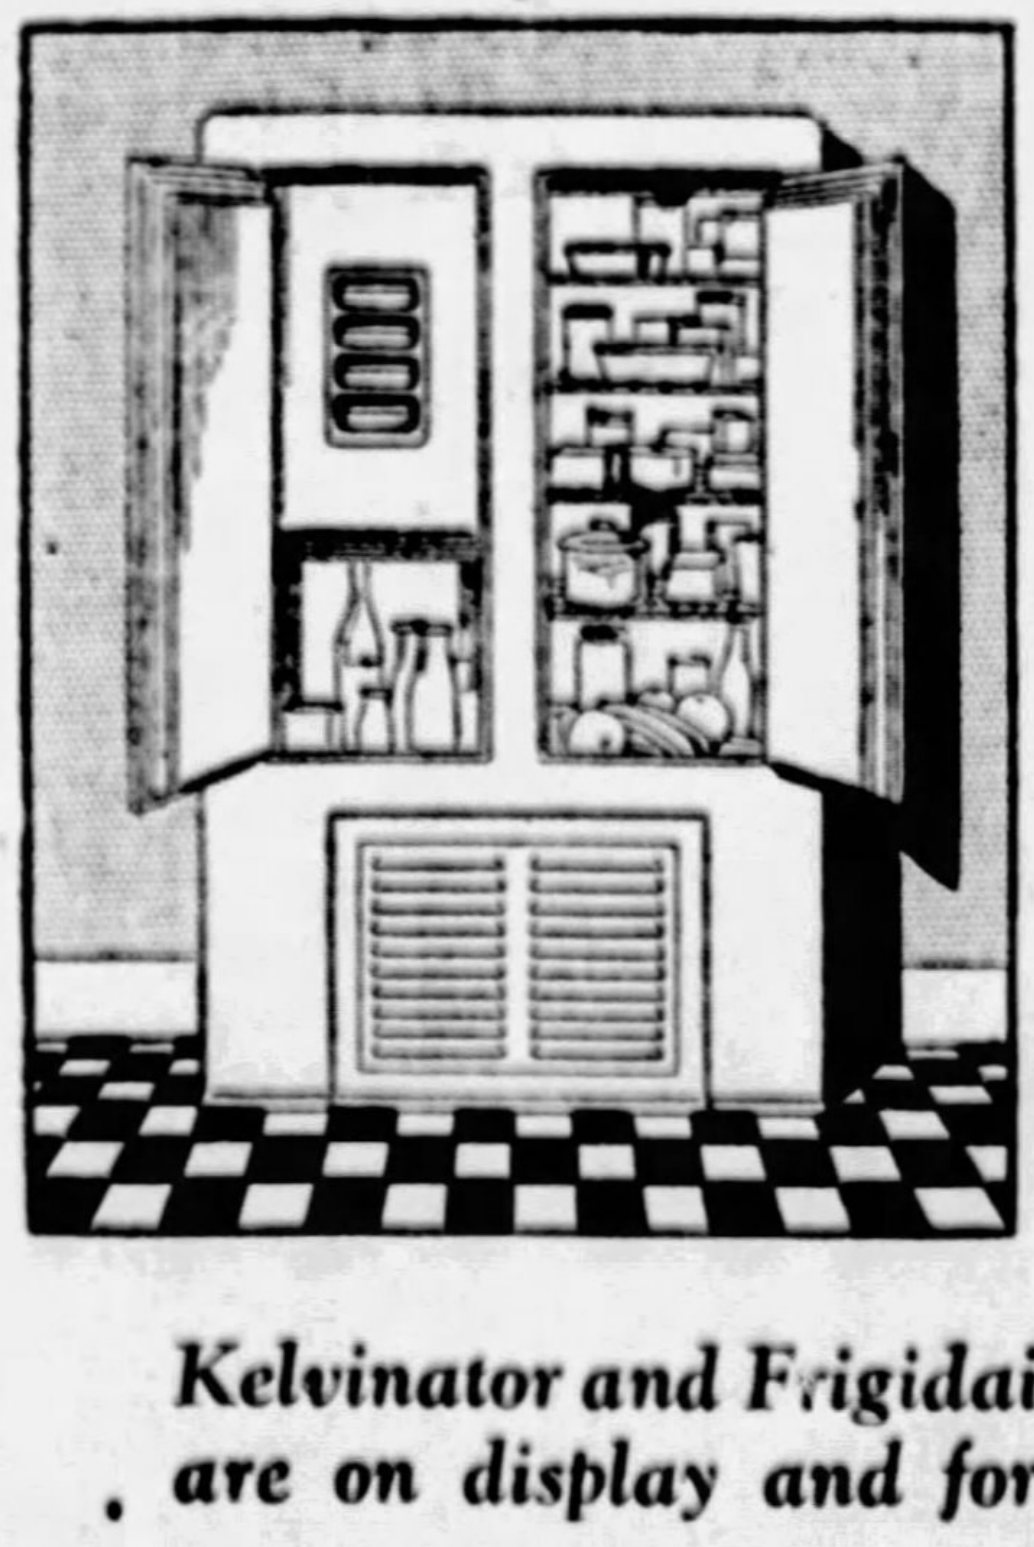
Necessary in Every Home for Health and Economy

SINCE the world began, the preserving of food has been a problem both in business and in the home. The cave man found that he could preserve a supply of food for several days if placed into a deep cool corner of his cave. In the progress of civilization cellars, wells, and springs have played an important part and with the invention of the insulated ice box and the storage of ice, came indeed an advance in the methods of refrigeration. Later came the adoption of electricity for both the manufacture of ice and for the operation of mechanical refrigeration in the home.

In Pittsburgh the Duquesne Light Company Serves 23 Manufacturers of Pure Ice



ON every street of Pittsburgh you will find their companies making ice deliveries. Prompt and courteous service is the slogan of the Pittsburgh Ice Manufacturing Association. You will use less ice and keep your refrigerator cooler if you keep the ice compartment well filled at all times.



Refrigeration in the home operated with Duquesne Light Company Service is another form of dependable refrigeration service for preserving food and making ice for table use.

Kelvinator and Frigidaire Electric Refrigerators for the home are on display and for sale in our Gas and Electric Shops

How To Be Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

Lace and Loveliness

IT is pleasant to note that there is a distinctly feminine trend in fashions this season—a return to the beauty of ruffles and lace, roses and chiffon.

Still more significant, women have ceased trying to imitate the figure of a boy. Nature is always beautiful. Just to the extent that a woman perfects her naturalness of hair, figure, complexion and manner, she is enchantingly lovely. It is when women deliberately make themselves hard and artificial with the aid of dyes, heavy paints, posing and distorted fashions, that they appear as hideous masks of their lovely selves to eyes that discern clearly.

Nature has made both men and women good to look upon, when they are healthy and wholesome. But the loveliness of woman is as different from the good looks of man as a rose is from an orange, a sun flower from an orchid. A woman loses all her individual charm and makes herself ridiculous when she apes the characteristic manner, mode of dress and appearance of men.

That is why the trend of fashion toward the distinctly delicate, lovely and feminine in figure and dress, toward the natural in hair and complexion, without loss of fundamental freedom, comfort and healthfulness marks a great advance.

For sports, of course, severely plain costumes will always be worn. But on dress occasions, frocks are to be more ruffled and flounced, lacy and ribbon-decked than they have been since the war.

You will, if you are wise, let your hair grow longer to suit this less-severe fashion, not long necessarily, but with longer, looser waves, not plastered down like your brother's. Rouge will be used far less obviously. Very light makeup is always advisable in hot weather, but is especially suited to the subtleties of this season's fashions.

Try to get your skin into wonderful condition, with velvety texture and refined pores. Glorious health, with perfect elimination, will be the first requisite. Drink six or seven glasses of water flavored with lemon juice daily. Eat less of fried foods and heavy meats, more chicken, fish, fruit and fresh cooked and salad vegetables.

Select a first-class face powder and apply it evenly on wisps of absorbent cotton, which can be thrown away afterward. In addition to scrupulous daily cleansings, a Turkish bath every three or four weeks should improve your complexion, refining skin pores. And don't forget your morning settingup exercises. The body needs to be supple and symmetrical, to look well in flimy chiffons and georgettes.

Here is an excellent all-around exercise to add to your list. It should help to build that natural girdle of muscle about your waist to keep it trim: Stand erect, with your arms out at your sides. Now raise your right arm straight above your head, keeping your eyes on it as it goes up.

At the same time, bend your left knee and lower your left arm until your left fingers touch the floor between your feet. Return to the first position slowly and reverse the movement by bending your right arm and lifting your left.

The woman who stands well, carries herself gracefully and wears clothes well, is she who keeps her body supple, strong and slenderly-curved by means of wholesome food and abundant exercise.

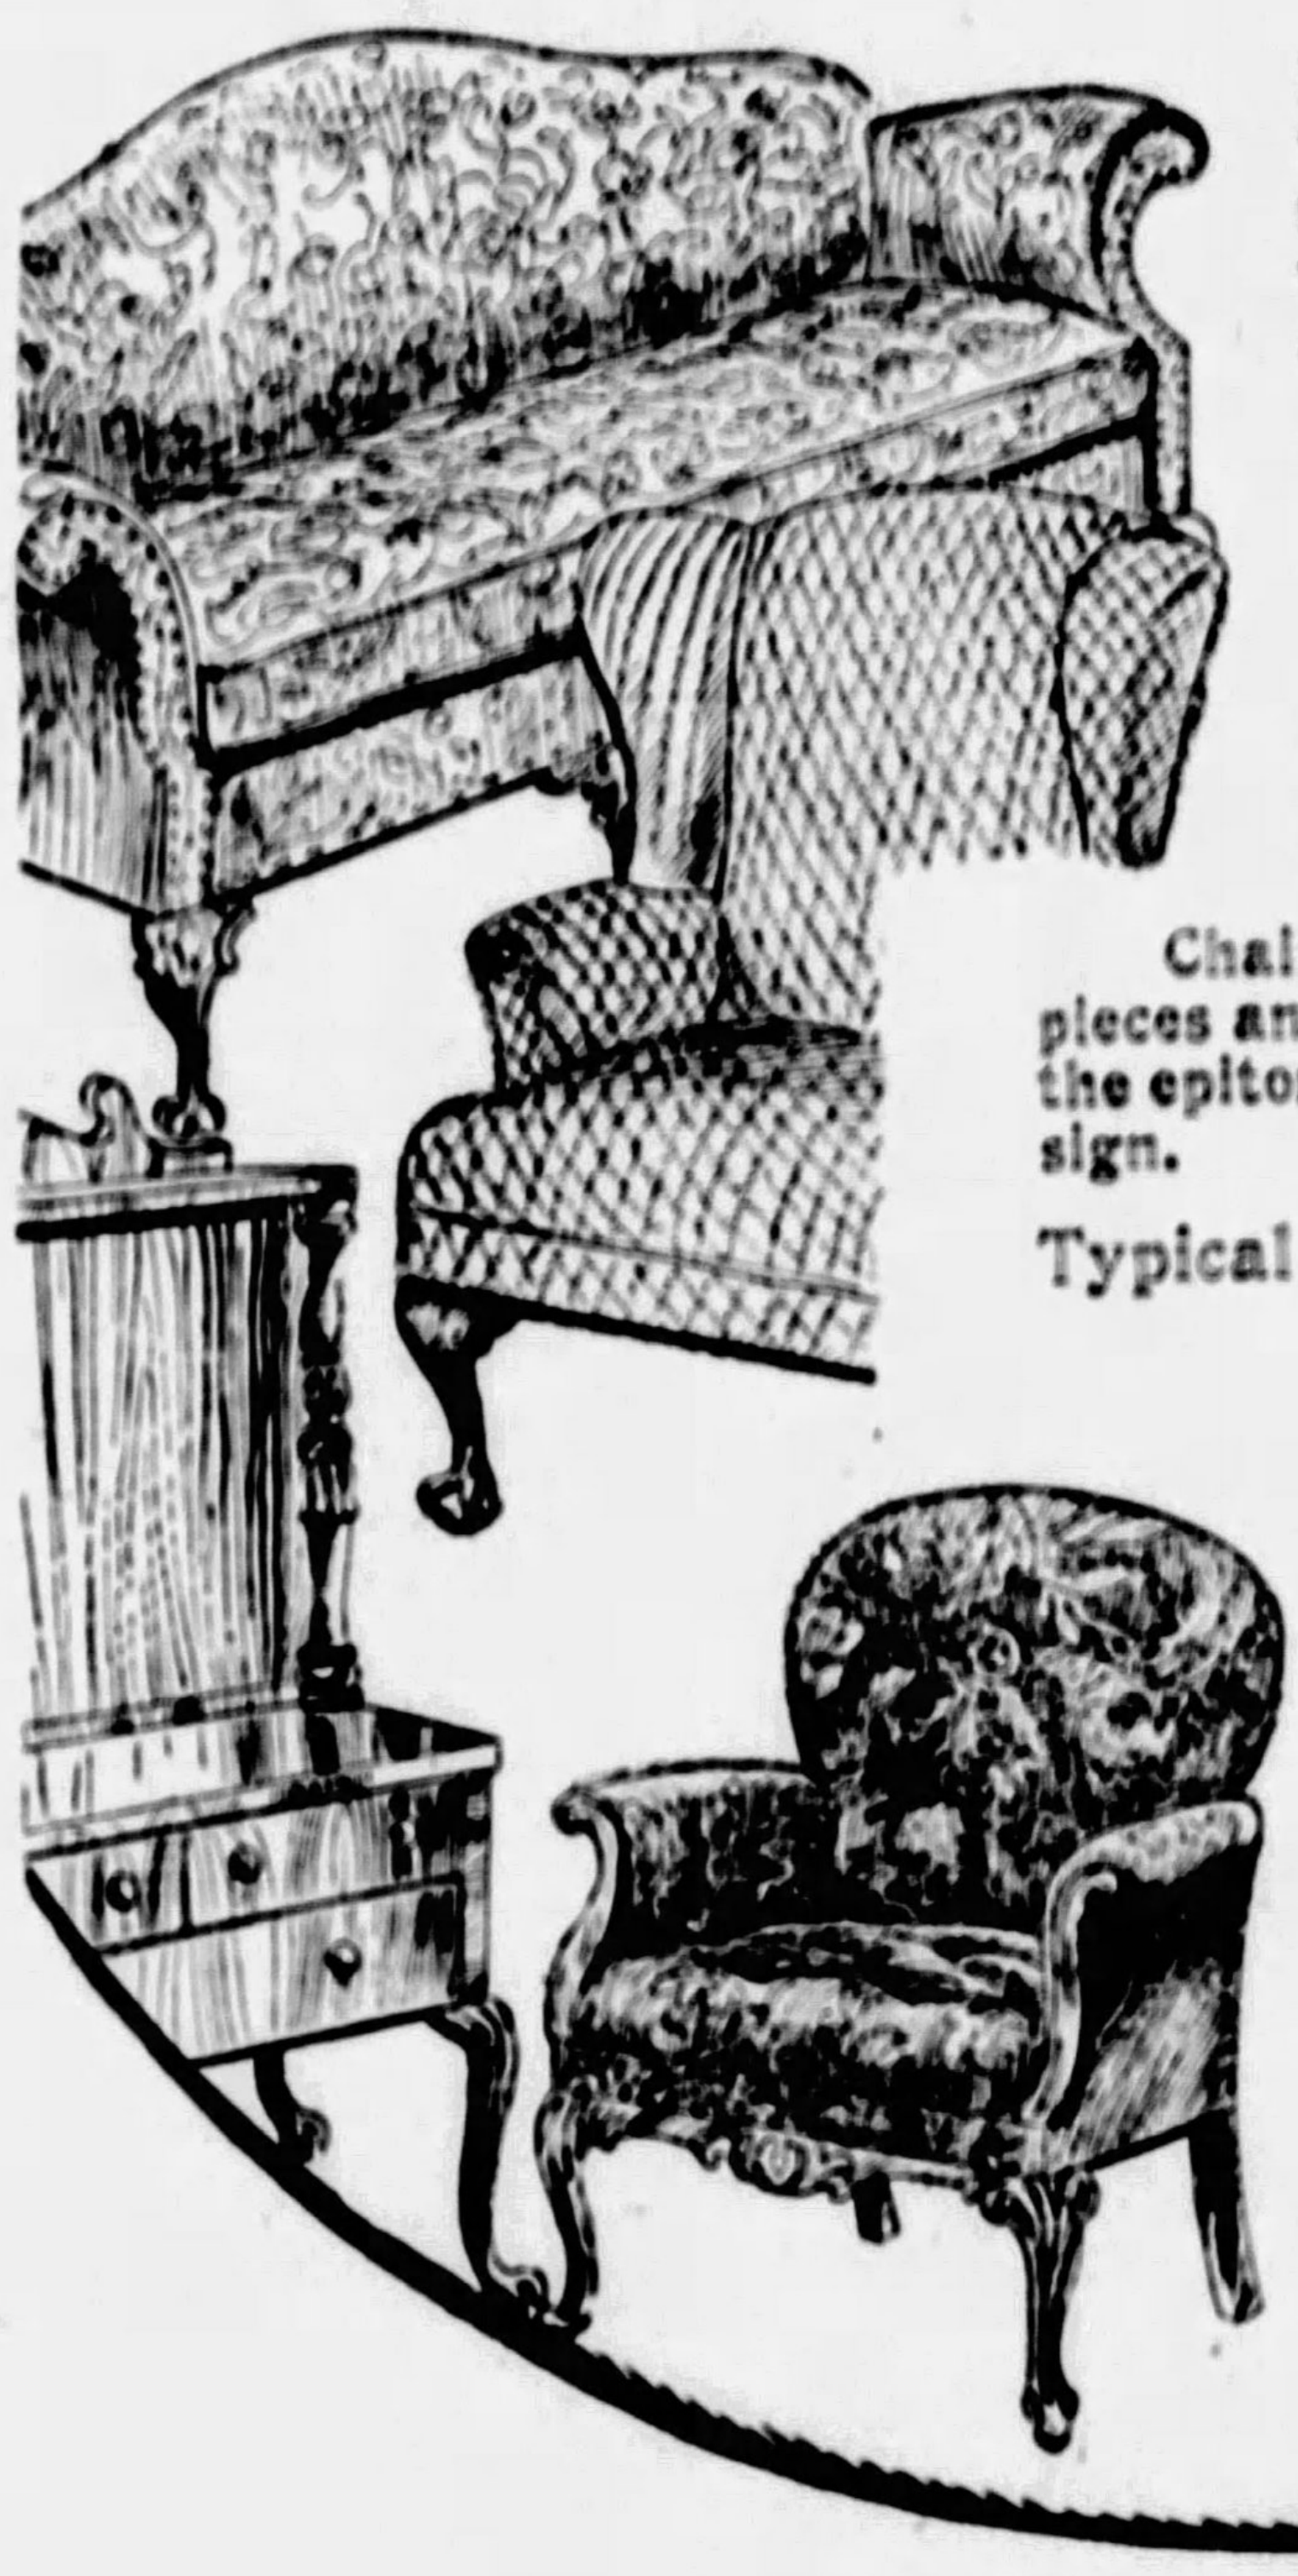
McCreery Furniture is Known for Style... Individuality.....Quality!

ON THE EIGHTH FLOOR
Living Room Furniture



The living room, nucleus of the home, is worthy of companionable furniture...furniture which will mellow with increasing years, finally to be handed down as the heritage of a new generation.

An Entire Floor Devoted to Occasional and Living Room Furniture

The entire Eighth Floor (patrons have told us it is the best looking furniture floor in Pittsburgh) has been given over to living room furniture.

Chairs, tables, desks, davenports, occasional pieces and suites are here in profusion—each piece the epitome of comfort and of grace in furniture design.

Typical of the High-Type Pieces Offered:

A sofa in modified Spanish design, covered with fine antique green brocaded tapestry. The cushion is full length and down filled—legs are hand carved mahogany. $325.00

The arm chair, with tufted back and seat, is done in imported linen frieze. Frame is carved mahogany. $110.00

The wing chair, a Chippendale design, is covered with figured denim. $43.75

The solid mahogany drop-front desk is an authentic Chippendale reproduction. $225.00

Home is an intimate medium of self expression...a place of comfort, cheer and tranquility.

How natural, then, that McCreery's should comb markets for furniture of discriminate taste and unquestioned quality ...whereby individuality and refinement in the home might be expressed.

Furniture Expertly Wrought—Designed True to Style—Exquisitely Finished —such is the reputation of McCreery furniture...such it will always be.

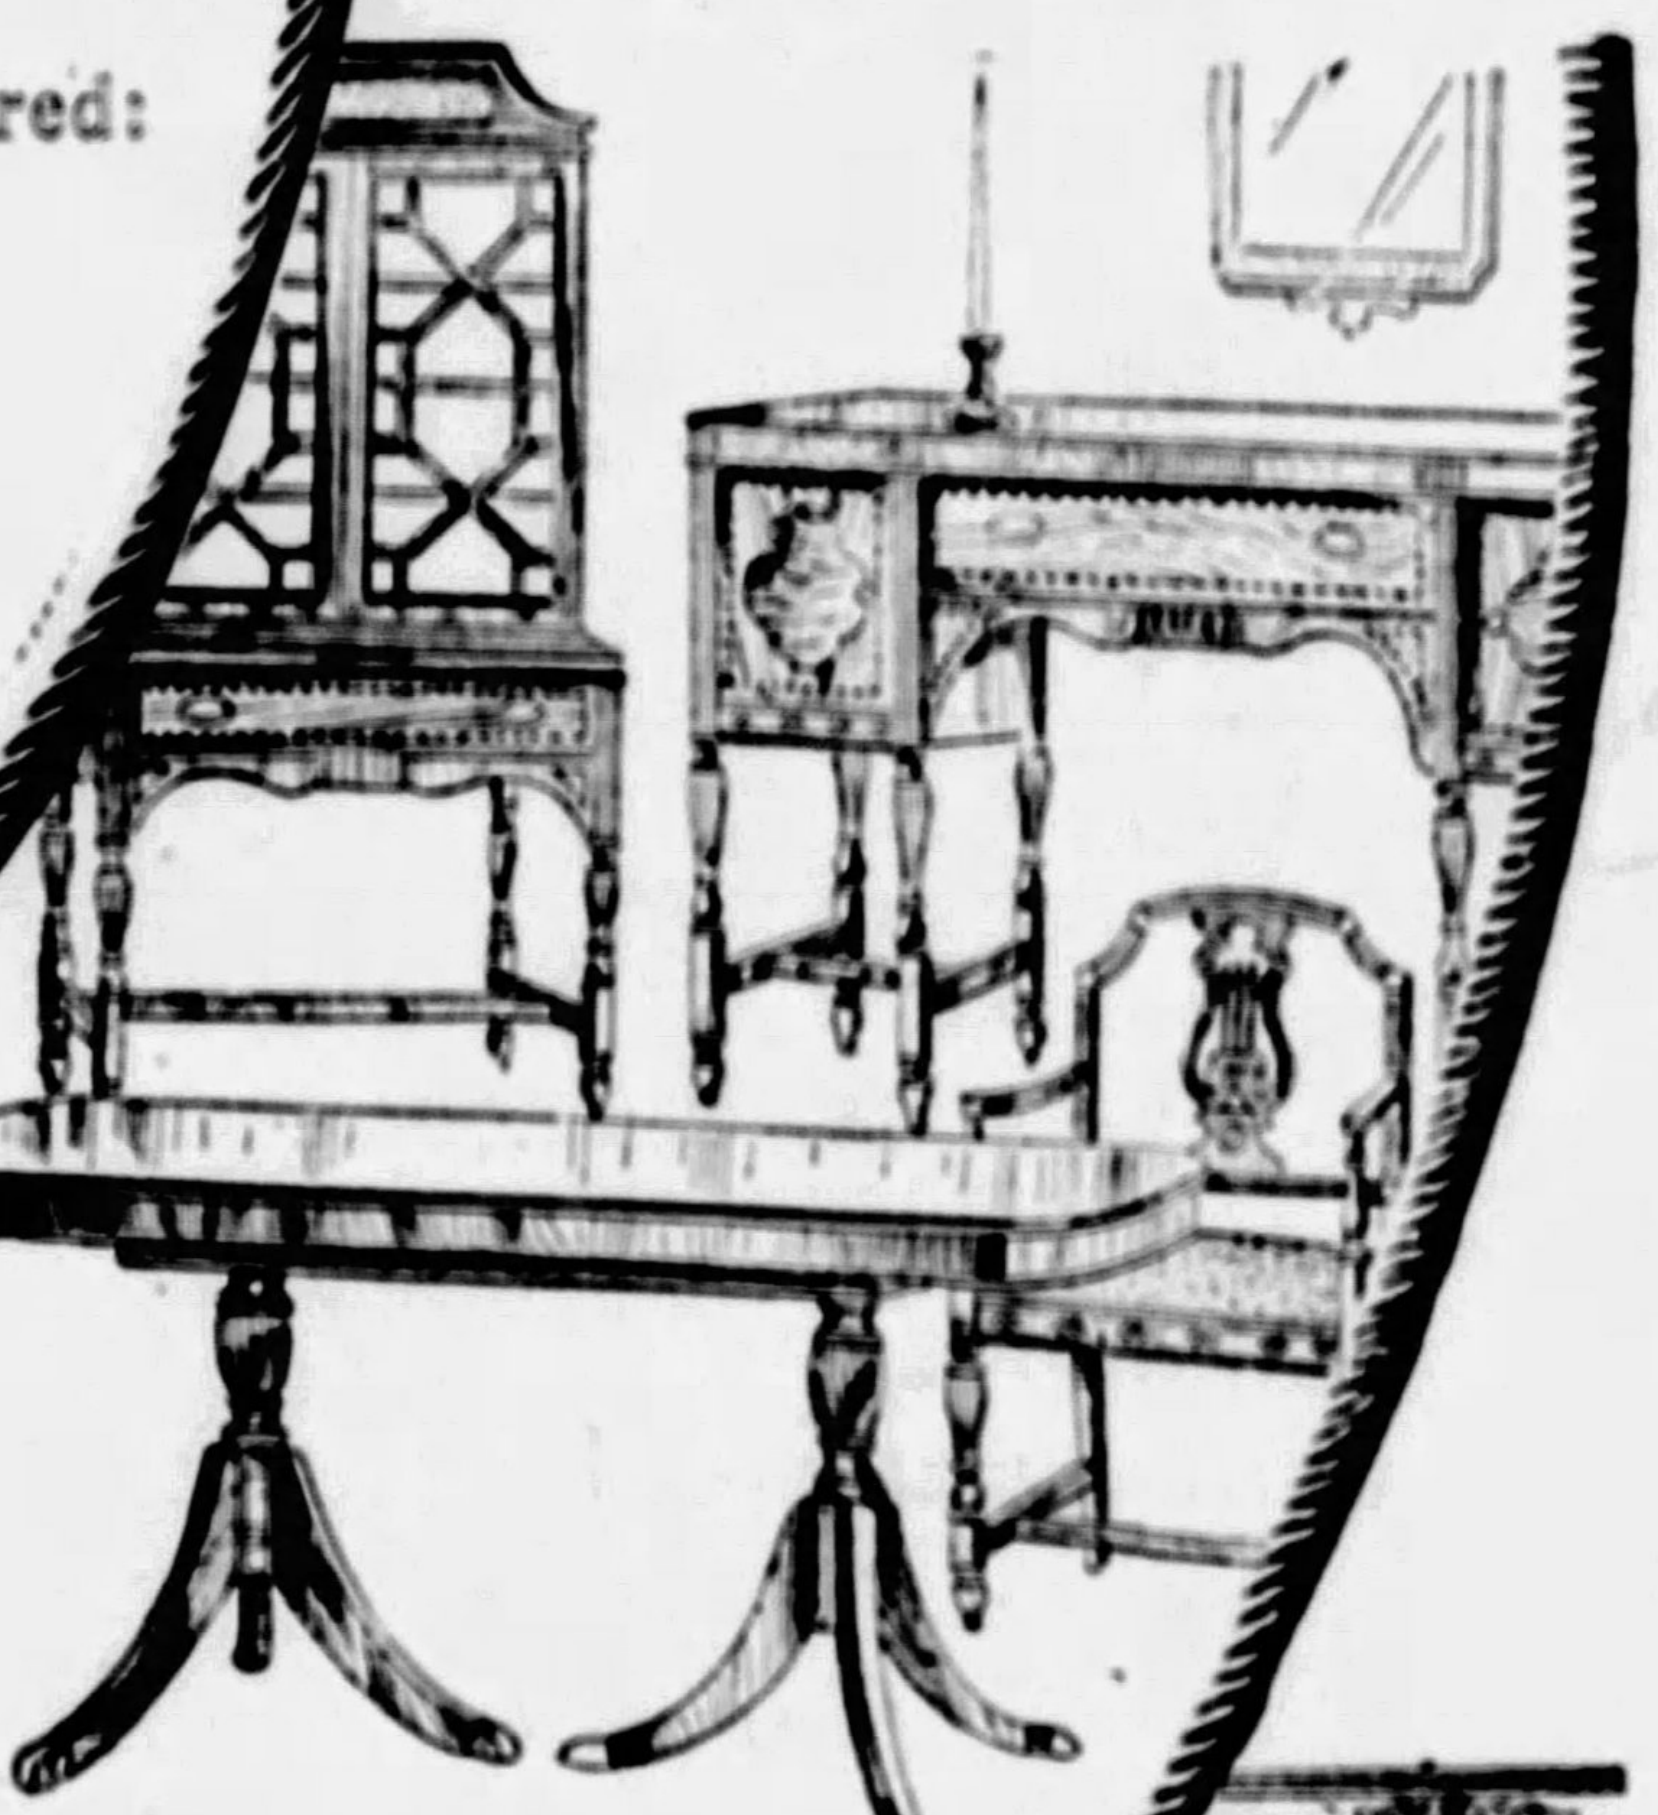
Three Floors of Furniture Here for Your Selection

Furniture for every home—for every room.



ON THE TENTH FLOOR
Dining Room Furniture

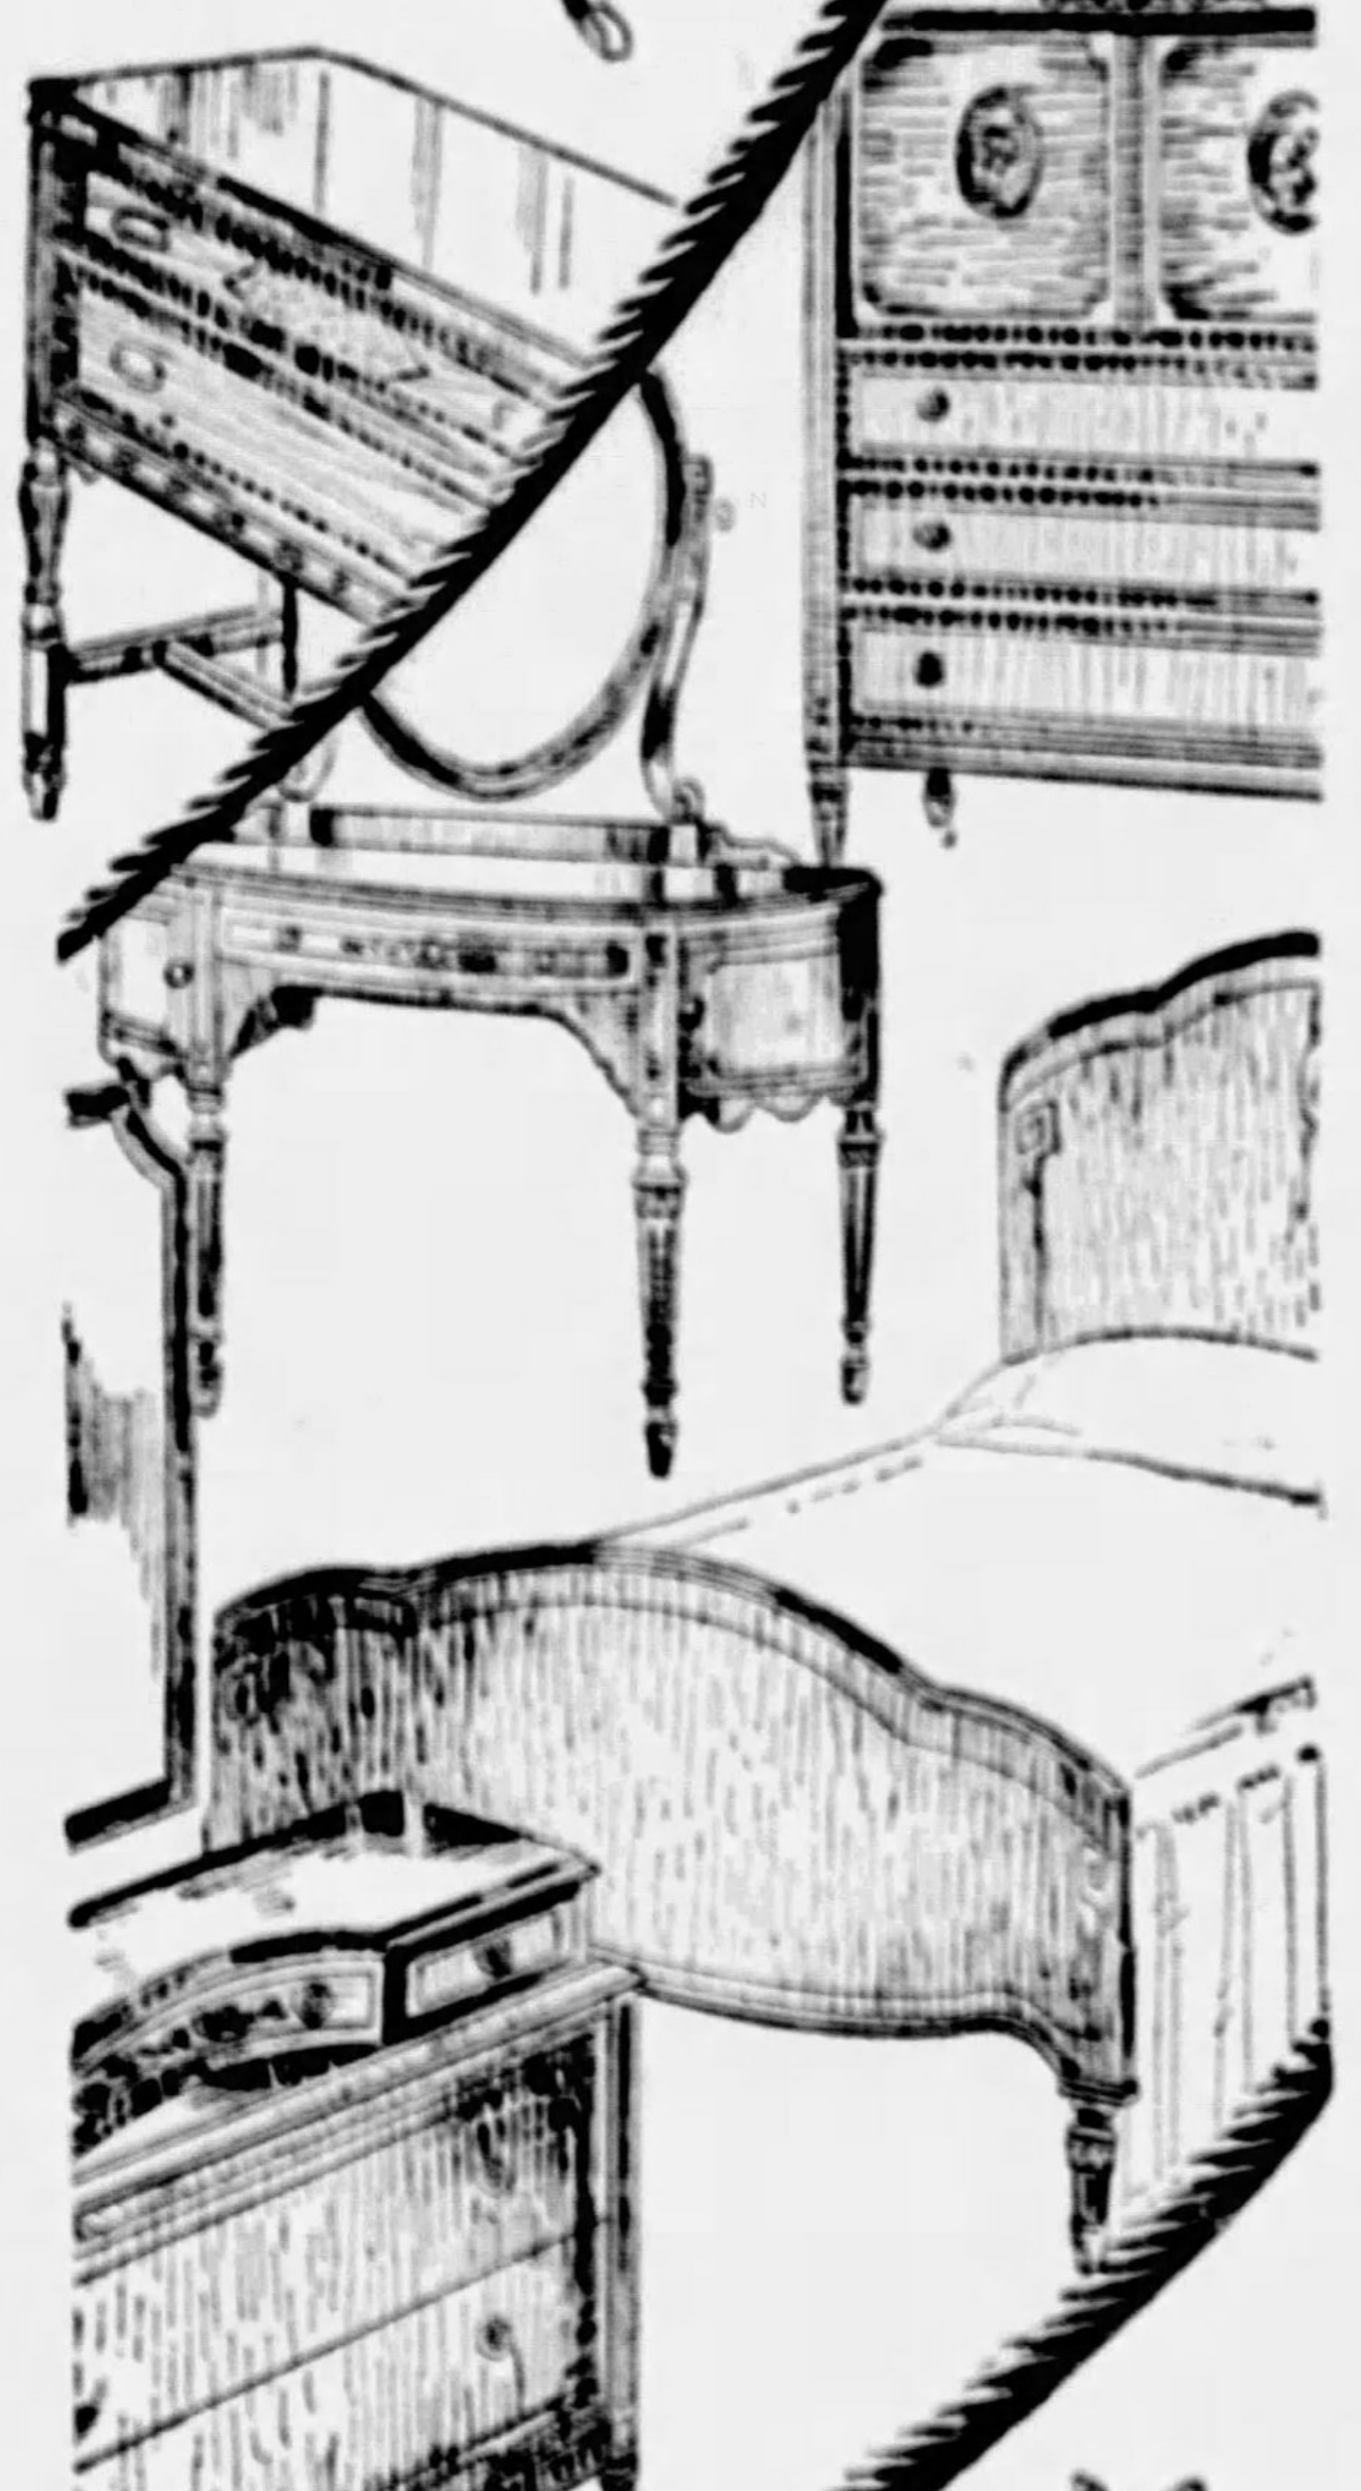
Period and modern treatments for the small dining room or the salon of lavish proportions...with plenty of emphasis on the needs of present day apartments.

Some faithfully reproduce the creations of history's master designers...others modify them to the tempo of the times...still others breathe an originality that marks them the products of contemporary craft.

Whatever your preference—period, modified-period or modern—you may be sure the suite you choose at McCreery's is correct, gracious, practical — fitly picturing to your guests the genuineness of your home's hospitality.

Duncan Phyfe Dining Room Suite Illustrated

An example of the moderately priced modified-period suites is the ten-piece Duncan Phyfe pictured at the right. All exposed wood is mahogany—the panels and drawer fronts delicately inlaid with ebony and hollywood. $552.00



Bedroom Furniture

Bedrooms of every size in every type of home may be artistically furnished from the generous display on the Tenth Floor. Here again period and modern designs are interpreted in fine cabinet woods, staunchly joined, and finished with soft, satiny surfaces.

Walnut, mahogany, satinwood, maple and gumwood in many combinations offer a various selection of media—natural, decorated and lacquered effects offer an equally diversified choice of finish.

Sheraton Bedroom Suite Illustrated

A particularly attractive ensemble is the eight-piece modified Sheraton suite in curly maple, its panels and drawer fronts hand decorated with floral designs. Consists of twin beds, night table, dresser, chest, dressing table, bench and chair. $797.00

ON THE ELEVENTH FLOOR
Wicker Furniture

Fine fibre and reed suites and occasional pieces for sun rooms, living rooms and porches—a selection so great that we have given over a large part of our Eleventh Floor to the display. Most charming among the recent arrivals is the new stick reed furniture, one group of which is sketched here:

The settee, chair and rocker are upholstered in striped linen crash. The two tables are unique in construction and round out a setting wholly modern in spirit not to say smart in appearance.

NEW HARRIS THEATER FOR M'KEESPORT

The Harris Amusement Companies will begin at once the erection of a modern theater at Fifth avenue and Market street McKeesport. It will cost in excess of $750,000, and will represent the most modern ideas, both in theater construction and operation.

Preliminary plans have already been drawn by John Ebertson, of New York and Chicago. Mr. Ebertson's plans provide for a seating capacity on two floors of 2,486, with wide aisles, commodious foyers, and opera chairs of the most comfortable type.

The policy of the house will be the presentation of de luxe moving pictures. It will, in no way, conflict with the policy of the J. P. Harris Theater at McKeesport, where Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville is given in conjunction with motion pictures, nor with the smaller Harris-State Theater in Fifth avenue.

GRANDMA AND HER BOYS -:- NOVELTY -:- COMEDIAN AND FAMILY

Grandma Bernle is Margaret Mann, former extra, now star in "Four Sons," film version of "Grandmother Bernle Learns Her Letters." The handsome young men are (top) Francis X. Bushman, Jr., and James Hall; bottom, Charles Morton and George Meeker. The young men share honors with Miss Mann in the film.

No blonde is this young woman. Neither is she one whose hair turned white from fear. The lass is Dolores Del Rio and that white hair is one of those novelty wigs.

Here we have Harold Lloyd, as is, proving the famous specs are only part of the make-up. With him the wife, former Mildred Davis, and their young daughter.

Zita Johann, Theater Guild Player, May Get Portrayal In "Show Boat" Picturization

By REGINA CREWE

(Copyright 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, May 17.

IF HARRY POLLARD has his way, the leading role—that of "Magnolia"—in Universal's film version of "Show Boat," will be played by a young woman who has never been in pictures. She is Zita Johann. Zita has been on the stage, principally with the Theater Guild, for several years. She is one of many who took screen tests for the role during Director Pollard's recent New York search. And at present it looks as though her test has secured the job for her. Zita seems to possess all the requirements, including an excellent voice which is necessary because of the sound accompaniment which the film is to have.

There has been a shake-up in the routine of directors at First National. And it looks as though Bill Seiter, Laura La Plante's husband, and Mervyn Leroy, the kid director who is married to Edna Murphy, are scheduled to benefit by it. Seiter has created quite a furore since he left Universal and Reg. Denny's comedies to direct a dramatic vehicle with Colleen Moore. The new lineup gives Seiter "Waterfront" and "Synthetic Sin"—the latter with Colleen. Leroy, whose latest film, "Harold Teen," is considered great guns for the box office, gets "Children of the Ritz," with Jack Mulhall and Dorothy Mackaill, and "Bluffers," which will star Alice White. These will follow immediately after Leroy completes "Oh, Kay," which is Colleen Moore's next. Alice White's first starring film will be "Show Girl," and Al Santell will wield the megaphone according to the new plans. Leroy is also scheduled to do "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," which should be one of the pictures Colleen will make under her present contract prior to the rumored move over to United Artists.

Mathew Betz, that very villainous screen menace, is looking forward to some busy days. Betz is cast in the Warner Brothers film, "Terror," which will be Vitaphoned throughout. "Terror" is a mystery drama now playing in London, and in its cast will be May McAvoy, Holmes Herbert, Louise Fazenda, Alec Francis and Joseph Gerrard. Betz is also the First National choice for a role in "Oh, Kay," in which George Cooper will have a part, too.

When Jack Dempsey gave a thought to a likely chap to play opposite him in the fight sequence of the Belasco show, which he and Estelle will do this fall, he thought of an old-time pug by the name of Jack Leon, whom he had seen in Hollywood. Jack set out to give Leon the job, but found that under the name of Ivan Linow, which he was really christened, the former fighter holds a five-year Fox contract and is one of Winnie Sheehan's most prized players. They say the huge Linow is a wow in "The Red Dancer of Moscow," and out-MacLagiens MacLaglen in the roughneck type of role. Incidentally, Dempsey seconded Linow in his biggest fight, and years later Linow did the same for Dempsey.

The best test of self-confidence is whether or no a star will put his own money in his pictures. So give the self-confidence palm to Johnny Hines, who will sink his role on "The Girl Friend"—the picture, of course. It is positively to be made with some talking device. Musical comedy is Johnny's old racket, as you may remember if you recall him as the bell-hop comedian in Emma Trentini's show, "The Firefly." Present plans include the signing of a New York musical comedy star possessing a "big name" to play the girl part in Johnny's picture. It's a bit early for predictions, but don't be surprised if you find the Hines films released by Fox.

TECH WOMEN TO HAVE PLAY-DAY TOMORROW

A play-day for all women of Carnegie Institute of Technology, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Carnegie bowl from 4:30 to 9:30, it is announced. The program will include baseball, volleyball, archery, tennis, track events and roller skating, with any girl student on the campus eligible to compete. At the conclusion of the athletic activities, a camp fire will be made as an incidental feature to the serving of a supper. The program to follow will include the installation of officers of the Women's Athletic Association board for next year, and the awarding of letters, pins and numerals to students who have earned them during the past year in athletic competitions.

O'Neill Winner of Award Thrice

The awarding of the current Pulitzer prize to Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" shows that Glenn Anderas, of the cast of "Strange Interlude" has played in two other Pulitzer prize plays, "Hell Bent for Heaven" and "They Knew What They Wanted."

Philip Moeller, who directed "Strange Interlude" directed another Pulitzer prize play, "They Knew What They Wanted." The Theatre Guild, which produced "Strange Interlude," also produced "They Knew What They Wanted."

Mr. O'Neill is the first of the dramatists to win the award three times.

KENNEDY NEW HEAD OF KEITH INTERESTS

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP.)—E. F. Albee yesterday announced that Joseph P. Kennedy, president of F. B. O. Pictures Corporation, has been elected to the newly created office of chairman of the board of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum Circuit of theaters. Albee remains as president and the Keith interests and associates, still retain control of the company.

Prior to his election, Kennedy acquired a large interest in the K-A-A Corporation in association with a group of bankers, including Blair and Company and Lehman Brothers.

Kennedy entered the motion picture business actively two years ago when he bought F. B. O. Pictures Corporation from the British banker owners. He recently effected an affiliation between F. B. O. and the Radio Corporation of America, under which the Radio Corporation became a substantial stockholder in F. B. O.

EVANGELISTIC SINGER TO APPEAR IN CONCERT

Homer Rodeheaver, evangelistic singer, will give a concert in Soldiers' Memorial Hall tomorrow evening. He will be assisted by Mrs. Ruth Rodeheaver Thomas, soprano soloist, and Paul Beckwith, accompanist. The concert is to be held under the auspices of the Allegheny County Christian Endeavor Union. This organization's chorus of 200 voices will have a part in the program.

PLAYS, MOVIES NEXT WEEK

Percy Kilbride, who played a comedy detective in "The Gorilla," has been brought here by Manager George Sharp to play a similar part in "Wooden Kimono" in the Pitt next week.

"The King of Kings," biblical spectacle of the screen, will remain in the Alvin just one more week, beginning Monday night, May 21, and seats are now on sale for all performances. There are two performances daily.

Seats are on sale in the box office of the Nixon for the opening of the summer stock company Monday night, May 21, when the Nixon players will present "The Man Who Came Back," a comedy drama in four acts and five scenes.

Arthur Byron of the legitimate stage, assisted by his wife and two daughters will appear in a one-act playlet, "A Family Affair," in the Davis next week.

The Stanley announces "The Miracle Woman" will appear next week as a special added attraction in the stage revue, "Venetian Nights." The photoplay will be Billie Dove in "The Yellow Lily."

"Cameos," a John Murray Anderson revue, will be the stage attraction in the Penn next week. Tommy Wonder, a diminutive dancing star, is one of its features. Karl Dane in "Circus Rookies" will be seen on the screen.

Zelaya, son of a former President of the republic of Venezuela, who was deposed by revolutionists, is one of the two headliners booked for the Aldine next week. Zelaya is a pianist. On the screen will be Lionel Barrymore in "The Thirteenth Hour."

"Partners in Crime," underworld melodramatic comedy, co-stars Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton. It will be shown in the Grand next week.

"Red Hots" will be the burlesque next week in the Academy. The cast includes Chubby Drisdale, Gabey Fields, Lina Thomas, Hap Freyer and Billy De Haven.

In the Harris next week will be the Gibb Sisters, America's Siamese Twins. On the screen will be Jean Arthur in "Wall Flowers."

Lawrence Gray and Lois Moran are coming to the Olympic screen next week in "Love Hungry."

Bert Lytell, screen star, will appear in person in the Sheridan Square next week in a playlet, "The Valiant." The screen features will be "Flying Luck" and "Love Hungry."

RIVER EXCURSIONS TO WEST VIRGINIA PARK

Travel on the three rivers this year is to include excursions to Rock Springs Park, Chester, W. Va., the steamer Homer Smith having booked a number of trips to the resort. The first of the all-day excursions to the down river amusement park will take place on Decoration Day. Patrons of the boat will get a 100-mile ride, arriving at the park about 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon and leaving it at 5 o'clock. The boat will pass through five locks and through country that abounds in scenery, it is pointed out, leaving its mooring at the foot of Smithfield street at 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

To All Who Suffer Stomach Agony, Gas and Indigestion

May's Drug Stores Make This Offer

Money Back If One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin Doesn't Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used.

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness and bloating that you think your heart is going to stop beating.

Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy.

You think, perhaps, you are suffocating.

You are dizzy and pray for quick relief—what's to be done?

Just one tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all?

With this wonderful medicine you can overcome indigestion or dyspepsia, or any abnormal condition that keeps the stomach in constant rebellion and one bottle will prove it.

Over 6,000 bottles sold in one small New Jersey town in one year—and the best druggists the country over concede that its phenomenal sales are due to the fact that the most stubborn chronic cases are promptly conquered. Ask for Dare's Mentha Pepsin, a pleasant to take, health-building stomach elixir that May's Drug Stores and regular pharmacists anywhere in America guarantee.

ECZEMA CAUSED DISFIGUREMENT

Affected Knees and Elbows. Cuticura Heals.

"Eczema broke out in red spots which scaled over and affected my knees and elbows, later spreading to other parts of my body. It caused disfigurement and also itching, and sometimes I lost my rest on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted about four or five months.

"I used other remedies but received no benefit whatever. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about three weeks I could see an improvement. I continued the treatment and now I am completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. George W. Secor, R. 1, Box 13, Delmar, N. Y.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are ideal for daily toilet uses.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. R, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

REAL ESTATE

D. A. Crone has purchased from the Point Improvement Company the northwest corner of Center avenue and Dithridge street, Oakland, for $67,270. A new apartment is planned. The lot fronts 150 feet on Center avenue, 250 feet on Dithridge street and is 126 feet deep at the rear. The Nicola Realty Company handled the transaction.

John McGraw, of the P. McGraw Wool Company, has purchased the Mark D. Kuhn residence in Fox Chapel road, O'Hara township, for $45,000, according to reports heard among brokers. The property includes five acres opposite the Fox Chapel Country Club.

Sheppard & Myers, Inc., of Hanover, Pa., have leased to the Brasley-Krieger Shoe Company of Pittsburgh, a building at 506 Market street, between Fifth and Liberty avenues, for a long term at an aggregate rental of more than $200,000. The Horner Real Estate Company were the brokers.

A store and three apartments at 1609 Wylie avenue have been sold for Andrew Reagan to Thomas Aloe, who deeded in part payment a property at 6800 Frankstown avenue. The Auslander-Krasnow Company were the brokers.

In Wilkinsburg, a two-story brick building containing two stores and four apartments at the corner of Penn and Trenton avenues, has been sold through T. W. Irwin for Harry Israel to I. Golden for $55,000. The lot is 75x100 feet.

A double duplex dwelling in Wentworth street, Beechview, has been sold through the Squirrel Hill Realty Company, Inc., for T. C. Wetzel, to Leo Buncher and Israel Safyan for $22,000.

In the East End, M. J. Sweeney sold for Andrew Bradley to Albert Carrier, a 9-room brick house and two-car garage at 1126 Portland street, for $13,300; for Dr. M. A. Cohen to M. B. Brinkley, a 10-room brick house and two-car garage at 5544 Baywood street, for $15,500, and for Frank Israel to John M. Villella, a 10-room brick house at 527 North Negley avenue, for $14,500.

A new five-room bungalow on 30x100 feet at 2725 Norabell street, Brookline, has been sold for Trinkler & McLay to William T. Bretch, for $6,400, and a new six-room brick house on 37x120 feet in Home avenue, South Hills, has been sold for D. McRoberts to Gordon S. Lovett for $6,500. The sales were made by F. J. Breen, of the South Hills Realty Company.

In Mt. Lebanon, the Stevenson, Williams Company sold for Edwin Bruce to J. J. Dillon, a lot 60x236 feet in Longue Vue Drive, Beverly Heights plan, for $3,500.

Building permit applications included:

Tenth Ward—Boharts & Goldstein, brick and tile dwelling, 610-12 Chislett street, $9,000.

Nineteenth Ward—J. E. Renler, brick dwelling, 1600 Westfield street, $6,500; I. Swanson, brick dwelling, 2060 Pioneer avenue, $5,500.

Twenty-eighth Ward—F. Posy, brick dwelling, 1470 Barr street, $6,000.

Our Newly Enlarged Pittsburgh Store—The Richman Annex Vastly Increases Our Selling Space

Pittsburgh men know value when they see it — constantly growing sales compelled us to buy the lease of our next door neighbors and add their space to ours. This enabled us to double our stocks, and give better service to a greater number of buyers.

And Pittsburgh has responded with another big increase in sales. All previous records for May were broken last week — and we are more determined than ever to justify Pittsburgh's confidence in Richman's Clothes by offering still greater variety for selection, still greater value, still better service.

Our new sales floors and our big display windows are filled with the finest clothes we have ever produced in half a century's continuous operation — new models, new weaves, new shades, all freshly received from our own factory. We are proud of these clothes and want all our old friends to see them.

To men who have not yet experienced the satisfaction and economy of wearing Richman's Clothes, we issue this special invitation — come in and get acquainted; see for yourself the style, quality and value that have made Richman's Clothes the talk of the entire country. You will not be urged to buy — but we venture the opinion that you will want to buy when you see the value we give for $22.50 — any suit, topcoat, sport suit, or tuxedo suit in our entire stock at one standard price.

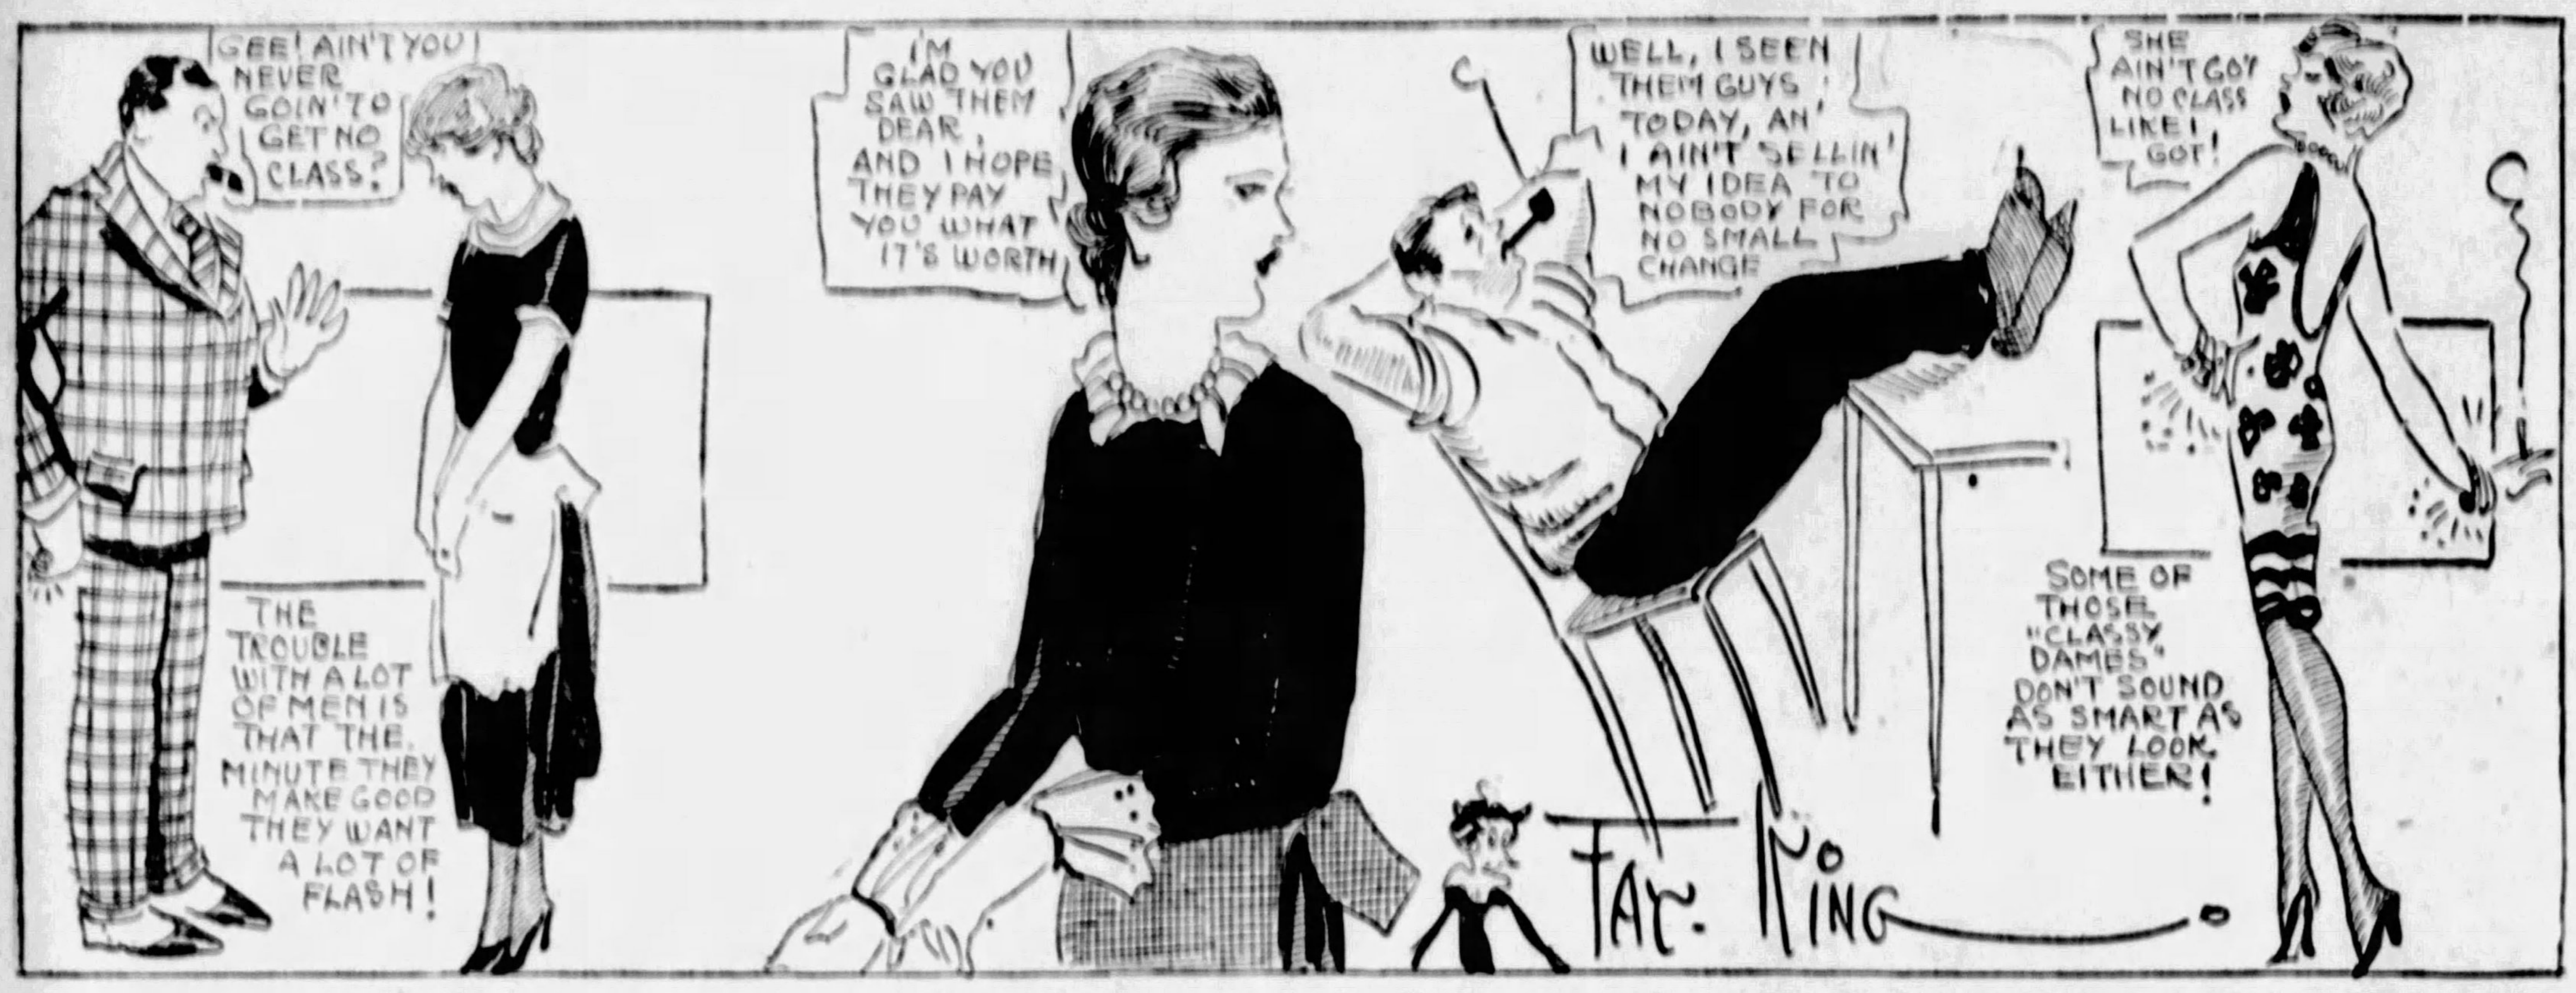
Fay King Moralizes on Self-Made Husbands



GEE! AIN'T YOU NEVER GOIN' TO GET NO CLASS?
THE TROUBLE WITH A LOT OF MEN IS THAT THE MINUTE THEY MAKE GOOD THEY WANT A LOT OF FLASH!
I'M GLAD YOU SAW THEM DEAR, AND I HOPE THEY PAY YOU WHAT IT'S WORTH
WELL, I SEEN THEM GUYS TODAY, AN' I AIN'T SELLIN' MY IDEA TO NOBODY FOR NO SMALL CHANGE SHE AIN'T GOT NO CLASS LIKE I GOT!
SOME OF THOSE "CLASSY DAMES" DON'T SOUND AS SMART AS THEY LOOK, EITHER!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

"TOO bad, but you see his wife couldn't keep up with him!"

That's the silly excuse you so often hear when one of these self-made successes deserts his sensible wife for some little clothesrack who can parade his prosperity!

The truth in most cases is that his wife did not have to keep up with him—she was ahead of him all the time!

It has been my observation that in most humble beginnings it is the wife who so eagerly improves herself and masters the little social graces. It is the wife who reads and speaks the more fluently and has the mental ambitions.

But when financial success comes to some of these self-made men, they suddenly go in for Turkish baths, manicures and snappy suits.

They begin to prefer blondes who are showy.

But many of these "classy dames" do not sound as smart as they look. That is probably why they can "understand" these flashy guys better than the wife who has advanced beyond him in ways he is not able to appreciate or understand.

U. S. OFFICIALS TO VIEW RACE

Three of the honor guests invited to attend the national balloon races at Bettis Field, McKeesport, on Memorial Day, have already accepted invitations, race officials announced today.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis has notified he will be present to follow the flight of the Army and Navy balloons entered. Edward P. Warner, assistant Secretary of the Navy, wrote that he intended to fly to Pittsburgh in a government plane. Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the Air Corps, United States Army, is expected to be present to lend moral assistance to the three army teams.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

SURGING TORRENTS By EUDORA R. RICHARDSON

CLARA opened her eyes amazed to see pale sun light filtering through the tender green of the April trees. There should not be sun light today. It should not be May when her heart was leaden like November skies. She realized that she had slept during that half-hour when darkness turns to dawn. The house was deadly still. She was alone in her room, little and forlorn, in her grandmother's great tester bed.

Perry, then, had not come home. He had never been so late before—never out the whole night through with the gay crowd that consumed time he should spend with his wife. Clara closed her eyes to the golden day that had dawned about her and again tried to blame herself. Perry was younger than she. The war had broken her resistance of three years, had made it seem right to marry a mere boy who had not yet had his little fling. He was having it now—Perry who had loved her once, whom she loved with agonizing mingling of romance and maternalism.

In the next room nine-year-old Junior was sleeping. The struggle to keep him from knowing about his father must soon be stopped by defeat. Perhaps she had not tried hard enough to stay young with Perry. Yet, she had tried desperately it seemed. Bridge, dancing, drinking night after night with people whose emptiness was expressed in a language she could not learn. Clara at thirty-five, loving her books and her fireside, longing for quiet evenings at home, recognized the chasm that lay between her and the care-free young things of Perry's set who played all night. Perry at thirty was experiencing a renewal of adolencence.

A key turned in the lock of the front door. A step stumbled on the stair. Perry stood at the foot of the bed, heavy-eyed and shaken. Through Clara swayed the yearning, which of late could never be satisfied. She loved this handsome, boyish husband of hers as women through all ages have loved what was theirs, in spite of derelictions, in spite of faults.

"Don't look at me like that!" Perry muttered. "I'm tired of nagging looks."

Clara turned her head away. Perry had been drinking. He was not responsible for what he said. She must not listen—must not mind if she heard.

"I'm no petticoat appendage. Gotta have some fun," he continued. "Whatadja have me do—sit around readin' Brownin'?"

"Please, Perry! Junior's in the next room," Clara implored. "Get a little sleep, dear."

"Want the boy to hear. He oughta know his dad's no mollycoddle." Perry's voice resounded through the stillness of the house. "Junior, come here! See your dad's emancipation."

Clara leaped out of bed and covered Perry's mouth with a firm, cool palm. Perry flung her from him just as the door opened upon a tousled little figure in striped pajamas.

"Mother—dad—what?" gasped the boy.

"Go back to bed, Junior," Clara commanded.

"Stay here," roared Perry. "Stay so you can remember your dad's a man. Out all night. Thas the life. Out all night."

Perry's eyes widened in amazement.

"Dad's drunk," he said deliberately. "I saw a man drunk once before."

"Go!" repeated Clara, and the boy obeyed.

Quieted by his triumph, Perry flung himself across the bed and slept. In dazed agony Clara dressed. In her thinking she had reached an impasse. She would think no more. She must go on living without thinking, without feeling, numb, dead—

Breakfast for Clara and the boy was a silent meal. What Junior thought she would never know, for she could not ask. After the boy left for school, Clara mechanically took up the routine of the day—the grocer's list, the planning of meals. At 10 she tried to draft an article she had been asked to write. Thoughts, however, would not be marshaled. A failure could have nothing to say that would interest others. The one piece of work she most earnestly desired to do right she could never accomplish without Perry's help. If she failed to make a man of Junior, nothing else mattered, nothing at all. Clara covered he face with her hands, shaken with sobs that left her eyes dry and her throat aching.

Some time during the morning Perry came into the living room and found her so. He was quite sober, cool and composed.

"Say it, Clara," he said. "Say it, but for Heaven's sake stop looking it."

Suddenly it was as though the flood gates had been opened.

"Night after night, Perry, lying awake wondering where you are," she said. "Day after day trying to keep it all from Junior. Then falling like this. The boy is all we have. He loves you, admires you. What is to become of him?"

"Oh, he'll probably be a chip off the old block," Perry shrugged.

"Then I want to die now. I can't live to wait up for Junior as I have waited up for you night after night."

"Help yourself then," Perry said coolly. "My pistol is in the secret drawer of the desk. It's loaded."

Madness, fury, breaking above the dam that had held it so long. The cold steel in her hand. Perry smiling, not caring. Junior to follow in his father's steps. The muzzle against her forehead. Perry's face. Perry leaping toward her—caring. Her finger on the trigger. Blackness. The end of it all . . .

Flames consuming her— inaccessible water leaping, leaping. Groping through the dark. Perry nowhere. Calling him, loving him. Junior, struggling, dying, lost. Perry never near to save him—Perry—Perry, who had not grown to be a man, held by childhood, irrevocably. Then Perry's hand cool and firm. A voice reaching her for the first time in eons.

Perry was there. Clara ceased calling his name to listen. Clearer his voice came to her. Perry was weeping. Darkness had lifted. She was lying in bed. Perry knelt by her side, pressing his cheek against her hand. He was talking to her, begging her to hear him, saying that he loved her, that he was ashamed.

"It's all right, dear," Clara whispered, the delirium gone.

Perry bent over her such a different Perry, a Perry grown into manhood, a Perry with lines etched in his face, whose eyes reflected her own deep yearning.

"I was mad or I couldn't have done it," Clara murmured as her hand touched the cheek above her. "I'm sorry, dear."

"Don't be sorry. Be glad—be glad that you did it and lived," Perry said with exultation in his voice. "A fool like me needs to be dragged through the hell I've endured these two weeks, waiting for you to come back. I've always loved you—nobody else—but I was a kid—a fool kid. It's all right now, isn't it, dear?"

"Right," Clara replied, "as right as snow and rain and sunshine, as right as life itself."

"We'll finish the job together, Clara—our job—life and Junior," whispered Perry who Clara knew had grown into manhood while she groped toward him through leaping flames and surging torrents.

Nobody Loves a Skinny Woman!
Gain pounds of weight and strength in 3 weeks with new YEAST and IRON—or pay nothing

Get a Lovely Skin for an Ugly One

"Gained 20 Pounds!"
"When I started taking Ironized Yeast a month ago I weighed only 90 pounds and could hardly drag myself around. Today I weigh 110 pounds and I feel fine. Best of luck to Ironized Yeast, say I."—Mrs. C. S., Hattiesburg, Miss.

Folks are amazed at Ironized Yeast. They see 5 to 15 pounds gained in 3 weeks! Skinny limbs covered with rounded, graceful flesh! Ugly hollows in shoulders filled up! Eyes sparkling with health. They ask—how does Ironized Yeast work so quickly?

How Ironized Yeast Builds Quick Flesh and Health

Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—weight building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured yeast, concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value.

This Yeast is treated with pure, vegetable iron, the same as in spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form Iron is easily assimilated by the body, making rich, red blood and toning up nerves and muscles.

Only when Yeast is Ironized in this way is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening values of Yeast. By this special formula Ironized Yeast gives you results in half the time required by yeast or iron taken separately.

If you are underweight, nervous or tired, you need Ironized Yeast. Start it today. It does not cause gas or bloating. Safe for everybody—containing no harmful drugs. Pleasant-tasting tablets in a handy bottle.

Try It on "Money Back" Offer
Go today to any drug store and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If not delighted, get your money back. If inconvenient to buy from the druggist, send $1.00 direct to the IRONIZED YEAST CO., Atlanta, Ga., Desk 219-A.

CAUTION! While the amazing health-building value of IRONIZED YEAST tablets has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion, and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, IRONIZED YEAST should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having weight increased to normal.—©I. Taking Milk of Magnesia this new way tastes So good!

CHILDREN actually like it because to them it isn't medicine any more. Doctors and dentists endorse MILNESIA WAFERS:—

BECAUSE, now, Milk of Magnesia is made in a delicious tablet that is accurately measured. Each wafer is certified to contain two teaspoonfuls of pure Milk of Magnesia. It's the better way because, as the MILNESIA WAFERS slowly dissolve in the mouth, they sweeten, purify and protect the gums and teeth, and in the same gentle way overcome acid conditions in the stomach, food ferment and constipation. Children shout with joy because they don't have to take the liquid Milk of Magnesia any longer. Try MILNESIA WAFERS yourself, today, and you will never go back to the old-fashioned form again.

Recommended and sold by all druggists in two generous sizes—35¢ and 60¢

TRADER HORN

THE GREATEST ADVENTURE STORY OF MODERN TIMES

River Battle Won; Horn Dictates Peace Terms

Cannibal Warcraft No Match for the Intelligence Of the White Man

Aggression Wins, Horn Says

By ALFRED ALOYSIUS HORN
Edited by ETHELREDA LEWIS.

ALTHOUGH the shooting of the Mpangues was too far to do us any harm, still potlegs, etc., once in a while hit our canoes, which were a perfect protection, as we all knelt on one side, throwing the canoe side next to the enemy high out of the water; we kept broad side on and a canoe length apart.

ALFRED A. HORN

One of the cannibal canoes contained several warriors who had red feather top-knots, and these, we thought, were the chief's bodyguard. A fighting chief wears one of these (head-dresses), which opens up and closes and is made of red parrot feathers. They were all painted in the colors of the Bimvool, red and yellow, and looked formidable.

We opened up our fire slowly, and old Iwolo, who had the glasses, gave us orders from the bow of my canoe. Our fire soon began to have a telling effect, but they were no cowards, and two large canoes even made a break for us. This was just what we wanted. Iwolo tendered cease fire, and we made off, keeping our distance. Three other large canoes now came out, followed by others in quite a long line.

We had them nearly in the middle of the river before we turned and opened a brisk rifle fire on them, No. 1 canoe taking the nearest, No. 2 the next, and so on. My boat being the last and nearest, I had more than a good chance of using my two big colts two-handed. They suffered terribly, but held on. These were men.

A signal was given from the bank and they all turned tail making for shore and dropped like skittles. Many of them jumped into the water and swam for shore or were drowned. Iwolo now pointed to a tree where he said a man was sniping with a rifle. I took the glasses and found him and dropped him with the long Colt. The rifle fell in the water and he hung head down from a fork in the tree away out over the water.

I took the glasses again. There were many who had climbed ashore were firing from the bush, but were doing no damage. There were two canoes adrift. Their crews who were not killed must have been hiding on the canoe bottoms. I told old Iwolo to cease firing, but he laughed, saying you want an open river. These men you are fighting are stopping it; what do you say?

I consented and many of them who were climbing the banks, which was a difficult job, were potted and fell back in the water, whilst now and then Iwolo gave the order to fire on the men shooting from the bush.

They were a hard lot and I admired their pluck. But after awhile a loud voice was heard from the bank calling on us to parley. At this we ceased fire and Iwolo, who had a loud voice, called I have heard you, now speak quickly. The voice answered, saying: White man, you have beaten us, what do you want of us? I had previously instructed Iwolo and told him I wanted legal rights with Ngogudema and the Bimvool. Give us time to speak they said. Iwolo consented.

We could hear them arguing and after a while he cried in a loud voice. Answer now, or continue the battle, we are not children. Now they answered that they had not understood.

Victory and Peace

I then told him equal rights for everyone to come and go by water where he likes, without your interference. The question came, and what of the Bimvool, shall we also go unmolested? We answered, Yes, on your own side of the river, I have nothing to say about the other bank, that is Apaques. Then give us time. We agreed. After a while the words came. We are willing. We answered we have heard you. Now we will leave you to do as you please.

We commenced to pull up stream when loud voices called. Stay yet and listen, the Chief wishes to speak. We slowed up again and Ngogudema the paramount chief of the Mpangues of the Ogowe spoke. We listened, the words came slowly and were barely audible.

He said he had listened and hoped he had understood what we said. To what we said he agreed and he spoke for his people, but he had one request to make. He must, of course, go back to his people and tell them all what he had said. This day I suffer I have listened to evil council. Now all I have to say is you are a young man, white man, and had you come to me and made the same agreement you have done today I myself would have agreed. I told my people of this before, they would not listen. I followed their council which was not wise. You cannot make a young man speak like an old man. No, my council was, peace with the white man. But today, though you are young, I know you speak words of wisdom, a free river for the white man and his people, is that not so? We all answered, that is so. Then I have understood, it shall be so.

He finished; we were sorry for the old chief, and Iwolo answered Ow Embeme erre aso (You are right, father of us all), and we cheered him as we departed.

We pulled up silently until all out of hearing and then the conversation in our canoes commenced in real earnest. The Encomis thought he was talking through his hat. He was King of his country, why should he listen to the young men. No, he had received a good licking and now of course he want-

THE CONSTANT FLAME

A Fair Maid Meets Love In Strange Surroundings

by WINIFRED VAN DUZER

RICH YOUTH RESCUES GIRL FROM THUG

CHAPTER I.

EMILY DAY was not going to the high school picnic with the rest of her class. Picnics cost money even in the little town of Lyall and the Days were poor.

There were reasons, too, why she particularly longed to go, laughing hours in the open—sun striking lacey shadows—and Kent Rossiter calling, "Hey!—come on for a row!"

She thought often of Kent Rossiter—not because he was rich—the Rossiter's owned the big factory where her father had worked for years—but because he stood for her ideal of the Perfect Knight.

As she started out from her modest home the thought of him held her, tightening into her throat. The fine, joyous sweetness of him—the jaunty charm. They had been friends nearly four years now—ever since the day of the party when he called her into the "postoffice" and brushed her cheek in his laughing way.

Nothing could take from her the friendliness he had given. Something of protectiveness—there was the night he had happened along when Marty Nolan had backed her against a hedge and was tormenting her.

Emily whispered, "Kent!" and stood sobbing while they fought. It was an uneven match; Marty was wide and solid and used to rough and tumble encounters. He hit out once or twice, turned and fled while Kent rocked giddily and pressed a handkerchief to a gash on his cheek.

"Oh, you shouldn't have done it! Now he's hurt you!"

"Not any, kid." The tall boy grinned. "Don't cry. He won't come back—oh, you're scared. Going home? I'll just walk with you."

He picked up her books—caught her hand all cozy and laughing—walked up the hill to her door.

And the next day when Ole Stickney, the principal, had him in, bent upon dealing out adequate punishmentt to any who had offered violence to a Rossiter, Kent refused to speak.

And when they read "Idylls of the King" in class Emily kept seeing the son of the Rossiters in Galahad, the knight "sans peur et sans reproche."

But on the night of the class-play when he came toward her across the dimmed stage, eyes all softly lighted, a smile lifting the beautiful, full-cut lips, it was the dashing romance of Launcelot that rushed piercingly into her thought.

She was like a pale rose touched by moonlight, all in white with her fluff of hair shimmering. Agnes Day had cut up her wedding dress to make the little frock; many weary hours had gone into fashioning its slender grace.

Now Kent looked at her, bending down swiftly. "Lord, you're sweet, Emmy! So white and sweet—little white flower—"

A dream—beauty—ah, beauty like silver bells chiming! What did it matter that Marty kept always near, watching under drawn-down brows? When he came up to her after it was over, asked her gruffly if he might see her home, she refused him in a kindly way and he turned without a word.

Standing before the high, old-fashioned mirror, she would run the comb through her hair—brush it down till each pale curl seemed to catch and hold a living glow. And she would whisper, "Sweet—he said I was sweet. Little white flower."

She wondered if this was love. Had a girl as poor as she the right to love anyone like Kent?

As she swung along, the past few years marched in review. There was her mother struggling to make ends meet, trying to give her an education and trying to keep a rein on her flaming sister, Kathryn, nicknamed "Kitten"—there was her father, forever grumbling at the rich, making himself a martyr and frowning on schools and learning—there were the Brents, whom her mother called "common," but who were toiling hard to better themselves—there were Anne Morrow, the judge's duaghter, and Avis Rossiter, and Marty.

And everywhere it seemed, was a strange, invisible wall between the people who lived on "the hill" as she did, and the people like the Rossiters.

Was it money that made the barrier, or was it education, or was it both?

Could a girl without money make her way to success?

She knew the lack of money—it meant not only staying home from the picnic, but not "belonging." She had two dresses, one for every day and the other for special occasions. And some of the girls, smugly selft-conscious in smart New York models, would look at her with the veiled appraisal which is the expression of feline femininity of all ages and in all places.

Her mother gave her what spare change she could and urged her to meet people. "You must do this, Emmy. Say nothing to your father—hard for him to understand—you must know how to meet people. It's more important than books."

Mrs. Day held up her own sister, Emily's Aunt Mary, as a shining example of what a woman could do. Aunt Mary taught Latin, took courses at Columbia and vacations in Europe. Stephen hated her and she despised him. If he had had his way Emily would have gone to work as Stella Brent had, but for once in her drab life Mrs. Day revolted.

"You hear me! Emily goes back to school or I go out of your house. Now you say which it'll be!"

"Well—" He rustled his newspaper. "No need gettin' het up is they Aggie? Send her to school if you feel like it."

Emily thought of her mother with infinite tenderness, always saving, trying to help.

There was the blue dress Agnes had so lovingly made. How gay Emily had felt when she put it on and how fearful when she left school in the rain, covering it carefully with her coat. As she neared home a car came tearing by—skidded. The fender brushed

CLUES FAIL IN OHIO CASE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 17.—City detectives admitted today that they were without a substantial clue in the disappearance of 10-year-old Beatrice Rosenbaum, presumably kidnaped in an auto early Monday morning.

Subnormal mentally, Beatrice was seen by neighbors entering a small car with a middle-aged stranger near her home. Detectives today were inclined to agree with the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max B. Rosenbaum, that the child was kidnaped—possibly by someone mistaking her for a daughter of one of Rosenbaum's five brothers, all well-to-do business men.

Three suspects under arrest, one of whom has an auto resembling the kidnaping car, were to be lined up today for possible identification by the neighbors who saw Beatrice enter the machine.

Boy Scouts, police and citizens have searched the woods within a 15-mile radius of Youngstown, but have failed to uncover any tangible clues.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 17.—A big step forward in modern civilization was made Tuesday night here in Los Angeles (the last place you would expect civilization to advance). It was a dinner given at $100 a plate, with the distinct understanding there would be no speeches. The place was sold out and everybody was tickled to death. The funds from the dinner were divided among those who wanted to make speeches, but were not allowed. Everyone in the hall received one hundred dollars.

SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

MY DEAR SIR: Opening headquarters here tomorrow for the international endurance dance championship, to be held in Madison Square Garden, starting 9 p. m., June 10. Our date was changed from June 3 to the tenth because Rickard has McTigue and Emanuel booked to box June 7. Met Rickard, Dibblee and McMahon at the garden today. Also met Tom Bodkin, who is manager of Gene Buck's show, "Take the Air." If you have any suggestions for our New York affair shoot them along. Maybe you can come to New York for a few days during the marathon. Signed: John Hernon.

The suggestion in the last line is interesting. There is "Strange Interlude," a play which starts at 5 o'clock, with a dinner intermission, and the last act coming around 11:30 o'clock; there is Nick at the Three-Star chophouse behind the Palace Theater, and then an evening at the marathon dance would round out a nice, little visit.

A BOY brought to the house a package, which, when opened, proved to be four books sent us by an anonymous contributor—and reader. The sender of the books promises to pay us a visit within two weeks to find out how we enjoyed the books, to collect them, and, if we are in the mood, to lend us some more of his collection.

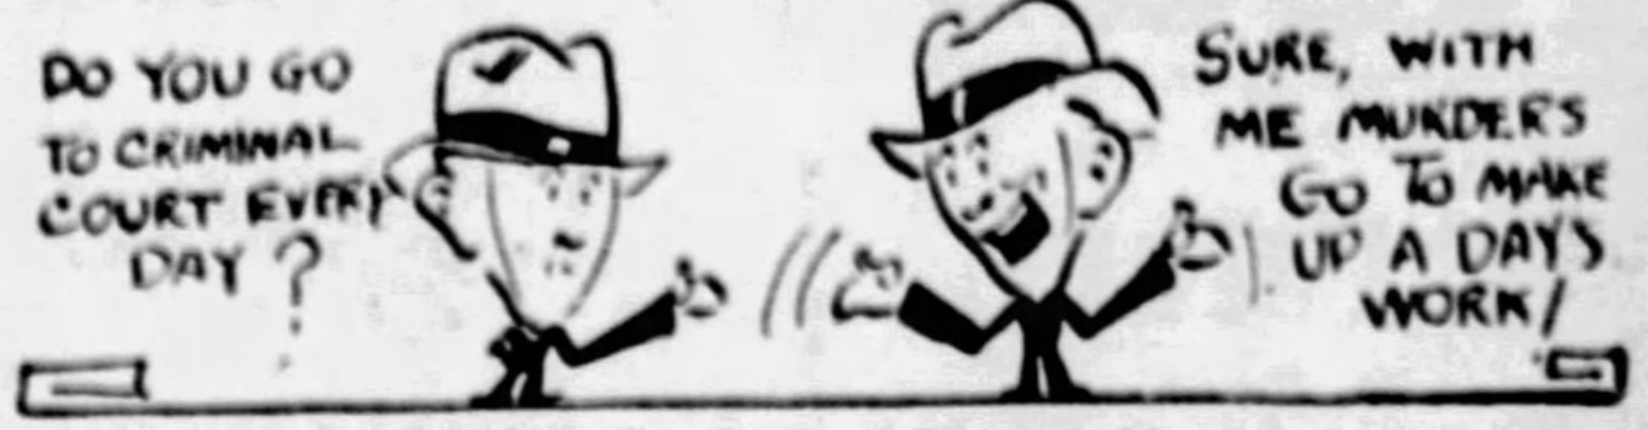
This was explained in a note—unsigned, which, considering the titles of the books, gave the whole affair an air of delightful mystery. The titles of the books are: "Studies in Murder," by Edmund Lester Pearson; "Murder for Profit," by William Bolithio; "A Book of Remarkable Criminals," by Henry Irving, and "Murder at Smutty Nose," by Edmund Lester Pearson.



DO YOU GO TO CRIMINAL COURT EVERY DAY?
SURE, WITH ME MURDERS GO TO MAKE UP A DAYS WORK!

OBVIOUSLY, our anonymous friend is a student of criminology. He says he was prompted to send the books because of one or two sentences here about books which he has noted. We await his visit with considerable interest.

One of the best places to study criminology, of course, is no further away than a few blocks—Criminal Court. The casual will find it depressing—a dull procession of human minds with curious twists. It is so depressing that some of the judges look with horror toward those periods when they must sit and listen and rule, expound, and sentence, and advise the strange parade that passes before them.

IT TAKES that peculiar temperament of the reporter to listen to the grind and shake it off. After awhile he forgets almost that the men and women in review are human beings, and he gets to the point where only the cases and their peculiar ramifications interest him. He speaks, in telling you of the horrors he daily sees, with an air as impersonal as though he were speaking of inanimate things, like fire plugs or steel girders.

MURDERS' CRIMINALS HOW COME ?

Once in a while there comes a case that reaches him and grips him, but on those afternoons, after work, you may see him with a slouch hat well back on his head, and with 'kerchief mopping his brow, heading for a palace of sin, where for 50 cents he gets a jolt of something which he imagines at least takes off the sharp edge of his experience.

WE REMEMBER how even Runyon, close to the best reporter in the land, handled, with little sentiment, the Snyder-Gray trial, and we remember that one day when a little girl was testifying he wrote that if she stayed on much longer he was, God help him, going to dash madly out of the room.

The other day The Sun-Telegraph printed a picture on page one of a woman suffering as the result of a recent local killing. The expression around the eyes was the most gripping thing we have seen in a newspaper in a long, long time.

TWO STOLEN IDOLS

MYSTERY! THRILLS! ADVENTURE! LOVE!!!

by FRANK L. PACKARD

Crowley's Letter Explains Warfare

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

While their schooner is becalmed off Singapore, Capt. Scarface Sweeney and Marlow, the mate, discover a bit of wreckage floating some distance from their ship. Investigation reveals that the "speck" is a fragile bark containing the body of a dead man. Capt. Scarface recognizes the body as that of Tom Kingsley, an old friend and daring adventurer. Mute evidence on the corpse hints at foul play. Two small but very handsomely carved ivory idols are found in the victim's pocket. Scarface believes that these are no ordinary trinkets, and surmises that they have played a grim part in the mysterious tragedy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

BOB Kingsley pulled a chair up to the table and sat down. Crowley's letter, unlike that of Capt. Scarface, was written in an easy, flowing hand, and he read it rapidly:

"Kalawa, Jan. 3.

"Robert Kingsley, Esq.,
"Patua.

"Dear Robert:—

"I'm not much of a letter writer, and I don't know how to begin this; but you're not the kind of man who should want me to do any beating about the bush, and so I might as well out with it straight off. I've bad news for you. A week ago, just as it was getting dark, a Chinese junk anchored off Tom's place, and landed the chap that owned it, and who was identified later as a supposed Singapore trader by the name of Hsi Yan. Hsi Yan was carried ashore from the junk to Tom's house, and appeared to be a very sick man. What followed immediately after that no one seems to know exactly—there wasn't any white man within two miles of Tom's place, as you know—but within an hour, as nearly as we can find out from the natives, the crew from the junk attacked the house, and the natives ran for their lives. They say now that there was much firing, and that Tuan Tom, your brother, must have fought for a time inside the house; but their cowardly accounts are too confused to be worth much.

"The single piece of evidence that counts is that, though the house was surrounded and even being overrun at the time by this devil's brood from the junk, one of the plantation natives who was hiding amongst the trees, saw Tom escape from the house and run down the beach, or, rather, I should say from the native's story, stagger down the beach as though he had been wounded; and while the Chinese poured out of the house again and ran around looking for him, Tom jumped into an old boat that was lying at the water's edge and pushed off from the shore.

"It is fairly certain that none of the crew of the junk saw Tom put off in the boat, for the native who has furnished most of this story says that no other boat was sent after him. But since then there has been no sign of Tom, and I am afraid now of the worst. There was a stiff wind blowing that night with a fairish sea running, and if he were wounded anything might have happened.

"No one else, owing to the promptness with which the natives fled, seems to have been harmed in the attack, except Mindar Singh, an East Indian, who, as you may or may not know, has been with Tom as a sort of major-domo and personal servant for the last three years. I do not think you know the man, however, as, if my memory serves me right, you have not been in Kalawa since Mindar Singh came here. In any case, Mindar Singh, who was in the house with Tom at the time of the attack, has not been seen since that night. It is possible that he, too, might have deserted Tom and run for it, and afterwards was ashamed to come back, but my personal opinion is that it is much more likely he was made a prisoner and carried off in the junk, as, from the little I ever saw of the man, he never struck me as one who would run away from anything. Anyway, he, too, has gone, his body has not been found, and it is certain he did not go off in the boat with Tom.

"The house itself was not damaged or injured in any way nor, so far as I have been able to find out, was anything stolen; but after the junk departed, the natives, when they finally crept back like the terrified dogs they were, found Hsi Yan lying on a couch in the living room and the man was dead. Later, I examined the body myself, and I can state positively that there was not the slightest sign of violence upon it. The only conclusion I can come to, therefore, is that the man was desperately ill when he was landed (you will remember I said at the beginning of this letter that he was brought ashore sick) and that he died a natural death.

"I am convinced in my own mind, as indeed everybody else who is in possession of these details must be, that there is some mystery here; but I am entirely at a loss to formulate even a theory that will explain it. I find it very strange, indeed, for instance, that the crew of the marauding junk did not carry away the dead body of their leader with them. To leave the body behind to be identified at once established the identity of the source of the attack in which the crew were as guilty as Hsi Yan himself. And then there's another thing. I don't see how Tom got out of the house without the crowd from the junk seeing where he went, since they appeared to be actually fighting with him at the time. As I say, I have no theory to offer to account for what took place; but with the facts, such as they are, that I have been able to give you, and out of a more intimate knowledge of your brother's life, you may possibly be able to see much farther into the distressful, aye, and damnable, affair than I can.

"I think I have covered everything in the above; but as there will be no mail leaving the island for another two weeks or so, I will keep this letter by me, and add to it should any new developments arise or anything occur that I think you should know. Meanwhile, I shall be only too glad to keep an eye on the property until I hear from you.

"Later:

"The news has just reached Kalawa from Singapore, through a man named Griswold on Mombon, that Tom's body was found at sea in a boat (evidently the one in which he left here) by Capt. Sweeney of the schooner Iola. I understand that Capt. Sweeney, after recounting the story to Griswold, left a letter and a package containing Tom's effects with Griswold to be mailed to you. You should therefore, according to the schedule of the packet that calls at Patua, receive Capt. Sweeney's communication at the same time you receive this, so I shall not attempt to give any details in reference to same. Let me say simply that the authorities at Singapore are aroused, and are searching for Hsi Yan's junk and crew; but, so far as I have heard, though news does not travel fast here, without any success whatever.

"I want to repeat that I will do what I can about the property here pending whatever decision you make concerning it—it is little enough for me to do. I wish I might do more.

"My heartfelt sympathy goes out to you. "Faithfully yours,
"DAVID CROWLEY."

CHAPTER VI.

THE fury that had been smoldering in the older man burst suddenly into flame as Bob Kingsley put the letter aside.

"Well, you see!" he cried furiously. "It's that rat Hsi Yan that did it!" A wave of scarlet spread over his face, and both clenched fists beat upon the table. "And me here like this! Damn my legs, and damn this chair! Tom murdered—and me doing nothing!"

"Hsi Yan is dead," said Bob Kingsley in a monotone.

"And well for him he is!" rasped out the old man. "But there's the others! Maybe the authorities are after them—but I haven't got much faith in what'll happen. After a few months they'll get cold about it, and that'll be the end. But, anyway, it's not the Kingsley way to sit by and look on with one of us murdered! You understand, Bob, it's not the Kingsley way!"

Bob Kingsley got up from his chair, and laid both hands on his father's shoulders.

"No," he said in a low voice; "it's not the Kingsley way! I'll go. I'll take the schooner and go down there."

"And find 'em, my lad!" said Robert Kingsley with fierce insistence. "No matter how long it takes or what it costs. If money's needed the plantation here can go. And even if I'm dead and gone before you get 'em, you'll still keep after 'em! You promise that lad? You'll find em?"

"I'll find them," said Bob Kinksley with grim finality.

Robert Kingsley's hands were trembling. He raised them suddenly above his head.

"You hear that, Tom," he whispered hoarsely.

Bob Kingsley sat down again, and pulling the letter toward him, studied it for a moment while a puzzled frown gathered on his forehead.

EVER SINCE POOR ARAB GOT A NEW SUGAR, HE IS ALL UP AND DOWN!
I DONT KNOW WHETHER HE IS IN LOVE OR JUST SILLY!
John Held Jr.
WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE, WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?
WHO? ME!

"My dear, I'm all aGOG and AGitated, no less! I mean I'm ACtually QUAking with QUALMS at this point because the TENder PASsion is producing the most aLARMing SYMPtoms in ARab, my dear! I mean he goes ROUND with the exPRESsion of an exPIring FISH, sort of PLUCKING WILDflowers like the MAD OPHElia or something and WRIting REAMS of the SAPpiest POetry to this riDIC'lous GIRL he's madly eNAMoured of at this point—can you BEAR it, my dear? ACtually, I think being in LOVE must be HECtic because iMAGine being so GOOFy over anybody you can't be INT'rested in anybody ELSE and are just CONsecrated on this one PERson you're madly in LOVE with, my dear? GEE, it must be POSitively perVERted, my dear, because I mean YOUTHS in that condition are ALways so OBvious, sort of! I mean it wouldn't be so BAD if the girl they were KEEN about was WORTHy of them and all but practicably ALways they're intrigued by some girl like this SHIMmy-fluffer of ARab's who is just the SELFish and selfCONsecrated type of girl that would RUin a man's LIFE if he MARried her—you know the type! And I mean I think the whole REASon a youth falls for a girl of that kind, my dear, is just because she apPEALS to him PHYSically or something poisonous like THAT, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

"IT'S this way," Lillian said following up her announcement that she had a "scheme" for the contriving of the beach picnic, to the suggestion of which she had just given such enthusiastic approval. "I'm going to follow the historic precedent of Tom Sawyer's whitewashing his fence. When do you expect Phil over for his next 'conference'?"

"I believe he said he was coming over this afternoon."

"Good!" she commented. "That's right in my mitt. Don't be surprised if I saunter in on the 'conference,' and please be ready to play the ingenue when I give you the cue, and ask: 'Did you ever go on a beach picnic, Mr. Veritzen, and eat a pirate steak'?"

I laughed at her drollery and gave her the promise.

"I haven't the slightest idea what you're up to," I said, "but I'll aid and abet you in anything short of an actual hanging offense—you know that."

"Indeed, and I do," she quoted, laughing. "But you can promise with a clear conscience this time. I have no greater crime in contemplation than the manipulation of Philip Veritzen's flamboyant hospitality for my own ends."

She walked to the door and threw a parting direction over her shoulder.

"Don't bother to let me know he's here," she said. ' smell a tiny mouse or two. I'll be 'little Mabel with her face against the pane' for the next hour or two while I'm catching up with my mending."

She blew me a kiss and went on upstairs, while I, with my brain in a whirl from the revelation made by Mrs. Townsend, tried in vain to fit some theory concerning Eleanor Lincoln into the many bewildering bits of data which had come to me.

I soon gave up the task as hopeless, however, and going into the library, went over for the third time a piece of work I had done for Mr. Veritzen, making triply sure that no possible point was omitted, and at the same time effectually banishing all troublesome conjectures concerning Eleanor Lincoln. I had but just finished it when Katie announced my employer, and Mr. Veritzen, handsome and debonair as ever, came into the room and, bending low, kissed the hand I extended to him.

"Never mind the work today," he said, when after punfunctory phrases of greeting were over, I went to the table where my manuscript was lying. "I have something more important about which I wish to ask your aid. I am glad you are alone. I wouldn't want anyone else, except perhaps Mrs. Underwood to hear this request."

"Who's paging me?" Lillian laughed from the doorway, and Mr. Veritzen, springing to his feet, crossed to her.

"I was just wishing for you," he said with unblushing exaggeration of his speech just made to me.

"Yes, I heard your frantic cry," Lillian said dryly, "but I'm not proud. I'll help you just the same as if I were your original thought. Go on. Spill what's on your mind."

Good breakfasts mean good days

A good breakfast starts you off to a good day.

And that's just what Heinz Rice Flakes do! Not only are they good because they taste so good. They're good because they do you good.

The reason is that these crispy, crunchy flakes are naturally "laxatized" by the use of the natural roughage of the rice. This imparts to the flakes the qualities of a gentle, natural laxative and is due to a new Heinz process in cereal-making. Thus Heinz Rice Flakes add to the "Joy of Living".

Here's Speedy Relief for Tender, Aching, Swollen Feet

Moone's Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction
Or Money Cheerfully Refunded

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture, you'd give anything to get relief.

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns and Callouses a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with powders, footbaths or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing varicose or swollen veins.

McCulloch's 10 convenient drug stores and every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Guest List at Parties Limited as Spring Season Crowds Formality From Many Social Functions

THERE aren't many really formal parties just now, as you may have noticed. Somehow, spring doesn't seem to lend itself to formality, and the small amount of private entertaining that is going on is usually limited as to guest list and simple in setting.

One small and quite informal party scheduled for tomorrow is the tea which Mrs. John E. Porter is going to give in her home in Beaver street, Sewickley. She has asked some friends in to meet her daughter, Mrs. Harry Good, of Latrobe, the former Cree Porter, and also Mrs. Frank L. Moore, of Sewickley, who was Alice Richardson, of Broad street, before she was married.

Mrs. Sidney S. Liggett, of Edgeworth, gave a buffet luncheon in her home yesterday, I hear, and another Sewickley party given this week was Mrs. Horace Forbes Baker's luncheon, which she gave on Monday for Mrs. Josephine Zinn. Mrs. Zinn, you know, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles C. Taliaferro, of Grove street.

Among the Sewickley travelers are Mrs. W. Leland Ingham, of Shields, and Marie McBride, one of last winter's debutantes. They are back from Atlantic City where they spent about 10 days, and Mrs. Royal Goldsbury and Virginia are back from Princeton. They motored back after the spring house parties where Virginia was a guest. The James Barlow Cullums and their daughter, Mollie, of East drive, have come home, too, after spending the winter in Europe. They landed in New York last week, I understand, but have been spending a week at their summer home, "Riveredge Farm," at Reading, and just arrived in the valley yesterday.

A visitor in the valley is Beatrice Hodge, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Hugh L. Hodge, of Baltimore, who formerly lived in Sewickley. She is the guest of Mrs. Edward A. Woods, of Woodland road, I hear.

A good many parties are being given in connection with Winifred Croft's wedding on Saturday, but, of course, they are all being held in the East since the wedding will take place at the summer home of Winifred's parents, the Harry W. Crofts, at Greenwich, Conn. Winifred's fiance, William Stavely Wilson, of New York, gave his bachelor dinner last night in New York, I understand.

Eleanor Croft, Winifred's twin sister, is entertaining at dinner today for the bridesmaids and tomorrow, Mrs. Winfield Shiras will give a luncheon and Mrs. George M. Pynchon, of Field Point Bay, will entertain for the same group of girls. Mrs. S. Reginald G. Coombe is going to give a tea on Friday for the bridal party and that night, Winifred's brother and his wife, the Richard Graham Crofts, will give a dinner at the Field Club in Greenwich. Winifred's father and mother are to entertain at luncheon at the Round Hill Club before the wedding on Saturday.

The novelty of the phantom radio ball is attracting a lot of interest, and those persons who have always wanted to go to a party and still enjoy the comforts of their own easy chairs at home may have their wish gratified Saturday night. Tickets are being sold rapidly and, I understand, just a few of those who are sponsoring the affair are Mrs. William L. Mellon, Mrs. Grant McCargo, Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Mrs. Thomas M. Marshall III, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, Jr., Mrs. W. Howard Nimick, Mrs. William Wilson Smith, Mrs. Frederick G. Kay, Mrs. James Lockhart, Henry B. Rust, Mrs. Harmar D. Denny, Mrs. Robert Book, Mrs. James H. Laughlin, Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, Mrs. George H. Flinn, Mrs. Preston Schoyer, Mrs. Albert G. Wells, Mrs. J. Verner Scaife, Mrs. G. Harton Singer, Jr., Mrs. Frederick G. Blackburn, Mrs. J. Hanson Rose and Mrs. Richard B. Mellon.

The marriage of Miss Eulalia D. McClarin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. McClarin, of the East End, and William A. Anderson, of Detroit, was solemnized Tuesday in the chapel of the Church of the Ascension by the Rev. Dr. Boyd Edwards. The bride wore white satin and Chantilly lace, with a hat of white mohair, and carried a shower of white roses, sweetpeas and lilies of the valley. Her cousin, Mrs. Howard Stonebraker, of Shadyside, O., as matron of honor, appeared in powder blue georgette trimmed with beige georgette, with a beige hat, and carried spring flowers. Paul H. Hamill, of Chicago, was best man and D. Stuart McClarin, brother of the bride, was usher. Miss Henrietta Bricker, of Mt. Lebanon, played the wedding music. A breakfast in the Rittenhouse followed the ceremony. After a southern motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will be at home in Detroit.

NEW ERA CLUB PLANTS AND DEDICATES TREES

For the first time in many years the weather man frowned on the New Era Club's forestry day, but it was only a slight scowl and did not interfere with the tree-planting exercises which were conducted at the Homestead Hospital yesterday morning. Six cherry trees were planted along the rear drive, which, with the sanction of the hospital authorities, will be known as New Era Drive and will in time be marked as such.

The first tree was dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Yearick, the former superintendent of the hospital, and the others to Mr. and Mrs. James H. Hammond, president of the board of directors and his wife; Mrs. Louis L. Sperber, retiring president of the club; Mrs. John Howard Phillips, the incoming head; Mrs. Elizabeth Bowers and Mrs. Marjorie Keil Benton, members of the organization. The dedicatory speeches were made by Mrs. Nina Hood McCullough, forestry chairman; Mrs. Jo Vogel, Mrs. James E. Bay and Mrs. Mae P. Rinehart.

Afterward the women went to the home of Mrs. Charles S. Miller, in Heberton avenue, where for 10 years they have been guests at a buffet luncheon following the outdoor part of the day's proceedings. The Homeopathic Hospital always is the New Era's special charge during flower week, June 9 to 15.

"Some Protective Measures for Pittsburgh Youth" is the general topic for the one day institute being planned jointly by the Pittsburgh Girls' Conference and the Social Workers' Club, in the William Penn Hotel next Wednesday. The institute will be formally opened at 10 o'clock by Miss Elizabeth Campbell, president of the Girls' Conference, who will preside and W. C. Batchelor, president of the Social Workers Club, who will preface the program for the day. Miss Eleanor Flynn, chairman of the research committee of the conference, will present, "What Pittsburgh Is Doing for Its Girls," the result of the survey recently completed by her committee. Miss Helen M. Harris, chairman of the special recreation committee of the Conference, will speak on "Youth in the Mud," a report of the experiment in recreation made in the mining camps by her committee. These reports will be followed by a business session of the conference.

Mrs. Harry G. Samson will preside at the luncheon session of the institute in the hotel and will introduce the two principal speakers, Mrs. Eleanor Rowland Wembridge, referee of the Cleveland Juvenile Court and author of "Other People's" Daughters," who will speak on "The Perfect Girl and Her Boy Friend." The second speaker will be Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, president, International Association of Policewomen, Washington, D. C., whose subject is, "How a Woman's Bureau in the Police Department Helps to Protect the City's Youth."

The afternoon session of the institute will convene at 2 o'clock and will be presided over by Mrs. Helen Glenn Tyson. There will be two round-table discussions. The subject of the first will be, "The Importance of Sex Education in Youth's Equipment," the speaker to be announced later. Miss Mabel Brown Ellis, assistant director, joint committee on methods of preventing delinquency, the Commonwealth Fund, New York, will speak on "The Importance of the Visiting Teacher in a Community Program."

When 'undies' fade – smart women use Tintex
.... the smarter a woman is in her outer apparel, the more particular she is about her "undies." They must be fresh and colorful.
.... and that is why the best-dressed women everywhere find Tintex indispensable. For when laundering has faded the delicate colors of their "undies," Tintex so easily, so quickly and so perfectly restores their just-like-new freshness and beauty. Even their lace-trimmed "undies" are restored to original loveliness. They use Tintex in the Blue Box—it tints the silk, but the lace remains white or its original color.
.... ask your dealer to show you the Tintex Color Card showing Fashion's accepted pastel shades for "undies."

O. O. Drives! Jaywalkers, Beware!

morton a little east of the whopple-choke that acts funny. It seems to whistle like a despairing peanut stand and do a few steps from a tap dance now and then.

Still the demonstrator didn't seem to mind it. But why should he? After all he is not going to drive it.

I think what closed the deal was my discovery that the car had an electric cigar lighter that actually worked. But I learned later that was not unusual. Some of them work for an entire day.

80 Per—and No Gadget!

I suppose every car purchaser has the same reactions. Immediately after selling himself down the river he has an inclination to find a nice quiet block and boot himself around it.

I spent the first night after my purchase in the wide open-eyed manner of Gwendolyn, our favorite goldfish, and dropping off to sleep about 5 a. m. found myself splitting up Fifth avenue at 80 miles an hour, unable to find the gadget that stopped the hellish contraption.

I watched the agonized expressions of three traffic cops as they disappeared under the wheels and the hopeless bewilderment of the man in the traffic tower at Forty-second street as that beautiful bronze structure slowly toppled to the street is something I shall never forget if I live to be 21 years old.

I awakened as the car landed with a crash half in and half out the third elegant plate glass window among all those modernistic whatnots of Saks Fifth avenue.

A fellow who knows no more about machinery than I should not be trusted with a car. I can't even sharpen a lead pencil without looking like Al Jolson in makeup.

I have never driven anything but a plow and I was turned off then for getting into a row of stumps that proved such a strain on the team of horses that they spent their declining days with the heaves.

But what is a fellow going to do when he wants to be a city slicker? All my friends have cars—some two or three. Just the other day Ray Long blossomed out in one of those block-long imported affairs where the chauffeurs sits out in the rain. H. T. Webster had to build a special garage for his. And Bob Brinkerhoff's is the sort you expect a Grover Whalen to pop out of with a stove pipe hat.

Up From the Sticks

We were all country boys who came to New York together "to do and dare." And here I have been scouting around most of the day for change to have ready for drivers when I take a short spin in the evening. While they were giving fancy orders like: "Home, James" or "To the club, Parker" and such.

My car perhaps would not take the grand prix—business of dropping into French and crawling right out again—at one of those Paris expositions but it has its points. One of them, incidentally, seems to be under the left hand side of the back seat.

So far it has shown a certain coyness and reluctance—like a Hollywood extra having her first luncheon with a director. There are moments when it seems to choke up as though about to sit down along the roadside and have a good old fashioned cry. But that may be because we are not well acquainted.

Human beings are often that way with me at first until they realize that beneath all the rugged bluster and real corpuscled virility there is a heart as soft as putty.

My next drive after the trial spin was unfortunate and the car may have resented that. I took along a precocious five-year-old neighbor boy who carried a cast iron toy train with him. It appears that he must have taken up beaten copper work as a hobby for he rehearsed all the way using the toy train as a hammer on the upholstery.

It taught me one lesson. Whenever you take a child for a drive don't give it anything to play with except perhaps a sponge.

I never realized before how many jealous people there are in the world. I had a rather fanciful mental picture of the admiration my car would provoke among acquaintances. I could see their eyes brighten, hear the clapping of hands and there were a few I even expected to do a little dancing in the streets.

But so far there has been a dignified silence. If they notice it at all it is only when I feign an embarrassed cough and call their attention to it. Then they appear to look upon it as a weak and incompetent something or other with a receding chin. As though I care!

Now that I own a car I am amazed that I never realized before how many people there are roaming the highways in a state of oxlike dumbness. You just can't imagine such stupidity.

No matter what corner you try to cross there are a crowd of mental incompetents seemingly determined to test the immortality of their souls under your wheels.

"What Are Your Plans?"

They stop dead in their tracks, making you stop too and look at you scornfully as though to say:

"What are your plans?"

Some of them seem obsessed with a silly notion they have a right to cross the streets. I actually saw one nit-wit stop to light his pipe in the middle of the roadway. The curse of pedestrianic pests grows.

Still I suppose the pedestrians after all enjoys life in his simple-hearted way, scuttling here and there like a frightened rabbit. I have a certain sympathy for him.

I'm big hearted that way for I used to be a pedestrian once myself.

In conclusion I am going to take the liberty of quoting from a recent poem by Richard Le Gallienne:

The moon fell in my arms last night,
And nestled softly at my side;
"I leave the sky for you," she said.
"Ah! love, ah! love, ah! love" I cried.

Of course that has nothing to do with owning an automobile but it is rather pretty.

THEATER HEADS JOIN TO AID FILM BALL

More than a score of theater managers in the tristate territory have joined in the arrangements for the million dollar motion picture ball which will be held in Syria Mosque, Tuesday, May 22. In planning this event, which is a novelty in Pittsburgh, the managers are conducting it independently and I. C. Overdorff is acting for them as publicity manager. Altogether 75 theaters are sponsoring the ball, it is announced.

The auditorium and lower floor of the Mosque will be given over to the merry-making. A continuous vaudeville will be given on the stage with a parade of bathing beauties selected from the local theaters in a contest in which many prizes have been offered. Movie actresses have promised to act as hostesses during the dancing and the making of a special film.

Overdorff announced today that the following theaters are among those participating: Cameraphone, Kenyon and Hippodrome, Pittsburgh; Strand, Sharpsburg; Regal, Wilkinsburg; Hollywood, Dormont; Liberty, Carnegie; Crafton Theater, Crafton; Sheraden Theater Corliss; Ritz, Irwin; Manos, Greensburg, and Alhambra, New Kensington.

30-MILLION GAS WELL STRUCK

An output of 20 to 30 million cubic feet is expected from a new gas well of the Carnegie Natural Gas Company, Carnegie Steel subsidiary, brought in yesterday from a drilling on the company's leased land at Scenery Hill, Washington county, H. J. Hess, general manager, said this morning.

The new well, by far the largest ever brought in by any company operating in that district, came after a number of dry holes had been bored. Right-of-way arrangements for piping the gas out will be made immediately, Hess said, but it is probable that the well will be sealed and held for the fall demand.

5 OF FAMILY DIE AS BARGE SINKS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 17.—(AP.)—Everett Insley, 30, Baltimore barge captain, his wife and three small children were drowned when the barge Calvert, in tow, bound for Urbana, Va., with crushed stone, sank suddenly in the middle of Chesapeake Bay about 12 miles south of here early this morning. Insley and his family were asleep in the cabin of the barge, which sank in about 50 fathoms. A watchman on the barge went down with it but got free through an open door and clung to a bateau that floated off until rescued by the crew of a tug.

2 NEGROES GO TO PRISON

Mose Lynn, Negro, of Sewickley, convicted of two charges of burglary and two of larceny, was sentenced to five to ten years in the penitentiary today by Judge J. M. Swearingen.

DISCUSS SAWMILL RUN ROAD PROPOSAL TODAY

The proposed Sawmill Run boulevard, a $1,000,000 project, will be discussed by County Commissioners and civic bodies interested in the project today. The proposed boulevard would begin at Woodruff street, West End and extend past Liberty Tunnel up the Sawmill Run valley to Library road and Nobles line.

This improvement has been talked about and discussed for more than a year. County Commissioners recently intimated that the improvement would be included in the county's $40,000,000 bond issue proposal.

HOMESTEAD SCOUTS TO BEGIN $7,500 DRIVE

A campaign to raise $7,500 to meet the expenses of the Boy Scouts in Homestead during the coming year, will be launched tomorrow by Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, of that borough. Burgess John J. Cavborough. Burgess Cavanaugh, chairman of the general committee, will visit the drive headquarters in the Stahl Theater building to start the workers.

HOLLYWOOD, CAL.—"Create a costume," say star and director. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's wardrobe department creates it on the spot.

To keep their millions of dollars' worth of lovely costumes new-looking during months of hard wear in making a picture, Lux is used.

"We insist on Lux and Lux only," Joe Rapf, supervisor of the wardrobe department says, "because Lux prolongs the life of costumes, keeps them looking like new regardless of how delicate they may be."

And now all the great motion picture studios in Hollywood use Lux, to keep clothes of every description, from negligées to camping togs, new-looking more than twice as long.

Millions of women everywhere find pure Lux suds can be depended on to wash all nice things so safely that they stay new far longer than when washed other ways. Lux is sold only in the blue box, never in bulk.

No Danger in a Wetting if Clothes Are Changed

THIS is the time of year when it rains on occasion. You are bound to get wet once in a while. Some folks worry every time this happens for fear they will take cold.

DR COPELAND

The same folks are afraid of fresh air and especially currents of air. They wear skull-caps and night-caps. They are scared if they feel a draft.

They are afraid of wet feet. They think they must begin to snuffle and sneeze after the least exposure. I sometimes think this speedy effect is psychic, but it exists and must be considered.

Getting wet is a common experience. I do not approve of going out with the deliberate intention of getting wet, but clean water never hurt anybody. It makes no difference whether it is taken internally, or applied externally, either intentionally or inadvertently. No one need worry over a good wetting. There is nothing harmful about wet clothes. The danger comes from living in damp garments for hours, with consequent chilling of the body.

If you get wet, go on briskly with your work, or walk. So long as you are exercising, so long as your heart is doing its full duty, you are just as safe as you would be in the surf or lake.

Everybody knows it is unpleasant and unsafe to stay too long in the water. Likewise, if you are in wet clothes too long you get the same physical ill effects.

There must be proper reaction after such exposure, in order to ward off possible danger. Go home, rub yourself vigorously with a rough towel, clothe your body in dry garments, and you are just as safe and will be as invigorated as if you had had a dip in the surf at Atlantic City.

Make sure your hair is thoroughly dry and especially that your stockings are free from moisture. The extremities, for some reason or other, are more sensitive than the body.

Don't stay indoors because it rains. Put on your rubbers and sally forth in raincoat or under your umbrella. Let your skin rejoice in the moisture it will receive. It softens its texture and cleanses its pores.

In England and Scotland nobody pays the slightest attention to the weather. Shoes and clothing are made with reference to whatever may come.

Of course, you will not be foolish about it, and stay in your wet shoes and garments. Every business man and woman should have suitable clothing at the business place, so that proper change can be made. If you follow this rule you will rejoice in the experience of getting wet and will suffer no ill effects.

Answers to Health Queries

J. H. Q.—Does the skin itch and crack when there is too much acidity in the system?

A.—Yes, but the trouble may be due to eczema. Avoid too many sweets and be sure to keep the intestinal tract clear.

M. T. Q.—What do you advise for dandruff and increasing the growth of the hair?

A.—Shampoo the hair frequently, using a good tonic. Daily brushing will also stimulate the growth of the hair.

MOUTH acids are treacherous. They work without warning and often their attacks are unaccompanied by pain—until they have undermined a tooth.

You cannot guard completely against these acids by mere brushing. For no tooth-brush can reach into all the crevices where they form.

Squibb's Dental Cream, however, made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, can bring you needed protection. For your own dentist will tell you that Milk of Magnesia is the safest and surest means of neutralizing these dangerous mouth acids. In addition, of course, Squibb's Dental Cream is everything that a good dentifrice should be. It keeps the teeth beautifully white. It contains no grit or abrasives. It helps to keep the sensitive gum tissues in healthy condition. And it is very pleasant to use. Try it—it is on sale at all druggists and costs only 40c for a large tube.

"HEAR NO EVIL—SEE NO EVIL—SPEAK NO EVIL"

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

PRETTY red tongues and the bright eyes that watch them wagging, and the shell-pink ears that hear them clacking, seem far apart from the bad word, EVIL. But sometimes they are all tied up together in a dangerous bundle. Bomb-like—capable of all sorts of wreckage. A pretty red tongue, a pair of bright, believing eyes, and a pair of willing ears can be the makin's of wide-awake nights and woeful tears for somebody.

One of the loveliest things that a girl can have, after virtue and a sweet temper, is kindness. And kindness means just what it sounds like. It means keeping your own snug counsel when you are in a lively rabble of other girls engaged in drowning a precious reputation in a cup of tea. Or putting out your paddy to save it.

"——Evil is wrought by want of thought as well as want of heart." When you first cock an eye at that it doesn't sound true. For, you say, when you speak evil you prove yourself heartless. But, in these days of lavish talking of personalities, a moment of talkative thoughtlessness can do the same damage as a long spell of lack of heart! "I heards" fly wildly about. And "I heard" is akin to "I know." When Suzette says "I've heard that Laurette said that Annette did thus and so," to Gloriette—Gloriette goes away and says, "Did you hear that Annette did thus and so? I know it for a fact!" And there you are. A story that spreads, ring on ring, and reaches countless shores where it is believed until it becomes the truth that is never forgotten by scores of people. All because of too much aimless turning over of others' personalities, pretty ears too willing to listen, pretty eyes too willing to believe, pretty mouths too avid to repeat; to fictionize.

Every young girl wants to be loved. Every young girl starts out speaking, hearing or seeing no evil in the world. If you want to be loved keep tight to that. Speaking carelessly and unkindly of other folks is a habit, and don't get into it.

I know a young man, a charming, a handsome, a brilliant, oh a very desirable young man, who began to come every night of his life to the house of a pretty girl I know. And before Cupid himself could get his breath he married her! And this is what he told another young man, who touched him on the speed of his love-story: "I loved to go there because they never 'talked about' anybody. They could spend a whole evening together and never say a mean thing about anybody. At our home"—sadly—"we were always doing just the other thing!"

Shut your ears and your pretty eyes and your lips when the "evil" is passed around. Don't believe unkind stories you hear, for a story grows like a cyclone cloud, just as fast, and from nothing at all but a spiral of dust—and don't tell them. You wouldn't like an untrue story told about YOU.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

ALL FLAVORS

NO MAN really wishes to die a bachelor—he only wants to go on LIVING that way for sixty or eighty years.

It is not so often the troubles and storms they face together, as the ennui and the dead calm of domesticity, that drive a husband or wife to leap overboard from the Good Ship Matrimony.

What the author of Companionate Marriage seems to be trying to do is to take the lock out of wedlock and the bands off of husbands.

HELEN ROWLAND

A woman may flee from temptation—but a man just crawls away from it in the cheerful hope that it may overtake him.

All those diverting little love-spats that brighten up the courtship and lend such a tang to the engagement are merely the preliminary training for the Big Fight.

The average man's idea of future punishment for sinners would probably be an eternal Spring house-cleaning with twenty-four moving days a year.

It takes hard work to make a rest seem like a thrill, hard times to make a dollar look like a fortune, and a few years of misery with the wrong woman, to make the right woman look like an angel.

A man's conscience seldom begins to work until his stomach or his arteries go on a strike, and his doctor begins ordering him to give up the things that his clergyman has been warning him against, all along.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Bush, Unable to Secure Right-Hand Hitting Catcher by Trade, to Give Ralston Hemsley Chance to Prove Worth—Elmer Jacobs, former Buc Star, Going Well on Coast—Dan O'Leary, Famous Walker, in Fine Trim at Age of 82.

HAVING failed in his efforts in all other directions to get the right-hand hitting catcher that he needs so urgently in the present emergency of the Pirates, Manager Donie Bush has decided to give young Ralston Hemsley a larger share of the catching labor, starting with the Philadelphia series.

Ralston Hemsley.

There is no doubt that the recruit from the Frederick (Md.) club of the Blue Ridge League has the makings of a star catcher. He showed it on the spring trip and he has shown it on each of the few occasions on which he has been given a chance to work in a championship game.

THE only drawback was he appeared to have some hitting weaknesses that another term in the minors was needed to correct.

However, the battery work in some of the Pirate games has come to such a pass, with Smith injured and the every-day catching job too much of a strain for Gooch, that Skipper Bush believes Hemsley's unquestioned ability behind the bat will help the club not a little, so he is going to give him a goodly number of the catching assignments as long as the youngster proves able to stand up under the labor.

AS A matter of fact, that appears to be the only course open to Donie, as it seems to be impossible to tempt any of the other National League clubs to part with a capable right-hand hitting receiver on any terms. The Pittsburgh club has been after a right-hand batter for that position for almost eight months, but attempts to get Jimmy Wilson, Charley Hargreaves, Butch Henline, Hank DeBerry or any other man of that caliber have been futile. Manager Bush made another attempt to get a catcher from Brooklyn Monday night, when he tried to talk with Wilbert Robinson, the Brooklyn boss. Bush wanted to arrange a trade for a catcher, but Uncle Robbie persisted in trying to change the course of the conversation, it is said. According to rumor, Bush asked Robbie to put a price in playing material or money on any of his three right-hand hitting catchers.

"WHAT can you give me for Petty?" countered Robbie. "Will you give me so-and-so?" "No," replied Bush. "Naturally I'd be glad to have Petty, but I won't give the man you named for him. What I want to know is what do you want for any one of those three catchers who bat right-handed?"—Hargreaves, Henline or DeBerry. Though he had previously professed to be willing to trade, Robinson then killed all chance for a deal by stating that he would not trade or sell any member of the trio.

Jack Dempsey.

"They're all of about the same age," he is reported to have said (DeBerry is 35, Henline is 31 and Hargreaves is 30) "and if I were to let one go I'd be in a hole if anything happened to another of them."

Failing in several other attempts to budge Robbie from his stand, Bush saw it was hopeless and everything was called off. It's another disappointment to the Pittsburgh club and the Pittsburgh fans, but it's further evidence that the Pirate management has been making every effort to land what the Bucs need more than anything else—a capable catcher with a righ-hand punch.

ONCE again coast reports says Jack Dempsey has started training and will be back to share another fortune with Tex Rickard by meeting the winner of the Tunney-Heeney bout in a title match in September.

Meanwhile, Mr. Rickard is likely to succeed in keeping the wolf from the door by holding a series of other outdoor shows, starting with tonight's battle between Sammy Mandell and Jimmy McLarnin for the lightweight championship.

Elmer Jacobs.

IN the Sun-Tele last week was published the fact that Elmer Jacobs, former major league pitcher for Pittsburgh and other clubs, and now starring in the Pacific Coast League, had pitched 35 consecutive runless innings and was still going. Well, the next inning broke Jacobs' feat, as he was scored on in the thirty-sixth, when he needed only one more inning to tie the league record made 23 years ago by Jimmy Whalen.

Jacobs had pitched 42 innings at last reports, allowing only two earned runs in all that time. He and Dutch Ruether are tied in the percentage table with four wins and no defeats, but Jacobs is said to be the best hurler in the league and to have more stuff than at any previous stage of his career, recently he won a game from Oakland in 10 innings in which he did not let a man reach first base in the first seven innings.

RARELY has a lightweight attraction aroused so much interest as the bout slated for tonight, and though Mandell is the favorite on account of his boxing skill and experience, not a few fans are stringing along with McLarnin because of the quickness and power of his punch. McLarnin, at least, has tradition on his side, for in five of the seven championship fights that have been held at the Polo Grounds, where Jimmy and Sammy will meet, the champion has lost his title. And in one of the two others the throne occupant had a close call, that being the bout in which Jack Dempsey met Luis Firpo. The other champion to save his crown was

NEW YORK May 17.—(AP.) The McLarnin - Mandel fight scheduled for tonight at the Polo Grounds, was postponed by Promoter Tex Rickard until tomorrow because of threatening weather, it was announced at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP.)—Baby Face Jimmy McLarnin—the harp that twanged the cords in Sid Terris' chin just once to become the lightweight sensation of the day—will have his chance tonight to strum knockout music on the jaw of Sammy Mandell, champion of the division.

The boys who wager on fistic combat, laid odds of 2 to 1, however, that the clever titleholder from Rockford, Ill., would evade the knockout wallop in McLarnin's right hand. They were less confident that a new champion would not be crowned at the end of the 15-round skirmish in the Polo Grounds, the first major combat of the season.

CHILLY SAUCE

BY CHILLY DOYLE

IT will take more than the assurance of an eighth-place berth to keep Fresco Thompson quiet. The effervescent second-sacker has the brand of ginger that makes an infield look snappy even when it is going poorly.

Any boy who pleads to go from a bench seat on the New York club to a regular berth in Philadelphia is not going to be held back. A lot of players should take a leaf from Fresco's book. He believes in himself and that is one of the principal reasons why any number of clubs would be glad to of the chance to get him away from Shotton.

IT SEEMS to be natural for some boys to chatter and still play good baseball. Others apparently are at their best when they go about their work in a quiet manner. The patron of the game likes the noisy type.

The Pirates have four stars of brilliant hue in the infield. Traynor goes at high speed every day and has boundless ginger; there is an abandon to the actions of Wright, but on the whole the all-star infield does not do the things that stir up the fans.

THE foursome made up of Traynor, Maranville, Tierney and Grimm used to bring many fans to the park, just to see them put on the infield practice show. And the 1921 club with Rabbit and Grimm furnishing many sidelights, drew remarkable crowds all year long, at home and abroad.

Babe Ruth's home-run bat may be regarded in some quarters as a sort of sideshow in connection with the big tent, but Ruth is getting more attention from the press and public than CHICAGO, May 17.—(AP.)—Kiki Cuyler, star outfielder, is a permanent fixture with the Cubs, President William Veeck has stated in spiking a current rumor he was to be traded for Freddie Lindstrom of the Giants.

"We like Cuyler just as well as we ever did and we're not going to trade him for anyone," Veeck said. "Cuyler is a fixture with the Cubs and I want to make that as emphatic as possible."

Cuyler has been on the bench for the past few games, nursing an injured right hand, which was bruised in a spring exhibition game at Kansas City.

CHAMPION AND CHALLENGER SET FOR ACTION

Sammy Mandell, the champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, the challenger, meet in a scheduled 15-round bout at the Polo Grounds, New York, tomorrow night. Mandell is favored to win, despite McLarnin's greatly feared knockout punch. One of the most sensational championship battles in years in the lightweight division is anticipated.

CORSAIRS HOPE FOR SWEEP IN SERIES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE Pirates have a nice little task ahead for the remainder of the week. Starting with a game this afternoon, the Bushwhackers have three contests scheduled with the Phillies before leaving the city. Although the home team is in poor shape physically its morale is good and the players seem to feel that brighter things are in the offing.

Despite the natural chatter regarding the slump of the Oaklanders the club is only four games away from the top. And what does that mean at this early period of the race? A cleanup of the Quakers might put the club high up in the race. It may be asking too much to look for three straight successes over the Phils, but the Pirates surely will be out there hustling.

The idleness of yesterday should be beneficial to the Buccos. Smith, Kremer, Hill and Comorosky are all in need of rest. "Oil of the Ozarks" has one of those leg injuries that seems hard to analyze. Earl's bad member is swollen and sore, but he is ready and willing to go under the bat. Donie may give Ralston Hemsley a chance to show his stuff behind the bat today.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK SPORTS EDITOR

BELIEVE it or not, but Sammy Mandell, just before his defense of his world lightweight title against Jimmy McLarnin at the Polo Grounds in New York tonight, still appears a red-hot bet to walk in breezing with the verdict. McLarnin has just one thing in his favor and that is the gambling chance a hitter always has of winning with one wallop. But against that Mandell has edges in boxing skill, quick thinking, good, sound experience and speed, together with the fact that the Derby distance of 15 rounds is not new to him, while McLarnin never has traveled more than 10 rounds.

Any way one looks at the most interesting lightweight championship match in years, the odds of 6 to 5 and better on Mandell to win are justified.

THE news appears to be leaking out that there will be a hoss race at Churchhill Downs, come Saturday. It is a long-distance affair known as the Kentucky Derby, and, although considerable effort has

Mandell Defies Old Jinx In Bout Tonight

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP.)—Sammy Mandell is defying a ring jinx by taking his title into the Polo Grounds in New York tonight. Four world champions have lost their crowns in that arena, and a sixth, Jack Dempsey, was knocked through the ropes for a count of nine by Luis Angel Firpo before climbing back to knock out the Argentine giant.

Johnny Kilbane lost the featherweight crown to Eugene Criqui on a knockout in the second round on June 2, 1923. Criqui dropped the crown on points to Johnny Dundee less than two months later.

Johnny Wilson, then middleweight champion, lost the decision to Harry Greb on August 31, 1923, and Pete Latzo permitted himself to be outpointed by Joe Dundee for the welter crown last year.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 17.—(AP.)—The exhibition game here yesterday between the New York Yankees and the New Haven Eastern League club broke up in a riot in the eighth inning when thousands of boys rushed the police and mobbed Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig in their excitement to get close to their heroes. New Haven won the game, 6 to 5.

Byrd, playing center field for the Yankees, hit a home run, the only one of the contest.

ILLINOIS RING PROFITS LEAD

CHICAGO, May 17.—(AP.)—Principally because of the Tunney-Dempsey championship match, Illinois led all other states in net profits received from boxing and wrestling shows in 1927. New York was second, Pennsylvania third and California fourth.

During 1927, 567,922 persons paid $3,485,880 to witness boxing and wrestling matches in Illinois. Of this amount $294,273 went to the state. There were 155 shows during the year in which 1,293 licensed boxers and wrestlers participated.

New York's gross receipts were $298,677.55 from which was paid the expenses of collection and of the State Boxing Commission. Net receipts of the other leading states were: Pennsylvania, $103,961; California, $101,510.64.

PITTSBURGH GIRL HURT AT SCHOOL TRACK MEET

BUTLER, Pa., May 17.—Miss Mildred Hunsicker, 20, of Carrick, Pittsburgh, a student at Slippery Rock States Teachers' College, yesterday fractured her left leg while participating in an a class track meet at the school athletic field in Slippery Rock.

GREENSBURG CLUB HOST AT SHOOT TODAY

The Greensburg Gun Club is host to Western Pennsylvania trapshooters today at the Mountain View Hotel, on the Lincoln Highway. The shooting was scheduled to start at 9 o'clock. Four prizes are to be awarded.

TILDEN TO PLAY BROWN TODAY

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—(AP.)—Arnold Jones of Providence, R. I., was matched against John Hennessey, Indianapolis player, in the first game of the second day Davis cup tennis trials to day. Rain prevented the match yesterday.

Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, Tex., who was defeated by the younger Wilbur F (Junior) Coen of Kansas City yesterday was pitted against George Lott, Chicago. Today also marked the first game for William T. Tilden, Philadelphia, captain of the squad who was matched with Wray Brown of St. Louis.

Joseph W. Wear, Philadelphia, chairman of the Davis cup committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, arrived yesterday to see Coen win from Allison. Charles Garland, New York, chairman of the selection committee, will reach here tomorrow.

Allison won the first set from Coen yesterday due to better placements, and was leading 3-2 in the second set when a downpour of rain delayed the play. The respito been made to keep it a secret in order to avoid having too many people try to get in to see it, the word has circulated around fairly well and indications are that quite a mob will be there. A mob of the elite and the common peepul. It's hard to keep a secret these days, especially with the papers ready and anxious to print anything that appears to contain a semblance of news interest.

Well, anyway, now that it seems to be fairly well understood that the Kentucky Derby is scheduled for Saturday, our main job is to dig up pictures of all the dark horses (not necessarily so in color), so we'll be able to use the winner after Reigh Count, the favorite, does a Pavlowa allee samee like Nassak in the Preakness last week. The closer this derby gets the hotter favorite does Reigh Count become. In his trials and test races he shapes up like Phil Scott in a gymnasium. He can't get to be a much hotter choice and still win. After derby favorites reach a given stage of certainty, they must go the other way. So be prepared to read in next Saturday's paper that Reigh Count ate the dust of some horses you didn't even know were in the race.

SPEAKING at the testimonial banquet in his honor, tendered him by his Brother Elks in his home town of Monongahela, the other night, Rod Ellsworth said he drove over into Ohio last Sunday to see C. C. Pyle's marathoners, or what is left of them, go through, and was struck with the idea that they were a sorry looking lot of athletes who were carrying on manfully to play out their string.

"All they are doing is pacing it out in the hope that they will reach New York. Andy Payne, who has set the pace much of the way, is plugging along and I hope he wins," Ellsworth said. "He is a good runner and has given his all, and it would be a pity to see him beaten out now."

Rod's wife accompanied him on the jaunt and when she saw the caravan said she was glad Rod was out of the grind. As for Rod, he is planning to make another attempt to cross the continent if another race is held next year.

French Hurdler Demands Wine With Meals

BORDEAUX, May 17.—(AP.)—Gabriel Sempe, France's best hurdler, has declined membership on the French Olympic team unless he has his regular half bottle of Bordeau wine with his meals.

Sempe, referred to by the officials as a man who "prefers to train in his own way," will probably have his favorite drink, since he is the only Frenchman at present capable of turning in around 15 seconds for the 110 meters hurdles.

He will be forced to compete against men of the class of Wells, Spencer, Collier and Guthrie of the United States team.

Miss Fowler Tops Veteran

HUNSTANTON, England, May 17.—(AP.)—America's sole surviving representative in the British women's open golf tournament, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, was eliminated, 3 and 2, by Miss Judith Fowler here today.

Play started in fair, warm weather with bright skies, the storm of yesterday having blown itself out last night.

The first hole was halved, both getting par 4.

On the second hole, Mrs. Hurd was in the bunkers twice, getting a 6. Her opponent got a 5 and was 1 up.

Both drove into a bunker on the third. Miss Fowler chipped out and then sunk a 12-foot putt to win with a 5. Mrs. Hurd missed a 6-foot putt and took a 6, going 2 down.

Mrs. Hurd gained on Miss Fowler when she won the short fourth hole with a 3 to her opponent's 4, making her 1 down.

The fifth and sixth holes were both halved in 5s.

Miss Fowler went 2 up again at the seventh, getting a 3 to Mrs. Hurd's 4. Miss Fowler's tee shot was 10 feet from the pin. Mrs. Hurd pulled her drive, she chipped and then barely missed a 25-foot putt.

Mrs. Hurd played the eighth well, winning with a 5 to her opponent's 6.

She squared the match at the turn winning with a 5 to Miss Fowler's 6. Mrs. Hurd sunk a 10-foot putt.

Miss Fowler took the lead again at the tenth, winning with a birdie 3. She ran the ball up a slope 20 yards from the edge of a bunker, while Mrs. Hurd's third shot rested a few feet from the cup.

The next three holes were halved, both players getting 5s on the eleventh, 4s on the twelfth and 6s on the thirteenth. Miss Fowler's excellent work on the greens prevented Mrs. Hurd from drawing level.

Miss Fowler won the thirteenth with a 3 to her opponent's 4, going 2 up.

The fifteenth was halved in 6s.

Miss Fowler won the match on the sixteenth with a birdie 2. Mrs. Hurd got a 4. The cards:

The French girl, Mlle. Nanette Leblan, reached the final of the championship this afternoon by defeating Miss Enid Wilson, English star, one up, in the first semi-final match.

HAGEN LEADS ALLISS

BERLIN, May 17.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen was three up on Percy Alliss at the end of the first 18 holes of their 36-hole exhibition golf match today.

A large international crowd followed Hagen and Alliss about the course. Both the star golfers started the round by driving into bunkers. Many of the spectators were surprised that Hagen was able to play so well over a course he had not seen until 24 hours before the start of the match.

all the stuff being enacted in the three rings.

TAKE Babe out of a series, we shall say in Cleveland. Announce his absence beforehand and then make a check of the attendance to compare with the "gate" of a series in which Bambino takes part. The difference on the intake would give you a nice vacation trip to any part of the United States or Europe.

Fortunately for the American League, Ruth has loads of color to go with his act. And his traits are as natural as Nick Altrock's homeliness. The home-run king has a wondrous charm, no doubt about that. Men, women and children storm him for autographs everywhere he goes and his close associates say he has yet to lose his temper or show a disposition to dodge the annoyance.

APPARENTLY the pitchers of the American League are giving Bambino a better chance to hit this season. The Gehrig threat doubtless was partly the reason why Babe established a record last season, and Lou's position in the lineup may work to the interest for Babe again.

seemed to favor Coen as he won two straight sets from his older opponent. In the second set Coen outsteadied Allison to win, 7-5, while in the third set the Kansas City boy came from behind on several occasions, his fighting play enabling him to capture this set.

At the start of the fourth set Allison realized he must win the set to remain in the play, and he played his best tennis. After the score reached 3-all in games, he maintained a safe lead, winning 6-4.

Coen was decidedly more accurate in the final set. The players battled on even terms for the first six games, but after that Coen held a big advantage, winning the set, 6-2.

U. S. LACROSSE PLAYERS ON OXFORD TEAM

OXFORD, England, May 17.—(AP.)—Seven Americans made up the majority of the Oxford University lacrosse team which competed with Stockport for the lacrosse championship of England. Stockport won, 7 to 6.

The overseas players were R. J. Breyfogle and N. K. Parker of Dartmouth; R. J. Van De Graaf, University of Alabama; R. B. Cushman, Racine, Wis.; A. D. Bond, University of Missouri; R. N. Cunningham, Mercersburg Academy, and George R. Pfann, Cornell. Several of the American players stand a very good chance of competing in the coming Olympics.

Girl Swim Star Cracks Seven Tank Marks

WHITINSVILLE, Mass., May 17.—(AP.)—Joan McSheehy, 15-year-old swimming marvel of the Whitinsville Swimming Club broke seven world's records and established an eighth in a specially staged exhibition under the auspices of the New England A. A. U. here last night. The records were all back stroke style.

Covering 200 yards in 2 minutes 49 4-5 seconds, Miss McSheehy first clipped 1 1-5 seconds from the record of 2:51 flat held by Lisa Lindstrom of New York. Then she went after Miss Bauer's marks.

She swam 500 yards in 7 minutes 32 3-5 seconds, shaving nearly 20 seconds off the established mark of 7:52. She traveled 600 yards in 9:07 as compared with Miss Bauer's 9:30 2-5. Her time for 700 yards was 10:42 4-5, some 25 seconds under Miss Bauer's 11:07 4-5. At 800 yards she was clocked in 12:18 4-5, compared to the old record of 12:44 1-5 and for the 880 she was credited with 13:30 3-5, or better than 26 seconds faster than Miss Bauer's 13:56 4-5.

As there is no recognized record for 400 yards Miss McSheehy's 5 minutes 58 1-5 seconds may stand as the accredited.

STATE RING BOARD O. K.'S PHIL GLASSMAN

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission has announced suspensions as follows:

Charley Cleaney, boxer, Norristown, three months for unsportsmanlike conduct in ring.

Frankie Ferro, boxer, Philadelphia, unavailable indefinitely because of illness.

William Jones, boxer, Philadelphia ill, unavailable indefinitely. Must honor Lancaster contract before appearing elsewhere.

Phil Glassman, manager, Philadelphia, and his stable of boxers, were reinstated, Glassman having apologized for remarks made about Chairman Frank Wiener.

Payne's Lead Cut

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., May 17.—(AP.)—C. C. Pyle's blistered brigade had to mush down the Liberty Highway toward Bradford, Pa., their seventy-fifth control station, 44 miles east of here today. Andrew Payne, the Oklahoma farm hand who has been showing his heels to his rivals with great consistency, led the pack with an elapsed time of 487 hours, 23 minutes and 37 seconds for the 2,950.9 miles of hard road from Los Angeles to Jamestown.

John Salo of Passaic, N. J., holder of second place in the standing, blazed the trail from Erie, Pa., yesterday, covering the 60 miles in 8 hours, 46 minutes and 5 seconds. The leader was content to lose one hour, 32 minutes and 52 seconds of his advantage over Salo, finishing in a tie for fourth place for the day. Payne still holds the big advantage of 20 hours, 9 minutes and 35 seconds over the New Jersey Finn, whose elapsed time is 507:33:12.

The control points for the rest of the week are: Tomorrow, Wellsville, N. Y.; Saturday, Bath, N. Y.; Sunday, Elmira, N. Y.

Arthur Newton of Rhodesia, South Africa, who led the race through the first 500 miles before he was forced out with a strained tendon achilles, commented on the good condition of the remaining runners. "They are coming along fine," he said. "The stamina of the entire lot is almost superhuman."

NOTES of the BOXERS

CUDDY DeMARCO boxes Mickey Fedor in a 10-round bout at Massillon, O., tonight.

Station KDKA will be in the hookup of radio broadcasting stations for the Mandell-McLarnin fight at the Polo Grounds, New York, tonight. A blow-by-blow description will be sent from the ringside.

Terry Lirgo of the North Side will substitute for Young Rudy of Charleroi, who is ill, against Steve O'Malley of Bellaire, O., in the main bout of the boxing show for the benefit of St. Francis College at Johnstown tonight. Linn Jordan meets Al Christy of Youngstown in the semi-final, Tommy Ward boxes Mike Hogan in the second bout and Rudy Sloan meets Johnny Wildner in the opening bout.

Andy Charlton of Wellsburg and Frankie Palmo of Cincinnati, box the 10-round windup of a show at Clarksburg, W. Va., tonight.

RACE CIRCUIT CARDS MEETS

BUTLER, Pa., May 17.—Plans are about completed for the Progressive Coal, Oil and Iron Racing Circuit, which will start early in July, and continue with two-day meetings throughout the circuit, until the opening of the fairs. J. M. Dunkle of Butler is head of the loop.

Five meetings have been arranged by the horsemen. The first will be held at Junction Park, New Brighton, July 4 to 7. This will be followed by a meeting at Warren, O., July 11 and 12. The following week will find all horses competing on the local half-mile track. July 20 and 21 have been set for Butler. The horses will compete in New Castle July 27 and 28, and will complete the circuit August 3 and 4 at Warren, Pa.

Four trots and four paces will be on the card and four races will be run each day. Two stakes, the 2:20 trot and the 2:21 pace, will feature the cards. Entries for these events closed yesterday and the work of completing the entries will be begun immediately.

Included in the races are 2:11, 2:14, 2:21 and 2:30, while the trots will be composed of the following classes, 2:16, 2:20, 2:24 and 2:30. Entries in all but the stakes will be open until the day of the race.

Horsemen throughout the Western part of the state are expected to greet the circuit with real approval. It was organized to give horsemen a chance to race their entries prior to the fairs. Money is already in the treasury for all events in every town. The money will be pooled and divided pro ratio at the end of the season, among the respective fair associations.

NINE MEN FINED IN GAMBLING DRIVE

NEW YORK, May 17.—(INS.)—A determined drive by police to break up gambling in the vicinity of ball parks bore first fruits yesterday when nine men were fined three dollars each in court.

All were charged with gambling. They were arrested outside the Yankee Stadium by detectives.

the late Harry Greb, who won a decision over Mickey Walker in a middleweight championship argument at the Giants' ball park. In the five other championship events staged there, Johnny Kilbane lost the featherweight crown to Eugene Criqui; a short time later Criqui himself was dethroned by Johnny Dundee; Jimmy Wilde lost the flyweight honors to Pancho Villa; Harry Greb won the middleweight title from Johnny Wilson, and Pete Latzo was beaten for the welterweight honors by Joe Dundee.

Dan O'Leary

WITH a noted ball player such as Sisler winding up his career at the age of 35, we find in striking contrast another famous sport figure still going though nearing the 82-year mark.

Before the Red-Philly game in Cincinnati last Sunday, Dan O'Leary, veteran pedestrian, gave an exhibition. He walked six times around the bases, a distance of 720 yards, in four minutes and 16 seconds, a remarkable feat for a heel-and-toe expert of his age.

O'LEARY is in fine physical condition and expects to keep on walking for a long time to come. Dan has been one of the greatest long distance walkers of all time. He figures he has walked 105,000 miles in competition. He defeated Edward Payson Weston three times in six-day races among his many feats. On his 81st birthday anniversary he walked 100 miles to win a $100 wager. O'Leary was born in Clonakelty, Ireland, June 29, 1846, and has crossed the Atlantic Ocean 45 times.

Mandell, M'Larnin Set

Mandell was a bare 6 to 5 favorite if the fight went the limit.

Mandell, a natural lightweight, expected no difficulty with the scales, while McLarnin, who started his career as a flyweight, is close indeed to the class limit of 135 pounds.

The boys who put their cash on Mandell, despite the all-around skill, speed and ringcraft of the champion, shuddered a bit at the thought of what happened when that other ring flash, Sid Terris, collided with an eight-inch thrust of Jimmy's right fist in the recent indoor season. Although the punch traveled too fast for the eyes of most of the 15,000 gathered in Madison Square Garden, all saw over Terris' twitching form the shadow of a champion—for that night at least.

MANDELL FAST

With the hysteria of that sensational one-round knockout deadened by time, ring critics now believe that Mandell, despite his unwillingness to risk his title more than once in the two years he has held it, is too fast and clever for the challenger. Although McLarnin boasts knockouts in the past year over tough Kid Kaplan, in addition to Terris, and a decisive victory over Billy Wallace, Cleveland contender, critics forecast that Mandell will outsmart the California Colt and climb up off the floor if necessary to win.

Mandell, although he has engaged in titular battle only with Phil McGraw since winning the 135-pound crown from the aging Rocky Kansas, has warded off ring rust with 30 fights in the last two years. He made the lightweight limit for Jackie Fields in Los Angeles a year ago and barely won the newspaper verdict, although Fields was overweight. McGraw gave Sammy a hard fight, and Billy Petrolle put the champion on the floor, but couldn't keep him there.

The little Irishman with the slow smile has worked easily for his great opportunity, boxing but little and striving chiefly to make the 135-pound limit without sapping strength. Mandell has trained hard and fast, adding to the speed and punching skill that stripped the mantel from the shoulders of the fading Rocky Kansas in Chicago, two years ago.

New York fistic customers—thronging to the big National League ball park in numbers that may reach 60,000, need no training proof of the lightning that lies in McLarnin's right hand. Neither do they ask proof of the speed in the legs of the Rockford shiek nor the classy ringmanship that lifted Sammy to the lightweight throne.

This will be the first big lightweight title go here since Benny Leonard trounced Lew Tendler before a $400,000 house, five years ago. The gate receiuts probably will reach $200,000.

Carnegie Shooters Triumph

MARKSMEN of the R. O. T. C. rifle team of Carnegie Institute of Technology have brought new honors to the local school by winning the national trophy offered by the Society of American Military Engineers to the engineer unit standing highest in the annual gallery rifle competition, according to reports received today by Maj. J. G. Taylor, head of the military department at Carnegie Tech. The trophy is being sent here from the University of Kansas, the winning school last year. To retain permanent possession of the prize, it must be won three times in succession.

Carnegie Tech's sharpshooters, according to the tabulated report of the scores of 17 competing institutions, won by the narrow margin of one point over the University of Cincinnati. Th scores were as follows:

Carnegie Institute of Technology, 3,549; University of Cincinnati, 3,548; Oregon Agricultural College, 3,543; University of Alabama, 3,538; University of Kansas, 3,484; University of Iowa, 3,470; Pennsylvania State College, 3,459; Rose Polytechnic Institute, 3,436; Colorado School of Mines, 3,402; Iowa State College, 3,401; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 3,396; California Institute of Technology, 3,295; Alabama Polytechnic Institute, 3,263; State College of Washington, 3,250; Virginia Polytechnic Institute, 3,247; University of Illinois, 3,197; Johns Hopkins University, 2,959.

Morgan to Seek Base Running Record

PHILADELPHIA, May 17—(INS.)—Billy Evans, joint manager of the Indians, will send his new speed demon, Eddie Morgan, out for the world record at circling the bases, it was learned. Evans believes that Morgan can better the mark set by Maury Archdeacon at Rochester in 1921, of 13 2-5 seconds. Morgan was a track star at Tulane University before he entered professional baseball ranks.

TONIGHT the second games of the County League campaign will be played, and with the initial games playing to capacity crowds it is expected that with the changing of the scenes to other grounds, opening day popularity will be repeated. Tonight, Bellevue will entertain Dormont and Beltzhoover will have Homewood as a guest.

IN the opening games both home teams copped the points involved. Beltzhoover will be working hard to even up matters with Homewood and Bellevue will naturally send Hilty to the firing line in order to keep Dormont from making it two straight. With a short schedule managers in the county loop cannot afford to get far behind, else they will be out of the race with a vengeance.

JUST as was insinuated in these columns throughout the preliminary grind, it is going to take some superhuman pitching to stop the hitting talent that all clubs have lined up. In the opening games the clubs was forced to use two pitchers with the exception of Homewood. When Charlie Rohleder pitched to the last man at Homewood Beltzhoover had used three pitchers. Zinn was the only twirler in the loop to finish his game, and when the Hite crowd scored five big markers in the first frame it looked like curtains for Zinn.

FRANK ANTHONY was the fielding star of the first night league tussles, "Wago" had four big put outs, and seven assists. And it was his double that put Homewood in the fight. Ollie Carnegie had that bludgeon of his working. That home run ball is going yet. Dick Goldberg got his usual double. The former Pitt star is evidently going to have a good year.

IT is possible that Manager George Falconer will use Besterman on the firing line for Dormont tonight. Hurley could go back in again, but this is hardly possible. Johnny Mitchell sure did run into a barrage of hits in that second frame. Bellevue's big inning in the first frame made the Bellevue followers feel good, but when Cagni hit that home run things changed considerable.

LEO CARROLL put on the hero act when Hurley bumped into that Murderers Row from Bellevue. Leo tamed that hitting array while Dormont batted out a victory. Someone must have put a silencer on that big bat of Miller's, and the old Bellevue saying held true, "When Miller is not hitting, Bellevue loses."

WHILE Manager Daly has not committed himself, it seems Bimmy Steele will draw the assignment to work the second game for Homewood. Manager Hite will probably give Crandall a chance to start tonight's game. Starting a game and going in when a team is hitting are two different problems.

BELTZHOOVER announces that President of Council Jim Malone will throw out the first ball at McKinley Park tonight. Jim is very popular with the sandlotters in the that district, and a large crowd should be on hand to see Malone's battery work.

HILTY is going to be the biggest drawing card in the county loop this year. When the speed ball king works, the crowds are going to pack the stands. Hilty's fame is known all over the circuit, and the fans feel that if anyone can tame that heavy stickwork in the County League, Hilty is the man to do it.

Stars Close Long Battle

By JESS CARVER.

SIR BILL AMOS and Sir Gibby Welch, knights of the athletic realms at W. & J. and Pitt, will enter the lists to battle each other for the last time Saturday afternoon in the annual Big Four track and field championships at the Pitt Stadium.

Gibby Welch.

Bill and Gibby, who have made everlasting names for themselves as gridiron warriors, and whose feats on the barred field will ever be remembered with thrill and pleasure by local enthusiasts, are sure point men of their respective track teams, Gibby captains the Panther squad and is being heavily counted on for four first places. He will compete in the shotput, discus, javelin and broad jump. In three of these events, the shot, discus and javelin, he'll have 'ole Bill to compete against, Amos does not attempt the broad jump event and Gibby lets the hammer throw alone.

Welch is the local record holder in the discus and up until last week, was the king of the javelin tossers. Amos has a mark of better than 140 feet in the discus, and can toss the spear over 170. He and Gib are about on a par as shot putters, though Gibby has a couple marks somewhat better than any made by Bill.

AMOS FAMOUS STAR

Bill Amos' name in football has been broadcast over the nation for the past four years, until he has become one of the best known collegians of all time in gridiron annals. Welch stepped into the picture in typical Welch fashion in 1926, when he became the leading ground gainer, and repeated his spotlight grabbing last fall when he was one of the few halfbacks to win unanimous all-America honors, being picked by every expert for an honor team berth.

Amos has been in all-America classification for three years, as a fullback. He has been THE outstanding football star of the tri-state district since his entrance into Wash-Jeff.

The Big Four meet will provide a fitting setting for the final act of the Welch-Amos duel, and while it is hardly possible that the forces wearing the Red and Black will carve out a triumph, the last meeting between Bill and Gibby will lose none of its color or attractiveness, regardless of which comes out on top.

ENTRY LIST HEAVY

The entry list for the meet will be a heavy one. Pitt will enter about 29 athletes, Wash-Jeff expects to send 30. West Virginia will have about the same number and Carnegie Tech 22. That means that some 100 fine athletes, many of them experts in their lines, will be on exhibition here Saturday.

New records are more or less expected in the following events:

220-yard dash.
Hammer throw.
Javelin.
Discus.
Broad jump.
Pole vault.

In the furlong, Ken Webecan, Pitt's sprinter, will try for a mark of 21 seconds. Don Gwinn will attempt to get 170 feet in the hammer. Welch will seek 190 or 200 feet in the javelin. Gibby will also try to beter his own record of 148 feet in the discus. Taylor of West Virginia will attempt to set a new broad jump mark and Vic Pickard strive for 13 feet, 6 inches in the pole vault.

The meet promises to develope into a battle of second, third, fourth and fifth places, with Pitt and West Virginia favored to annex the most firsts. All four schools have big squads entered, with the idea in mind of picking up all the points possible.

PITT, DUKE NETTERS BUSY

This afternoon, Pitt and Duquesne will send their varsity net team into action here in Pittsburgh. The Panthers will engage Bucknell's invading racqueteers, while the Dukes meet West Virginia Wesleyan on the Bluff. The Panther-Bucknell match will be held on the Stadium courts.

The Bobcats (W. Va. Wesleyan), were defeated yesterday afternoon by Carnegie Tech's net squad, six matches to one.

Wesleyan scored its lone victory in the third single match when Haught defeated Hooper 7-5, 6-2. The summary:

SINGLES

Schmidt, Tech, defeated Westfall, Wesleyan, 6-0, 6-2; Glaser, Tech, defeated McDowell, Wesleyan, 6-3, 6-1; Haught, Wesleyan, defeated Hooper, Tech, 7-5, 6-3; Carpenter, Tech, defeated Ritzinger, Wesleyan, 6-1, 6-4, and Kambach, Tech, defeated Holtz, Wesleyan, 6-2, 6-1.

DOUBLES

Schmidt and Glaser, Tech, defeated Haught and Westfall, Wesleyan, 6-3, 6-2, and Kambach and Carpenter defeated Ritzinger and McDowell, 6-1, 6-1.

Paddock To Race In West

LOS ANGELES, May 17.—(AP.)—Charles Paddock, veteran sprinter, will return here from the East to compete in this section's Olympic tryouts here June 16.

Following a conference here between Paddock's father and Robert S. Weaver, president of the Southern Pacific Association Amateur Athletic Union, it was announced that the dash man would leave New York Sunday evening for Los Angeles. He will arrive here the following Thursday to begin intensive training.

Paddock will run against Charley Borah, University of Southern California cinder path ace, Frank Lombardi, Los Angeles High School flyer, Frank Wykoff of Glendale, and Weldon Draper, a team mate of Borah at Southern California.

Paddock's father told Weaver that he had received a telegram from his son in which the sprinter declared he had cancelled all Eastern engagements and would leave for his home city Sunday.

Bucs Face Phils Today

yesterday's contest with the Dodgers, which was called off on account of rain. The clever Frenchman is having a hard time reaching his normal gait this season, but Manager Bush and Kremer seem to think that things are looking up for Frenchy.

Hill won his last game even if he had a very narrow escape at the finish. Carmen has been bothered with a sore back, but he probably will be able to take his regular turn on the mound now. Comorosky has almost recovered from the shoulder he injured in the exhibition game at Johnstown about two weeks ago.

It isn't likely that there will be a disposition on the part of the Pirates to underestimate the Quakers in view of the Buccos' condition, together with their disappointing play. The indications are that the Pirates will enter the series in the right mood.

Bert Shotton's club has been a consistent loser, but any club is dangerous, especially when it is down. The Phils are the kind of a team that might bring a punch right up from the floor if the Pirates are not on their guard.

PHIL HURLER DOUBTFUL

Either Jimmy Ring or Recruit Russell Miller will twirl for the Quakers in the opener this afternoon. The veteran righthander is back with the Philadelphia club after a season spent with the Cardinals.

The Phillies have undergone a few changes, but the club is likely to miss Jimmy Wilson, regardless of the acquisition of Frank Hurst, firstbaseman, who has made a fine start for Shotton.

Fresco Thompson, once a Pirate, continues to be the spark-plug of the Phillies as he performs at second base. Fred Leach, outfielder and one of the best pasture athletes in the league, is batting in the clean-up position. Whitney is the new thirdbaseman of the club. Whitney played with the New Orleans club last season.

More than $2,000 in sterling silver trophies and $1,000 in class awards, is offered in the events, which are open to the world.

JACK DEMPSEY TRAINING FOR STAGE WORK

LOS ANGELES, May 17.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey today admitted that he has been undergoing a rather rigorous seige of training, but declared that it is only to put him in shape for his forthcoming stage appearance, and not the start of another campaign to regain the heavyweight boxing title he lost to Gene Tunney.

The one time heavyweight king said he was working out as a means of reducing his girth before he appears behind the footlights. Dempsey is 10 to 15 pounds heavier than usual about the stomach, and he wants to look like a real fire eating athlete when he steps upon the stage in September.

As far as fighting Tunney again is concerned, Dempsey says he's too deaf to hear even a $500,000 offer.

"Why should I fight again?" he asked, then continued: "Money isn't everything, and I have twenty times more than I ever thought I'd be able to retire with. I value my health too much to keep on fighting. I'm in training alright, but it is not for a bout with Tunney. It is for my forthcoming stage appearance."

Between now and the time Dempsey enters the business of acting he will appear in the ring at the Coliseum here June 16 in a boxing exhibition side feature of the southwestern Olympic tryouts.

SOCCER NEWS by TOM BIRKS

THE champion soccer team of Scotland will appear in Pittsburgh on June 9 as originally scheduled, according to an announcement today by local soccer authorities, who received a telegram this morning announcing that Toronto officials have agreed to change their date to allow the Scottish team to play in the Pitt Stadium.

Arrangements for the contest practically had fallen through when the Pittsburgh officials had to select a date that conflicted with that chosen by the Toronto sponsors. However, the Canadian authorities have agreed to defer their game until the Scottish team goes through with its Pittsburgh engagement.

The contest will be played in the University of Pittsburgh Stadium.

TEX ASKED TO SEAT HOUSTON CONVENTION

NEW YORK, May 17.—(INS.)—Tex Rickard, Madison Square Garden promoter, has received an invitation to supervise the accommodation of the delegates and crowds at the Democratic National Convention. Rickard said today he would go to Houston by special car with a group of friends. He indicated that, while he would attend the convention as an observer, the task of supervising the attendance would be assigned to James Eustis, who is associated with Rickard.

The invitation to Rickard to handle the attendance came from Jesse Jones, of the Democratic National Committee.

Nehf Refuses To Alter Diet As Cubs Win

CHICAGO, May 17.—(INS.)—The idle day for the Chicago Cubs yesterday gave Artie Nehf, veteran hurler with the McCarthy crew, an opportunity to reflect on his peculiar predicament.

On May 4, when the Cubs started the winning streak which now stands at 10, Nehf ate a certain size of ham sandwich and drank a cup of coffee with exactly a spoonful and a half of sugar. Fearful that he would jinx the streak, Nehf has continued with that diet daily.

Last year Hack Wilson, slugging Cub outfielder, refused to change his uniform, grimy as it became, during the 12-game winning streak that the Cubs ran up in the early part of the season.

HEAVY RAIN MAKES DERBY TRACK RIVER OF MUD

"Go West, Young Man" Advice the Bunk—Giants

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

Heavy Turf Is Assured

LOUISVILLE, May 17.—Heavy rain, which started at 4 o'clock this morning, had converted the oval at Churchill Downs into a river of mud at 7, when the Louisville weather bureau announced that nearly half an inch had fallen during the three hours.

Downs attaches said it would take 24 hours of clear weather with sunshine tomorrow and Saturday to dry the track sufficiently to make fast footing for the Derby. In the meantime, however, the outlook was for continued rain.

A large field, with possibly 20 starters, seemed likely today.

From the declarations of owners and the assiduous training of more than a score of eligibles on hand, an overnight entry list of as many as 25 may be made public tomorrow. Five or six scratches could be counted on, depending on track conditions.

The largest field that ever started was 21 in 1923, when Zev won.

RACE FAIRLY OPEN

The feeling among horsemen seemed to be that the race is fairly open and that unless Mrs. John D. Hertz' Reigh Count is the standout the odds would indicate, their charges can be conceded a chance against the field.

Final speed trials were held by most of the candidates yesterday and today and only light conditions were planned between now and the Derby.

The odds on Reigh Count have not wavered and the colt, from all indications, will go to the post an 8-to-5 favorite. Some winter book layers were demanding 7 to 5 today.

PROBABLE STARTERS NAMED

The following lineup gives the most probable starters, with jockeys, owners and approximate odds. The first 17 named, barring accidents, are almost certain to start.

Horse.	Jockey.	Owner.	Odds.
(a)Reigh Count	Lang	Mrs. J. Hertz	8-5

GRAND CIRCUIT TO OPEN AT FORT MIAMI TRACK

TOLEDO, May 17.—The training colony is preparing for the opening of the Grand Circuit season at the Ft. Miami track here, June 25. It has been enlarged with the arrival of Bi Shively from Winfield, Kan., and Jeff Cunningham from Macon, Ga. Shively brought nine head and Cunningham 12.

In the Shively lot are the two fast pacers, Red Herr, 2:02¼, and Atwood, candidates for the $25,000 Page Dairy. Others in the string are the pacers, Donna Cupid, 2:07¾, an eligible to the $25,000 American Derby at Kalamazoo, Mich.; Olive Russell, 2:10¼, and Mac Belwin, 2:10¾; the trotters, Tolus Boy, 2:04¾, and Betty Ann Maxey, 2:09¾, and three colts.

Fred Edman, the Tennessee reinsman who is training the stable of J. E. Crosbie, Tulsa, Okla., is expected with 10 head in a few days.

OLYMPIC GAMES FORMALLY OPENED

AMSTERDAM, May 17.—(AP.)—The Olympic games opened this afternoon with four preliminary rounds in the field hockey competition. Simple ceremonies preceded the first match, a more elaborate program being reserved for the main athletic events, beginning July 28.

The prince consort of the Netherlands unveiled a tablet and statue in memory of Baron Van Tuyl, first president of the Dutch Olympic Committee. The unveiling followed a brief preliminary address by Baron A. Schimmel-Pennick Van Der Oye, president of the executive committee.

The memorial is erected to the left of the 150-foot high Marathon tower outside the Olympic Stadium. The statue represents a bronze athlete taking the Olympic oath, left hand held aloft.

In the stadium itself the only ceremony was the march of participating teams, the procedure being simplified in order not to detract from the July ceremonies.

That the emphasis is being placed on the July and August events is indicated by the fact that the only one member of the international committee, D. Von Lewald, of Germany, was present in addition to the Dutch members.

Although the stadium with a capacity of 40,000 was not nearly filled, bright, sunny weather coupled with the Ascension Day holiday combined to atract many more Hollanders, especially from nearby cities, than was expected. The Dutch do not expect strong international competition until the July events.

Today's lineups brought together: Holland vs. France and Germany vs. Spain in the Olympic Stadium and Denmark vs. Switzerland and India vs Austria in the old stadium opposite.

U. S. GOLFING PROS LOSE IN BRITAIN

LEEDS, England, May 17.—(AP.)—Ill luck pursued the North and South American contingent of golf professionals in the Yorkshire Evening News 1,000 guineas tournament yesterday. Bill Mehlhorn, Larry Nabholtz and Jose Jurado all failed to qualify for match play. A like fate befell some British stalwarts, including Harry Vardon, Abe Mitchell, Arthur Havers and Alex Herd.

W. H. Davies of Prenton headed the qualifying list with an aggregate score of 143, followed by J. W. Gaudin, C. A. Whitcombe, Tom Williamson and W. Button, tied at 144. Archie Compston had 148, Nabholtz scored 152, Mehlhorn 153 and Jurado 155. The weather was cold and the players wore overcoats as they made and missed their shots.

WOLFF, PENN STATE STAR, BREAKS WRIST

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—(INS.)—The State College baseball nine today had lost the services of one of its best athletes, Allie Wolff of Brooklyn, third baseman, boxing captain and football halfback, who sustained a fracture of his right wrist in the ball game with Pennsylvania here yesterday.

Wolff was hurt in the first inning of the 9-to-6 State victory and had to be carried from the field. Mort Wilner, Penn second baseman, ran into Wolff while rounding third base and although in the fall the Brooklyn boy's wrist was broken he held on to the ball completing the out.

Carr Wagered Pie; Broke Vault Mark

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP.)—If George Connors, the little Englishman who coaches Yale's track team, wants to help Sabin Carr regain the world's pole vault record, he would be well advised to bet Carr the contents of a bakery wagon that he can't vault 15 feet.

It was a wager of a mince pie that provided the incentive which carried Carr to a mark better than the intercollegiate record while he was still a schoolboy.

Commenting on his experiences, the Yale captain, who will defend his title in the 52nd annual intercollegiate championships at the Harvard stadium May 25-26, related the incident of the mince pie bet.

"Henry Colbath, former Bowdoin miler, was my coach at Hill School," said Carr, "and one day in practice, we put the bar at 13 feet and I was promised a mince pie if I cleared the bar. I imagine the wager enabled me to concentrate on the right leg-kick because I got over on the first trial. Then we measured the bar and found it to be 13 feet, 2 inches, which at that time was an inch better than the intercollegiate record."

Carr's greatest thrill in competition, however, came when he cleared 14 feet at the intercollegiates in 1927. The first time that height ever had been cleared. Carr cleared 14 feet one inch at the national A. A. U. indoor championships here but Lee Barnes, University of Southern California star bettered that mark by a fraction of an inch in a recent meet at Fresno, Cal. An interesting duel between the only two 14-feet men in the world is in prospect at this year's intercollegiates.

WENT 14 FEET

Carr's vault of 12 feet, 9 inches, his best competitive mark while in the schoolboy ranks, came in the Olympic tryouts of 1924 but was not good enough to place him on the American team. He bettered 13 feet by one and a fraction inches as a Yale Freshman and added an inch to the intercollegiate mark in beating Barnes and others with a leap of 13 feet, 2 inches in 1926. In the 1927 intercollegiates, both Barnes and Carr cleared the bar at 13 feet, 9 inches and on his third trial, Carr vaulted 14 feet.

Carr weighs 165 pounds in his track costume, was 23 years old last September and is 6 feet, 11 inches tall. Believing the close competition of last year helped him clear 14 feet.

WILLS SEEDED IN TITLE PLAY

PARIS, May 17.—(AP.)—Helen Wills, the American and Wimbledon tennis champion, is seeded in the upper and easier half of the draw for the women's singles in the French hard court championships, starting next Monday.

Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, the former American champion, and Miss Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va. girl who came abroad as Miss Will's playing partner, are bracketed in the lower half, together with Evelyn Colyer and Betty Nuthall, the English stars, and Kea Bouman of Holland.

Frank Hunter, principal American entry in the men's singles, faces keen competition early in the tournament. His third round opponent probably will be Henri Cochet, assuming that the French stars disposes of Sydney Hood, New York boy, in the second round.

Jean Borotra is in the second quarter of the men's draw, along with Gerald Patterson of Australia, while Jacques Brugnon is in the third and Rene Lacoste in the fourth quarter.

There are 64 entries altogether in the men's singles, 42 in the women's singles and more than a dozen nations represented.

Miss Wills will play with Miss Anderson in the women's doubles and with Miss Hunter in the mixed doubles. Barring an upset, the Wills-Anderson team should play the English team of Betty Nuthall and Joan Austin Lycett in the semi-finals.

Jurado, Compston May Come to U. S.

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Somebody stopped being dumb along about the end of the qualifying round of the British open, it was learned on credible authority today, and decided that Jose Jurado, like the rose that blushed unseen, was wasting his fragrance on the Argentine, even if it was garlic itself. Anyhow, the story around the United States Golf Association headquarters today was that Jose might be weaned away from the bones or the airs of Buenos Aires and installed this summer as professional at a newly organized course in the Westchester county district of New York.

The same source of information declared that Archie Compston, Britain's best and perhaps only remaining golfer, might be offered the spot in preference to Jose, the idea being that an Exhibit A is needed and any gent who beats Walter Hagen by 18 up and 17 to play ought to be on a pedestal with the other museum pieces.

OFFERS $15,000

The organization in question is the North Castle Golf and Country Club, near Mt. Kisko, and the report that either Compston or Jurado might be hired had its inception shortly after Thomas E. Donovan, guiding spirit of the outfit, announced that he had a $15,000 contract awaiting the winner of the British open. This, it may be said, is an excellent contract, even if nobody gets it. As a matter of fact, it represents the largest bid for professional services in the history of golf.

Hagen, of course, ruined the continuity by winning the British championship, it being assumed by everybody that this nonchalant young man would be somewhat irked by the suggestion that he identify himself with any given proposition, exclusively and privately, while his public is clamoring incessantly and without surcease, which obviously is the wrong thing to be without. Anyhow, Hagen is to be blandished with the $15,000 offer as soon as he lands, according to the word passed along today. If he just cannot be annoyed, they will ask him to consider a part-time identification with the course.

If this fails of enticement, there is no one left but Jurado or Compston, as Gene Sarazen, runner up to Hagen, is unavailable owing to an existing contract with Fresh Meadow.

TIRES OF HOMELAND

That Compston is headed for America is a belief that is rather widely accepted in this country, Archie having tired of English customs which insist that a professional golfer eat with the other help. He will be here for the National open at Olympia Fields next month and the understanding is that he won't be permitted to escape, even if he wants to, which he doesn't.

As for Jurado, I have it on the authority of the U. S. G. A. that he worked as pro at a club near Peekskill, N. Y., for two years and might welcome a chance to return where the big money is always mentioned, even when its isn't paid.

That $15,000, of course, doesn't go, except to Hagen, if then. They could hire Compston and his Uncle Abner for that and still have enough left to keep Jurado in frijoles for the rest of his life.

COACHES MEET TOMORROW

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 17.—The second annual banquet meeting of the West Virginia High Coach's Association is to be an event in connection with the eleventh annual high school track and field championships, to be held here tomorrow and Saturday. West Virginia High School coaches organized in their first meeting here last year, and since that time they have perfected their organization.

Rocco Gorman, of Charleston, president of the association, and George W. Hill, of Logan, secretary and treasurer, have been planning a program for the event, and expect to have a program of speeches and music to intersperse the banquet and meeting.

The organization started last year with 29 coaches of state high schools, and since that time 43 others have been added to the roll, giving the organization a total membership of 72 coaches.

Another feature of this year's meeting will be the election of new officials. Present officers of the organization are: President, Rocco Gorman, Charleston; vice president, Clay V. Hite, Wash-Irving, Clarksburg; secretary and treasurer, George W. Hill, Logan.

UNDERCOVER CAPTURES FEATURE AT JAMAICA

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. W. Knapp's Undercover, by Underfire Pyrope, won the Garden City claiming stakes, which featured the closing day of the Jamaica track yesterday.

The four year gelding scored a great victory, beating out E. Arlington's Clearance by a head and covering the mile and one-sixteenth distance in 1:46 1-5, although carrying the top weight of 124 pounds. Scat, another Arlington entry was third. Paragraph, the favorite, finished a bad fourth. The race was worth $3,275.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

COMPOSITIONS of Franz Schubert will be featured in the Ampico hour, which will be broadcast through KDKA and other stations associated with the Blue Network tonight at 8:30 o'clock. The Vertchamp String Quartet will play selections from Schubert's chamber music, and Louise Stallings, soprano, will sing "The Trout," one of the composer's loveliest songs. An interesting feature of the program will demonstrate how the main theme of Schubert's Unfinished Symphony was used in the "Song of Love" from "Blossom Time," a musical play written around the life of Schubert.

A carnival program has been arranged for the Maxwell hour, to be heard through Blue Network stations, including KDKA at 9:00 o'clock. A concert orchestra of 35 pieces directed by Nathaniel Shilkret, will play a program of music composed for celebrated festivals in several parts of the world, including Dvorak's "Carnival Overture," which shows the great Bohemian composer in a gay mood, depicting the somewhat boisterous carnival of the peasantry of his country. Another number, Handel's "Water Music Suite," was composed for the coronation festivities of George I. The Orient will be represented by Savino's "Shanghai Gesture," and Russia by the polonaise from Tschaikowsky's opera "Eugen Onegin." The ballet music from Verdi's "Aida" will represent Egypt; Ferrari's "Spanish Rhapsody" will sound the Spanish note; and Germany will find its place with the bacchanale from Wagner's "Tannhauser." "Mardi Gras" from Ferde Grofe's "Mississippi Suite," descriptive of the famous New Orleans carnival, will be another number. The International Singers, a male quartet, also will be heard in this program. Their numbers will include Ferrari's "Hunting Song," Morley's "The Month of May," a madrigal, "Barbara" and "Seen My Lady Home Las' Night."

Specialties by many different instruments will be heard in the Dodge Brothers presentation over WCAE and other Red Network stations at 8:00 o'clock. The accordion, trumpet, banjo, xylophone, violin, saxophone and the guitar all will be heard in some special selections during the half-hour broadcast. In addition there will be vocal selections by Erva Giles, soprano, and Vaughn De Leath, contralto, and a male quartet.

David Buttolph's arrangement of Logan's familiar "Pale Moon" will be sung by the Hoover Male Quartet, as a part of the program of the Hoover Sentinels, another network feature to be heard over WCAE at 8:30 o'clock. The program will open with Drdla's "Souvenir," a favorite selection for violin, but it will be heard this evening in orchestral dress. The Hoover Honeymooners will also take part, singing two duets—"Till the Clouds Roll By," from "Oh, Boy," and "Sweethearts," from Romberg's "Maytime."

Ambassadors To Be Heard On Radio

A dinner to be tendered by Percy S. Straus in honor of the French and German ambassadors and the Austrian and Swedish ministers to the United States will be on the air tonight. It will be broadcast, beginning at 9 o'clock, from the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York, through Red Network stations, including WEAF, New York; WTAG, Worcester, and WFI Philadelphia.

Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of The New York Times, will preside as toastmaster. He will introduce Mr. Straus, M. Paul Claudel, ambassador of the French Republic; Baron Friedrich Wilhelm von Prittwitz und Gaffron, ambassador of Germany; Edgar Prochnik, minister of Austria; Dr. Bruno Paul, one of the founders of the modern art movement in Germany, and Harvey Wiley Corbett, American architect.

CHICAGO MAKES PLANS FOR CUP ZONE FINALS

CHICAGO, May 17.—(AP.)—Arrangements for handling a crowd of 2,000 at the American Zone Davis cup finals June 1, 2 and 3, were completed today by the Chicago Davis Cup Committee, headed by James C. Stewart, president of the Western Lawn Tennis Association.

All matches will be played on the clay courts of the Chicago Town and Tennis Club. Next week-end, the four remaining teams in the American Zone battle to see which teams will play here. The United States team will clash with China at Kansas City. In the other half Japan meets the Canadians, probably at Montreal.

Chicago has seen no Davis cup play since 1923, when the Australian team defeated Japan in the American Zone semi-finals.

Jean Rendisell has a "tall job" in that giraffe, but she led it all over the place, hither and yon, quite capably. Prizes awarded to winning students in various contests were donated to the school board by the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

BOY CONFESSES THREATENING GROCER

Admitting, according to city detectives, that he sent threatening letters to Julius Goldberg, grocer, of 49 South Main street, West End, Anthony Mezynski, 16, of 3 Horner street, a student in the Allegheny Vocational School, was arrested this morning when it was discovered that his handwriting resembled that contained in the letters. Five hundred dollars were demanded under threat of bombing Goldberg's home.

Four letters were received by the grocer during the last three weeks, detectives said. He was told to place the $500 under the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad bridge at the foot of Coal Hill. A diagram accompanied one of the letters, designating the spot where the money was to be placed. In addition to the letters, Goldberg said he received two threatening telephone calls.

City Detectives Edward McEntee and Saul Fromme hid all last night near the spot where the money was to have been placed, but no one appeared. Fromme had been checking handwriting of school children in the vicinity and this morning decided to arrest Mezynski. The youth confessed, according to detectives.

CONTEMPT WRIT HITS SALOONIST

Martin Markowski, saloon keeper of 4769 Liberty avenue, was cited for contempt of court in an order by Judge J. R. Macfarlane today. An injunction to prevent liquor sales was issued against Markowski last November but, it is claimed, failed to stop sales in his establishment during the next month. Markowski was given 10 days to appear before the court.

LOCAL BOY IS KILLED BY AUTO

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 17.—James Christner, 8, son of Frank Christner, 426 Sweetbriar street, Pittsburgh, died in Memorial Hospital from concussion of the brain suffered when struck by an automobile while playing. The family was here visiting relatives.

BALDRIDGE LEAD 1,043 IN CORRECTED FIGURES

An error in announcing the official election returns gave Carl C. Baldridge, renominated in the Tenth District, a lead of only 43 votes over his unsuccessful opponent, Dr. Benjamin H. Patterson. The correct lead was 1,043 votes. The official count in the district was: James M. McClure, 11,631; Frank J. Riddle, 10,291; Arthur Storer, 9,487; Carl C. Baldridge, 7,853; B. H. Patterson, 6,810.

STORE AT OVERBROOK LOOTED BY BURGLARS

Burglars who broke into the Thoma & Distefano drug store at 2424 Library road, Overbrook early today, escaped with $4.50 cash and $800 in merchandise, the owners reported to county detectives.

WORKMAN STRUCK BY FALLING BEAM DIES

James Coyne, 30, of 2446 Parkview avenue, died in the Mercy Hospital today from injuries received Saturday. While at work on the new William Penn Hotel annex in Grant street, he was struck by a falling beam.

Dover Answers Will's Plea for Air Signs

DOVER, O., May 17.—Acting on a suggestion made by Will Rogers, noted humorist, that communities paint the name of their city on a conspicuous building, the local Lions Club yesterday ordered a 65-foot sign erected on the city waterworks building.

A Fair Maid Meets Love In Strange Surroundings

her as the great bulk whirled halfway round and sent her sprawling into the gutter.

She was not hurt. She pulled herself up, stood looking down with a queer chill creeping over her. The ditch was half filled with water; now dark streaks ran over the blue wool.

The car had stopped up the road and was backing slowly. But she gave a little, terrified cry and struck out across the fields. She wasn't hurt—oh, no. But a lovely dream was shattered. No more to walk joyously, queen it in blue that turned her eyes sapphire, with everybody saying, "Gee, Em, that's one nifty outfit!"

Agnes cried, too, and tried to be comforting. "Everything for the best Emmy, if you'll let it be so. This may turn out a happy thing, who knows? There, now; don't mind so, baby. Some day you'll have another dress much nicer."

Along with the thought of her mother came a vision of "Kitten" becoming a dancing sprite of a figure with a flaming aureole of hair and long, yellow eyes. Chin flung high, lips parted, a knowing smile, she was a colorful, capricious thing and she had a strange knack of always getting her own way.

Many a storming hour brewed in the Day household about her elfin self.

She treated with a rare flippancy her father's rantings and those he ranted against.

"Guess old Rossiter wouldn't be such a bum if he gave you his money, would he, dad?" she's suggest with a giggle.

"I'll have no sauce from you Miss," Steve would reply, suddenly filled with dignity.

Sometimes she would take walks with Emily in the evening. They would go out River road, loitering past Highcliffe, the Rossiter home. A stately villa of gray stone set far back from the street toward the river bank and shielded from prying eyes by a tall English wall. Even the gates were screened by casual clumps of pine and cedar.

But, lingering so, the girls would catch glimpses of shaded lamps, light gleaming down a nickle-hooded motor, perhaps hear a strain of music. Very unreal, very fairy-like it seemed to them as they wondered what living in such magnificance would be like.

"Isn't it swell-elegant, Emmy? Mrs. Briggs says Avis has a whole suite of rooms for herself and a maid just to take care of her clothes. Mmm, maybe I wouldn't like that. Makes you see why father goes raving around."

Mrs. Samantha Briggs was the Rossiter housekeeper and a friend of Agnes, so the Days received at first hand all the gossip from Highcliffe.

Today was just the kind of day to dream about Kent and try to figure out Marty's increasing attentions to her.

Marty at 18 was a big, athletic boy with ruddy hair and red-brown eyes, a handsome young fellow in a heavy, rather sullen way. As he went strolling along Main street with his truculent, lordly manner, cap on the side of the head, feminine eyes turned with interest—and turned away. Up to this time it had not been considered quite safe to know him, but now Anne Morrow evinced an interest in him.

Anne didn't mind Marty being impolite, Emily reflected. Indeed it seemed almost that she liked his spiteful manners, considering how she fluttered and looked self-conscious when he said atrocious things. She called him "red-blooded."

It was blue blood that counted, wasn't it? That was to be somebody important and fine—to be blue-blooded. To have ancestors: a family whose members had done splendid things. This was what turned the blood blue. Not to be placed by a dinner pail, Tin Badge of Caste; not to have your father running on about "them swells."

Emily knew now what "socially" meant. Anne could meet the word without flinching. Not flinching much, anyway. Did this mean Anne was blue-blooded?

But most things, she had learned, sought contact with their own kind. If Anne really were blue-blooded why did she admire Marty, whose father, Tim, ran a "speakeasy," a "neat little joint" he called it, down at the river edge?

She went to Stella to ask about Anne, "Why does she seem to like Marty, Stell? A year ago she wouldn't speak to him and now she sort of follows him around and he never says a decent word to her. Is it just 'cause he's different from the other boys? Sort of the way you like a circus?"

"Not likely. No use telling you, sweet Emmy. Wait'll you grow up."

"Why, I'm most as old as you, Stell."

"Not by 10 or 20 years, kid. Marty's pretty nifty, you know. Guess Anne's caught by the ole S. A."

"Well, what is S. A.? I heard someone — Bess Tourney — say that—"

"Of all the innocents! Listen—" Stella lowered her voice, whispered eagerly; Emily listened in a tense unrest.

"No," she kept saying. "No—I don't believe that—"

"You wait, Miss Wise-lady," Stella laughed. "You just wait."

Well, she was waiting—wondering what would happen when Kent graduated. Lips all shaking, she hummed a snatch of the song that had come to mean Kent to her.

"How oft hereafter, rising shall she look
Through this same garden, and for me in vain!"

"Life is like that maybe," she told herself. "Two come together and then time separates them. I heard something once: 'Ships that pass in the night.' Exquisite that is. A ship would be lonely after it had passed another—gone on into the gray.

"Yet it would be glad for the moment of light and sound. Perhaps there'd be a twist of music, like a silver bridge, thrown from one to the other."

Girl Twins Broke, Sleep In Garage, Land in Court

Elizabeth and Violet Fallon, 17, twins, of Salisbury, Somerset county, came to Pittsburgh a week ago to see the sights. Their money ran out and they could not locate their sister, who is employed here.

Yesterday they went into an East End garage to sleep and Patrolman Christ Wolfe arrested them. Today Magistrate John Orie in Morals Court turned them over to social workers.

WOMEN JOIN IN GREETING NEW U. S. BUREAU

Preliminary to opening a Pittsburgh office of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, the Retailers' Council of the Chamber of Commerce last night held a largely attended meeting in the Chamber auditorium to acquaint local business men with the new government activity which soon will be started here. Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director of the bureau, the system of service which the department is planning for those engaged in domestic trade, was the speaker.

The meeting was the first of the new fiscal year in the Retailers' Council and brought out a large attendance of business women as well as men. The affair was arranged by A. W. Smith, Jr., president of the council; Howard W. Leonard, credit manager of the Joseph Horne Company, and George H. Alexander of George H. Alexander & Co.

Dr. Surface spoke on "Retail Distribution" and described surveys and experiments conducted by the government.

"BLAMES" EFFICIENCY

"The greatest problems that face the business men of today are the problems of distribution and marketing," said Dr. Surface. "Mass production demands mass distribution. Many of these problems have arisen from our increasing factory efficiency. Commodities seeking new outlets have taxed our distributive system in many unusual ways, and we find ourselves trying out many new methods.

"In the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic we are attepting to study some of these problems of distribution. We are attempting to get more information regarding markets, methods of distribution, consumer preferances, and to delineate logical trading areas and similar factors in each part of the country. We are organized with the purpose of rendering service to business men. We are working thoroughly and impartially and always working for you."

250 CO-EDS HUSH 'FRAIL SEX' CRY

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY,

And they call 'em the weaker sex—or the dieting sex. Some even go so far as to refer to them as "frails."

But if you should hear anyone bewailing the passing of the "perfect 36," bust out laughing. Long and heartily. And make up your mind they weren't at the Pitt Stadium yesterday to see some 250 co-eds representing eight different schools indulge in what they called "Play Day."

To one of the less vigorous, it looked like going over the top. But it was brilliant, colorful, a sight to be commended.

Pitt was hostess to Tech, Pennsylvania College for Women, Allegheny, Seton Hill Academy, Slippery Rock, Indiana, Grove City and Johnstown. Twenty girls formed the groups from each school—and the bravest, sturdiest and most athletic they had to be.

There is a new idea going the rounds in college meets. Some feel that school competition causes hard feelings and that "drawing blood" in the old rough-and-tumble, up-and-at-'em way of the bygone days isn't really play. So this meet was different.

The girls were "shuffled"—given orange, yellow, purple, green, rose, blue, red and tan aprons to tie over their athletic bloomers and shirts, and the teams were formed from mixed groups. There will no crowing this evening, therefore, by any special school. Or weeping among the others.

While baseball, basketball, volleyball, hockey and major activities were going on about the field, off in small groups, there was every sort of challenge being made. Such as:

"I can beat you standing on one's head the longest."

Archery, handstands, cartwheels quoits and high jump, jacks, hopscotch—even single and double rope-jumping were played.

DEATH ROLL

Hailstone Funeral

Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Louisa G. Hailstone, 70, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. Bert Morrison, 2927 Perrysville avenue, where she had made her home in recent years. Mrs. Hailstone died Monday at the home of another daughter, Mrs. R. E. Sprinkle, of Butler. She was the widow of David Hailstone, resident of the North Side, and an active member of Emanuel Episcopal Church. Besides her daughters, she leaves three sons and 10 grandchildren.

Mrs. William Ulrich.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Hagerling Ulrich, 70, wife of William Ulrich, died Wednesday night at her home, Railroad street, Castle Shannon. Mrs. Ulrich was born in Pittsburgh, and for the past 33 years had lived in Castle Shannon. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church, Castle Shannon. She leaves besides her husband, one daughter, Miss Mabel Ulrich, of Castle Shannon; one son, Clarence E. Ulrich, of the Philippine Islands, and two grandchildren.

James Asdale.

James Asdale, 75, of 6827 Alder street, died Wednesday afternoon at his home. Mr. Asdale leaves his widow, Sarah Hunter Asdale; five daughters, Mrs. A. A. Schrock and Mrs. C. G. Walter, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. T. W. Hehmers, of East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. E. C. Bevier, of Hollywood, Cal., and Miss Lillian Asdale, at home; one son, Morris Asdale, of Wilkinsburg, and one brother, the Rev. Wilson Asdale, of Tifton, Mo.

Charles Kruse

Charles Kruse died Wednesday at his home, 7227 Penn avenue. Mr. Kruse was born in New York City and for many years was associated with the Sollner-Clogg Company of New York. He was a member of several Masonic bodies, including Syria Shrine. He leaves his widow, May Belvin Kruse, formerly of Richmond, Va.

Henry Schmidt.

Henry Schmidt, 75, a life-long resident of the Pittsburgh district, died Wednesday afternoon at the home of his niece, Mrs. Alice H. Kyle, 81 Bradford avenue, Crafton. Mrs. Schmidt was a member of the First United Presbyterian church, Crafton. He leaves his niece.

TRADER HORN

ed to throw the blame on someone else.

He had done it all himself and would be blamed by all his people. In fact they knew him too well, others said if he had beaten us we should have been eaten. But such a licking. And the men in the second canoes in the leopard skins and those with the red top nots were all chief sons. And so the conversation went on.

When we were all well away we pulled up on the south bank. And we all drank to our luck which had been truly great and would be talked of for all time. We now made merrie and cooked a good meal; we had nothing else to do. After this we went back to Isange Island.

As we neared this we could see many canoes pulling from it going shoreward. A little nearer we could see smoke rising from the point, our camp was on fire. We hurried up and were just in time to save it. Dried brushwood had been placed around the pallisade and this was easily pulled out. Whilst all we lost was the powder house which was small. These were the men sent by the Mpangue Chift to attack us on land but having heard of their defeat had taken a mean revenge.

(The "old visitor" at this point makes a few philosophical reflections on the effects of victory which contain nuggets of wisdom uniquely burnished.)

"What with Leopold and de Brazza putting their flags up . . . But to gain respect of a cannibal you'll find a flag is no good. Not half so good as your enemie's head on a pole or a river-fight won.

"Well, we saw the lovelight begin to glimmer in the last chapter. Now I've been filling me lungs with a bit of prowess again for a change. There was never a Fist-and-Spear from Lancashire didn't know how to dispose his vessels, come to water fighting. Aye. That half-moon formation of the old Vikings comes in again wherever you are.

"They say Nature abhors a straight line, and never more so than in water fighting. Keep to the crescent curve of Nature and you'll battle out of any difficulty. Plus a little common sense. If those fellows'd tilted one side of their canoes as a barricade same as we did they'd 'a' saved some useful lives.

"That French lad I saw was the best Frenchman I ever saw. They say the Normans are the same as ourselves in their origins, and he must 'a' been one. Aye, if he and I could 'a' worked together . . . 'Stead of Sinclair.

"There never was anything got by this submission business. At best it's but a fanciful idea. Pretty, but beyond the scope of nature. Look at Rhodes' expansion cry. Exeter Hall was against it. Until he began to succeed. Aggression is what pays. Look at America. Aye, aggression. The French call it elan or l'audace, but what they really mean is that kind of intellectual make-up that helps a man to be top-dog. Sinclair never had it. He had a yellow streak that let him down in the ultimate. A man that lets down a colleague is preparing a bigger slump for himself. A shaky conscience'll never stand against fever, even if you get properly drunk oon quinine."

Penalty of Losing

"Aye, the power that used to be called Nemesis by the ancient tapped him on the shoulder in the streets o' Liverpool. Just landed and getting his ticket for the Orkneys after he'd wired to her. That poor lass never knew what a course she'd been to a man out for a living in Africa. Betrayed his colleague so as to keep on smiling terms with a man-eating savage.

"He lost caste after that fight, old Ngogudema. Whenever you lose a fight in Africa your'e lost. There's no softness about Nature. When you're driven from the herd it's for good. I've seen a beaten old chief weep. Cover his eyes like a child. No wounds, mind you. But his heart broken. Aye, he knows there's no redress in a state of Nature. No newspaper talk to prop him up again. None of this so-called diplomacy. He sees finis written all over the sunlight, same as an old elephant.

"Aye, pity's a fancy article Nature in her wisdom can't afford to handle. Pity versus preservation of the face. That's all it is. And it turned out a good system till man thought he knew better than the powers that made him. In Nature as in international comfort it's the balance of power that must be kept delicate as a hair spring. Big issues from small adjustments, like the big weight o' steam I could get out of the engine if I respected its mechanism and remembered that its inventor knew more about it than myself.

"Handling any engine keeps a man off the wild-goose track, whether its politics or a new river in darkest Africa as they call it.

"Ma'am, it sure is a consolation to turn my eyes back. I could write all day if you wish it. This pencil and paper's good as as a whiff of opium.

Land of Brave Men

"Well, I shall be getting along with Nina T......... and Peru. Nothing shows up in a narrative better than a college lad, or a lad of high society. And that's what Little Peru was. His mother had good Inca blood. The pure Indian breeds forward. Never back, like the Negro. Republican tastes, that feller. Funny thing, all Peruvians are republican at heart. They hate the Spaniard. A natural contempt for the conquered.

"Silver mines. That's where he inherited his wealth. He and I nearly got away from St. Edward's once. We made arrangements to go as stowaways on a fruit boat for the West Indies. They caught us. That feller Horn again.

"Do I believe in realism? It's a thing I've never had anything to do with Ma'am. Reality's good enough for me. In plain words, facts. And that's what I've built on in this book.

"Well, I'll be getting on to Adieu. What's that, Ma'am. I thought I'd just been telling you he died in the streets of Liverpool. Within a few hours of landing. That poor lass waiting for him—'twas her doing he was a coward. But she never knew it.

"Where was it he used to be always talking about now . . . It came jumping about in my head one night when I woke in the dark. Kittie—Kittie Burns was it? Some little spot he could smell the smoke of. It's gone again. I've not got it right.

"Aye, 'twas hard, but he drew it on himself with his antics. Always hiding and ducking and peering out to see if you're being observed is not exactly the way to put a wild beast off that scent. He'll come the closer, out of natural curiosity. And Death's like any other untamed creature. He respects a scornful eye same as a sailor'll respect a man cutlass-armed. 'Twas the only way to enjoy yourself on the old Ivory Coast in the Earlies."

F. B. O. PICTURES LINKED WITH KEITH-ALBEE

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP.)—E. F. Albee yesterday announced that Joseph P. Kennedy, president of F. B. O. Pictures Corporation, has been elected to the newly created office of chairman of the board of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum circuit of theaters. Albee remains as president and the Keith interests and associates still retain control.

Prior to his election, Kennedy acquired a large interest in the K-A-O corporation in association with a group of bankers, including Blair & Co. and Lehman Brothers.

Kennedy recently effected an affiliation between FBO and the Radio Corporation of America, under which the radio corporation became a substantial stockholder in F. B. O.

Urges Brokers to Employ More Help; Teagle Backed

By B. C. FORBES

MANY thousands of employes are working cruelly long hours and are suffering from exhaustion at this moment while a still larger number of thousands can find no work whatsoever.

Would it not be feasible for a great many brokerage houses in Wall Street, in Chicago, San Francisco, Detroit, Boston, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and other active financial centers to take on additional clerical help at this time?

ONE accountant employed in a busy brokerage office writes:

"Cashiers, bookkeepers, and clerks of every description are working day and night—an average in my case of 16 hours out of the 24. This notwithstanding the fact that there are a great many experienced accountants who would be only too grateful for work.

"In the firm where I am employed the excuse for not putting on more help is that this great volume of business is only a flurry and that they would dislike to put men to work only to have to lay them off in three or four months. To the man who is walking the streets looking for a job, employment for even a short period is most welcome. Therefore, to give him a part of this work would not only bless him, but would give some of us a chance to sleep more than four or five hours a night—also a chance to get acquainted with our wives and children.

"I can tell you from first-hand knowledge that there is work with the stock and bond houses for many men. Mentally I feel like a 'scab' working 16 hours a day when some other fellow needs half of it so badly. Physically I need the rest cure."

Of course, there are drawbacks to taking on temporary clerks, especially as it is to be presumed that all young men and young women trained in brokers' offices are already employed. Even ,so, there are certain branches of the work which it would not be difficult to teach to capable new clerks, and thus kill two birds with one stone: Relieve those now under excessive strain and give work to many now idle.

JUDGING from the correspondence received by this column, the two subjects of widest interest at present are the dazzling boom in stock speculation and unemployment.

One New York Curb broker—who, incidentally paid less than $5,000 for his seat a few years ago and could now get $95,000 for it—tells me that the tidal wave of buying by the public is on the increase rather than the decrease. Many among the new crop of customers don't care what price they pay for stocks they have made up their minds to buy, he says. A sudden rise of $5 a share only makes an issue look more attractive to them.

"The funny thing is," he added, "that the kind we call boobs have been making nearly all the money. Most of the people in Wall street have been afraid of the market for a year and haven't dared to do any plunging. Rank outsiders have had no such fears. They have swarmed in blindly—and made money."

He did remark, however, that there are now times when bids for certain stocks are ominously scarce. This is making him more chary than ever about what may happen.

ON unemployment the most interesting letter received this week comes from the Bayway refinery employes of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. It will be recalled a letter criticising that company and a reply by President Teagle appeared in this column a few days ago. The following letter has been sent to Mr. Teagle:

"An elected representative called the attention of the regular quarterly Bayway joint conference, which was held May 10, to your answer to Mr. Furber's published comments concerning the recent layoffs at the Bayway Refinery.

"It was moved and seconded, and the motion unanimously carried, that a committee from the joint conference be appointed to draft a letter to you expressing its full concurrence with your statements.

"We appreciate the considerations which our company gives its employes, in the way of benefits, stock acquisition plan, etc. We also appreciate the company's labor policy, which recognizes and rewards ability, and at the same time gives due consideration to service, especially to those employes who have worked for the company for 10 years or more. The recent layoffs have been made in strict accordance with these policies.

"Respectfully yours, James H. Duff, Thos. F. O'Brien, W. G. McCullam, R. [illegible] Hoffman, Charles E. S[illegible] committee from Bayway j[illegible]rence.

SELLING DROPS STOCKS AFTER ADVANCE

NEW YORK, May 17.—(AP.)—Marking up of the call money rate to 6 per cent, following the calling of about $30,000,000 in bank loans, checked a spirited recovery in prices on the New York Stock Exchange today. Initial declines of 1 to 6¼ points had been largely recovered by noon, and in a number of instances replaced by gains ranging from 3 to nearly 15 points, but these were substantially reduced or wiped out in the afternoon selling movement.

Stiffer call money also was accompanied by a raising of time money rates from 5 per cent to from 5⅛ to 5¼, the highest since October, 1923. While United States Treasury officials were reported to have expressed the opinion that expanding business activity was a factor in the tightening of credit conditions here, the ordinary bullish effect of such a pronouncement was offset by fears that the New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate would be increased from 4 to 4½ per cent after the close of the market.

American Telephone & Telegraph common was the outstanding individual feature in today's market, soaring nearly 15 points to a new high record at 211 on buying influenced by the proposed increase in capitalization with the offering of valuable "rights" to shareholders.

Violent fluctuations again took place in the airplane stocks. Wright opened 6¼ points lower at 213, soared to 229 and then fell back to 212½ on the outburst of selling which followed the increase in call money. Curtiss opened unchanged at 150, soared to 165¾ and then plunged below the opening price. Radio dropped from 191¼ to 184 and Jersey Central sold down to 352, or 8 points below the previous quotation. Collins & Aikman sold down 3 points to a new 1928 low at 69⅛.

Strong buying support was provided for Park & Tilford, International Harvester, Cushman's Bakery, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, American Linseed and National Tea, all of which either moved into new high ground or showed advances of 5 points or more above yesterday's final quotations.

Supporting orders turned the current of prices strongly upward again before the close after the avalanche of selling had driven a number of important shares to the lowest prices of the week. Curtiss rebounded from 148⅝ to 160. Wright came up from 212½ to above 220. American International sold more than 8 points beyond its previous close when it touched 119½, duplicating the year's best figure. Ludlum Steel was up nearly 9 points at 67, also a new peak. General Motors and Radio rallied 3 and 5 points respectively from their low levels. Total sales approximated 2,500,000 shares.

BROKEN WATER MAIN DELAYS P. R. R. TRAINS

Hundreds of commuters were late at their offices today because trains from the east pulled into the Pennsylvania Railroad Station 15 minutes or more behind schedule. A broken water main near Pitcairn that flooded one track, disrupted the schedule while trains were rerouted.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, May 17.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 1 to 5 points, active months selling about 7 to 12 points above yesterday's closing figures by the end of the first hour on a light demand attributed largely to covering.

Uncertainty as to the weather outlook in the Eastern belt may have promoted local buying, but the market was very quiet and narrow enough to be influenced by comparatively small orders either way.

Liverpool cables reported liquidation and realizing on better weather, with London and Continental buying on the decline. Manchester advices reported more cloth sales for China, but that business with other outlets was poor.

The market showed increasing firmness toward noon on covering and some fresh buying prompted by continued nervousness over weather conditions in the Eastern belt and reports that boll weevil were already beginning to appear on young cotton in early sections. July sold up to 21.04c, with the active months showing net advances of 16 to 26 points at midday.

FAYETTE SCHOOL BOOSTS TAX LEVY TWO MILLS

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 17.—Increased school costs have made it necessary for the Perry township school board to raise the tax levy two mills. The millage is now up to 36.

Safety While Away

BEFORE taking the vacation trip it would be wise to protect personal valuables in a strong Safe Deposit Vault. Burglars each year steal property valued at $550,000,000.

At the same time assure protection for those most dear by making a will and providing for careful management of your estate by the appointment of the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh as Executor or Trustee.

Deposit your securities in a Custodian Account so that coupons and dividends will be collected when due.

We welcome the opportunity to serve you in any banking capacity.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Exchanges Closed Saturday.

Stock exchanges throughout the country will be closed again Saturday to permit the brokerage houses to catch up with the back work accumulated during the record markets of the past 10 weeks. This will be the fifth Saturday suspension since the present phase of the market started at the beginning of March. Not much has been accomplished in relieving the situation, but the Saturday closings have helped a little and the harried office forces have been able to maintain a fair measure of order in their accounts. There is some talk of inaugurating a policy of short sessions, two hours of trading on Wednesdays, and the matter of curtailing the usual daily trading session from five to four hours has also been discussed, but there has been nothing to indicate that the exchange authorities have any intention of taking such action. The near approach to the 5,000,000-share mark in yesterday's session brings clearly to attention the new state of affairs in securities dealings and may serve to convince some of the doubters that what are now referred to as unprecedented markets are merely the natural results of expansions in all lines and that the stock exchanges are entitled to their growth just as are the automobile industry, building, oil, steel and other businesses.

Copper Metal at 14½ Cents.

Domestic copper was advanced ⅛ cent a pound to 14½ cents, delivered in the Connecticut Valley, by several leading selling agencies today. There is a dearth of copper available for nearby shipment, the best delivery date being for July. In fact, one important source is not selling temporarily. It is understood consumers' normal requirement for May-June have not been filled.

Prices of all copper products have been advanced one-quarter of a cent a pound by the American Brass Company, subsidiary of Anaconda Copper. Commercial bar silver is quoted at 60 cents per fine ounce today, up ¼ cent.

American Telephone Soars.

American Telephone and Telegraph was the prominent feature of the old-line investment issues as the stock soared in response to the announcement that the company would issue $185,000,000 new stock to present shareholders on a basis of one new share at $100 for each six shares held. The stock sped into new high ground as investors and traders took the buying side and by noon the price had reached 211 as against last night's close at 196¼. The "rights" sold up to $16. The buying in Telephone had a distinct influence on the general industrial list and served to deter some of the liquidation which seemed to be awaiting some spark to turn it into an avalanche.

Canadian Ford Net Drops.

Ford Motor Company of Canada reports net income of $171,221 for the year ended December 31, 1927, equal to $2.45 a share on the 70,000 shares of capital stock outstanding, comparing with net of $5,341,177 or $76.30 a share in 1926. Vice President W. R. Campbell said: "Due to the discontinuance of production of Model T and TT cars and trucks, the output was considerably reduced, which has been reflected in the profit and loss statement. Additional machinery and equipment was necessary in connection with the production of model A and AA cars and trucks. The increase of $1,464,109 in plant accounts reflects this condition. Ample provision for depreciation of plant has been made from current year's profits. Balance sheet as of December 31, 1927, shows the company in exceptionally strong cash position. Cash and bonds at the end of the year totaled $12,545,122, an increase of nearly $5,000,000 over the figure at the end of 1926. Of this amount $6,653,870 consisted of cash. Current liabilities of the company at the close of 1927 were $1,426,946.

Oils, Rails and Coppers.

Hornblower & Weeks say: "Oils, rails and coppers show the best resistance to reaction, but this is a moral consequence of their non-participation in movements of any particular extravagance. It is in the issues which have moved extravagantly that the lack of a technical background of support when traders begin profit taking is mainly noticeable. We think that standard stocks will be well bought in the classified groups mentioned above on the development of any further reaction, but even in these departments we would be inclined to wait more conclusive evidence of completion of current profit taking than is furnished by a half-day's reaction."

Treasury on Money Conditions.

Any indication of the tightening of money may fairly be attributed to increase of industrial business it was announced at the Treasury Department in Washington today. Business and industrial expansion would naturally demand money which may cause tightening of money markets, it was said. However, there has been little indication of a "tight" money market and call money at 6 per cent in New York City undoubtedly draws funds to that city, it was explained. Up to the noon hour $25,000,000 in loans had been withdrawn by the banks. The tone of the call money market became firmer as demand for accommodation increased sharply.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, May 17.—With light rains in the American and Canadian Northwest and further moisture in the domestic winter crop belt, wheat prices went decidedly lower today. July delivery of wheat here fell to about 23½c a bushel under the recent high level. Unfavorable wheat crop reports from India with the harvest in the United Provinces and in the Punjab yielding 25 per cent less than the official estimate were virtually ignored. Wheat closed heavy, 2¾@4½c net lower, corn at ⅛@1¼c advance, oats ⅛@1¼c off and provisions 2@22c up.

Authoritative trade reports at hand today said that although spring wheat territory requires additional moisture in some places, rains have been sufficient to start seed, and that early sown wheat fields in Minnesota and South Dakota, have a good appearance, but that later fields are somewhat spotted. Wheat seeding is practically complete in North Dakota and Montana.

Buying of corn against sales of wheat led to relative strength in corn values at times today. Talk was current that a big Eastern demand for corn all season was looked for. On the other hand, weather conditions today for the new corn crop were auspicious, and predictions were made of a big acreage this season.

The following grain quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

Bank of England.

LONDON, May 17.—(AP.)—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following in pounds: Total reserve increased 425,000; circulation decreased 384,000; bullion increased 41,000; other securities increased 150,000; public deposits increased 8,090,000; other deposits decreased 5,405,000; notes reserve increased 311,000; government securities increased 120,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 40.91 per cent compared with 40.78 last week.

Rate of discount, 4½ per cent.

EARLY DECLINES RETRIEVED

Trading was quiet and prices were somewhat lower in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, reflecting the unsettled conditions in New York, where the market currents were changing from time to time as the nervousness created by yesterday's break was still in evidence.

There were numerous small recessions in the local list, but these declines were held to a point or less in most cases. Early bids were under the previous closings and sellers desirous of withdrawing from the market found a rather thin demand. However, the fact that no disorder was evident in the New York market served to restore confidence and the later trading here witnessed some of the leaders making efforts to retrieve the early losses.

The new Joseph Horne common, handled on the curb pending its listing in the official market, opened strong at $50 a share, up 12 points from the subscription price, but receded later when demand at the 50-level petered out. It was rumored that Homes & Co., the offering house, was overwhelmed with applications for the stock and much of the buying in the open market is for account of investors whose allotments were under the number of shares they had applied for. The offering consisted of only 40,000 shares and it was reported the applications were for well over 10 times that number. It was said a larger percentage of the open market buying was for account of women clients of the various houses.

Colonial Trust Company stock sold at 285 and 294, the latter price representing an advance of $14 over the last previous close.

PRODUCE DEALERS WIN SUIT AGAINST RAILROAD

A verdict for $11,844 was awarded Free Brothers Company, produce dealers, against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in their suit to recover the loss of several carloads of produce. The case was on trial in Judge J. D. Carnahan's court for several days, it being alleged that the produce spoiled in transit because of improper handling and inadequate unloading facilities.

Have a Progressive Will

MEN give as a reason for not making a will that they are conscious of growth, of greater business achievement—that the life work a will represents is never done. That's true. Yet men pass on without safe-guarding for their families what it has taken years to accumulate. A will should keep pace with a man's growth, should be changed from time to time. But there should be no delay in writing a will.

CITIES SERVICE DIVIDENDS

How to make today's dream—tomorrow's reality

"HOW can I increase my income?"—That's a question which interests everyone.

The answer is—there is no royal road to riches as smooth and safe as the road of thrift.

By proper management and forethought, almost all of us can live, without undue denial or restraint, on but nine-tenths of what we do live on.

This 10% surplus invested in the 18-year-old common stock of the world-wide Cities Service organization will not only provide an anchor to windward in times of stress, but will bring to you, as dividends are declared, a regular monthly income at the rate of about 8% per annum.

COKE OUTPUT SHOWS GAIN

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 17.—The Courier says:

Although the production of coke made a net gain of 800 tons last week, the increase made a relatively light impression in recouping the loss that has taken place since the downward course set in with the week ended April 14. Prior to that week the high point, 72,500 tons, had been reached. Until last week a succession of decreases brought the regional total down to 57,280. The comparatively small addition last week raised the total to 58,080 tons, which is short 14,420 tons of the pre-slump mark.

The estimated production of coke during the week ended Saturday, May 12, was 58,080 tons, divided between the two districts as follows: Connellsville, 27,940, an increase of 420 tons; Lower Connellsville, 30,140, an increase of 380 tons, or a total increase of 800 tons, as compared with a net decrease of 1,370 tons during the preceding week.

The market remains quotable as follows:

Spot foundry .... $3.75@4.25

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The raw sugar market was firmer early today with prices advancing 1-16c. Sales reported were 35,000 bags of Porto Rican due on Monday at 4.40c.

Raw sugar futures were more active and prices firmer on increased covering and some trade buying prompted by the steadier tone in the spot market. The market opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher, but soon firmed up and at midday showed net gains of 2 to 3 points.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.95@6.00c for fine granulated. A fair inquiry was reported, but buyers generally were inclined to limit purchases to nearby requirements.

What Would You Do If You Went Broke?

Mr. Weems, prominent animal cracker manufacturer.

Note—We are asking a number of prominent citizens what they would do if they suddenly became penniless.

Today we publish the answer of Ambrose Weems—

"If I found myself hungry, I would go to a restaurant. Then I would start all over again by going into the pretzel business. I am a pretzel weaver by profession. And if the pretzel business failed, I would manufacture corsets. If that failed, I would go into the hairpin manufacturing business. And if that failed, I would go into the bustle business. And if—"

IF I WERE PRESIDENT

If I'm elected President,
  I'll eschew politics;
My daily working hours will be
  From six o'clock to six.

When I am made the President,
  The workman's wage will soar;
I'll arbitrate, conciliate
  And plan to outlaw war.

I want to be the President,
  My task will be no joke;
I'll build an ideal Cabinet,
  With men of sturdy oak.

I'd like to be the President,
  And guard the public purse;
The grafters and the sycophants
  Will travel in a hearse.

Should I be made the President
  I'll use the income tax
To print great tons of money
  And treat the poor with sacks.

As soon as I am President
  I know where to begin:
I'll put some inside rascals out,
  But no outside rascals in.

Purchase of Straw Hat Big Event in Man's Life

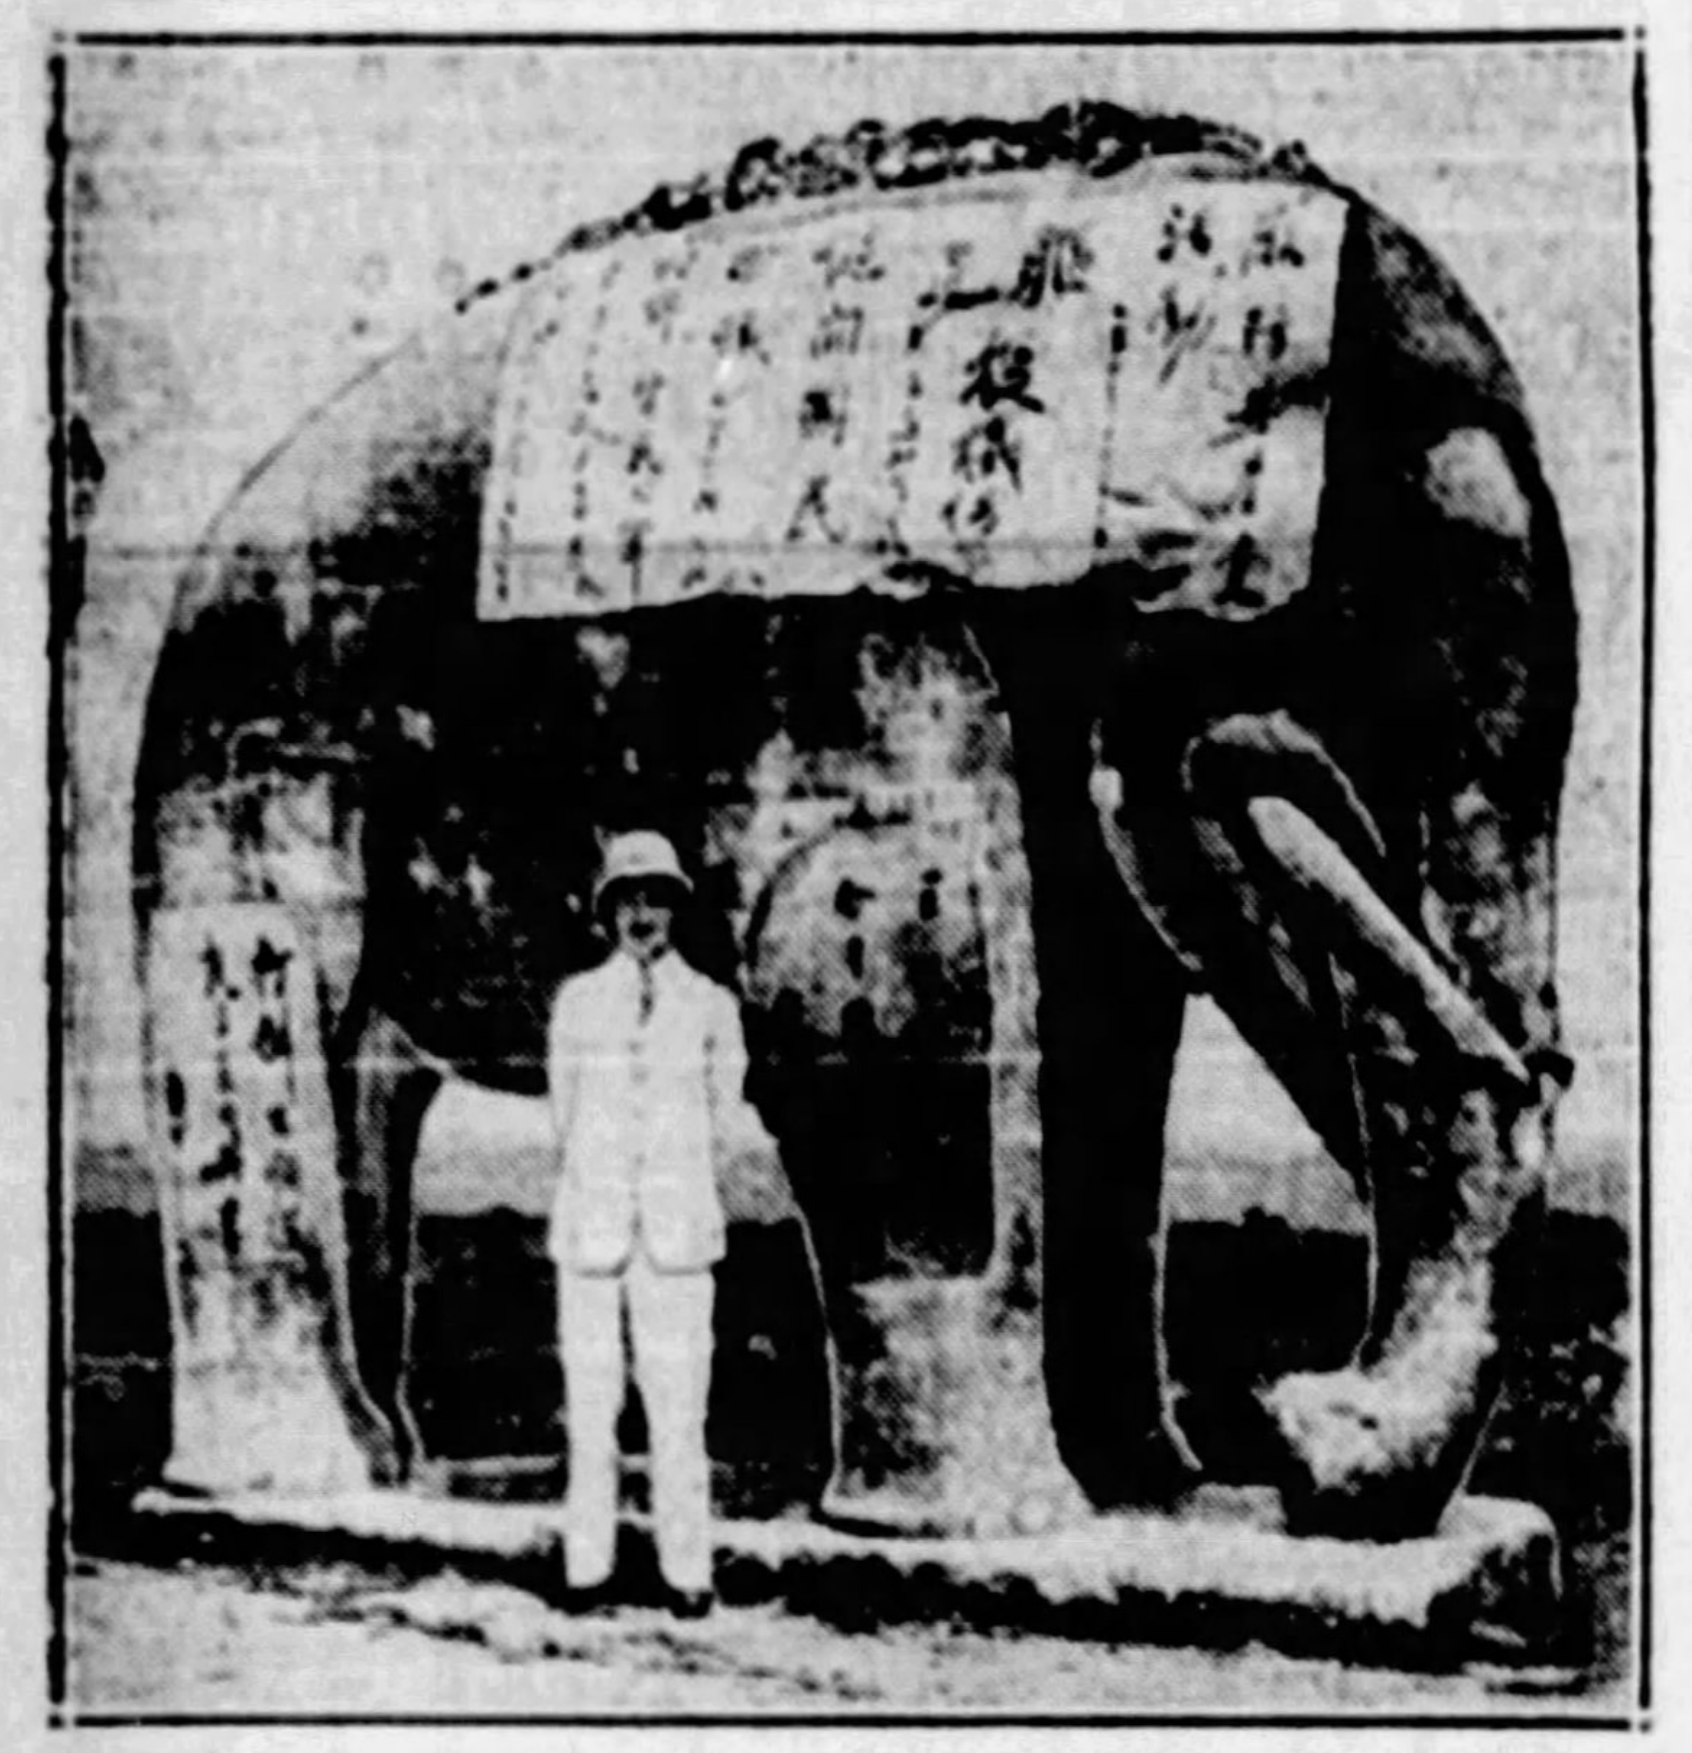
Big events in a man's life are birth, first "longies," marriage and his annual purchase of a new straw hat. In the latter the superiority of the masculine mind over the feminine is evident. Along in January or February straw hats for women make their appearance, and the deluded dames, with no reasoning at all, think the purchase of a straw bonnet will bring spring forthwith—and they buy and wear the desiccated headgear.

But man—not he. He knows May 15 is the date, the official date, for the appearance of the hay lid on the noble masculine cranium. It may happen that there be days hotter than the bad place before that date, but he will not be stampeded into any straw hat orgie before, and if the weather isn't appropriate he will wait a few days longer. So May 15 came and went this year and man in general showed his independence by deciding that straws only show the way the wind blows when it blows to suit him.

But, the official date having arrived, he now begins to take an interest. Here and there he buys, and the warmer days will see the light summery headpieces more and more in evidence. Then will come an especially hot day and a general rush to the hatteries. That may be today—tomorrow—nobody but his majesty, the masculine of the species, knows. He won't be hurried, but he will hurry himself when the sun gives the signal.

Even Chinese Advertise

And Use the Old Ming Tomb Elephant



THE OLD MING ELEPHANT USED AS A POSTER.

Advertising is the art of getting an idea FROM YOUR MIND into the minds of OTHERS. The more smoothly, easily and convincingly the idea enters the OTHER mind the better advertiser you are.

This picture shows how the thing is done, primitively, in China, where one faction fights other factions, strugging for control of China's 400,000,000.

The great stone elephant in the picture is one of many that guard the approach of the Ming tombs, near Nanking, magnificent burial places for Chinese emperors and their relatives, established by the Ming dynasty, centuries ago.

Chinese emperors have come and gone. Sometimes they were of the old Chinese race; sometimes savages from the outer wall broke in, Tartars and others, and established themselves as rulers.

Once the great Gengis Khan overran the country and easily controlled it, while he went conquering toward the west. Lately, for the first time, some of the Chinese have thought that they wanted to imitate Western republics. The emperor and the old dowager empress died. The little Chinese emperor, treated kindly, was put in a palace with his wives and various other lady friends, deprived of power, but not killed after the European fashion.

At present North and South China are arrayed against each other, and each group ADVERTISES, telling the crowd what it wants the crowd to believe.

The signs pasted on the back and legs of this elephant advertise the belief that Communism and Bolshevism are dangerous. One sign reads "Put down Communism. Expel those who would disrupt the Kuomintang party. Attend the Nationalist party conference."

Ladies who read this editorial will be interested in the little pile of stones on the elephant's back. They have a meaning of their own.

Pious Chinese ladies, visiting the Ming tombs, stop near this elephant, pick up a little stone and throw it, making it land and stay, if possible, on the elephant's back.

If the stone stays on the elephant's back it means that the lady's next child will be a boy. If it falls down, it means that she will have a girl.

As the elephant's pile of stones becomes bigger it becomes more difficult to make the stone stay up. Probably the more intelligent Chinese ladies move on to the next elephant.

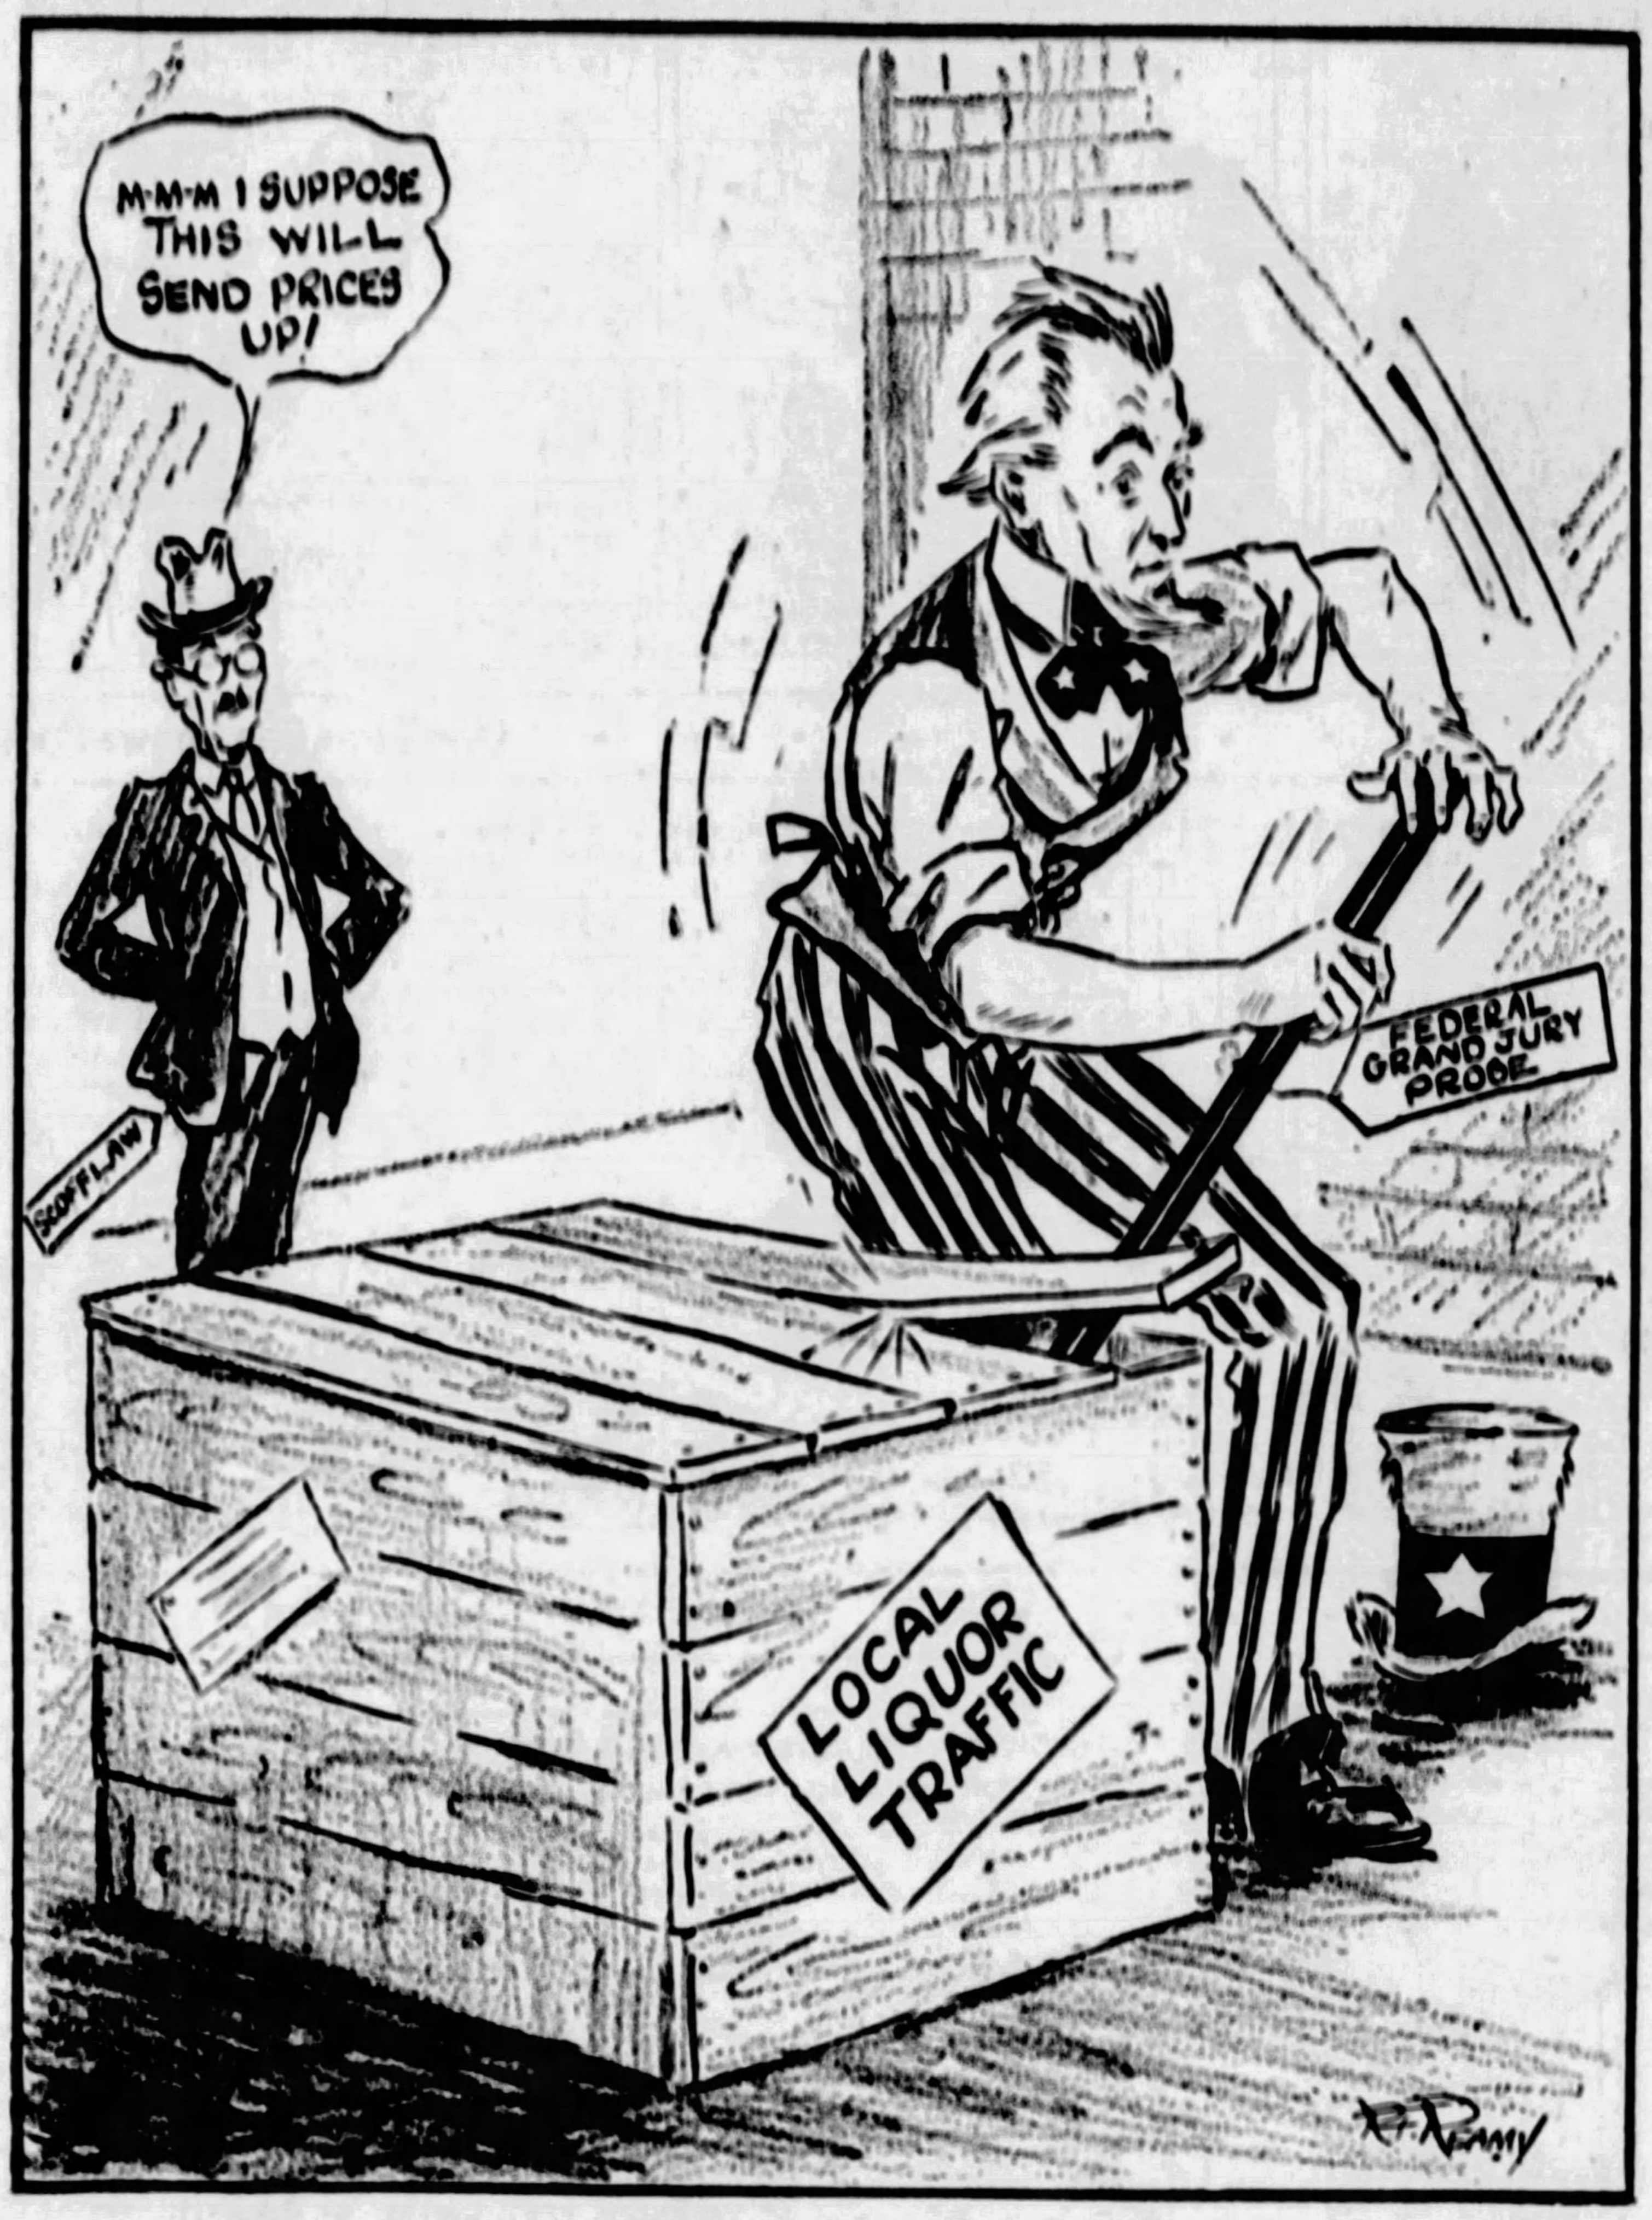
This shows the power and necessity of advertising.

Advertising with magazines or newspapers is not as well established in China as it is in Western countries.

So Chinese fighters put their signs on the old stone elephant, just as Caesar, two thousand years ago, posted his political advertisements on the walls of Rome, letting the people know what the Senate was doing and why he was against it.

Advertising is THE GREAT POWER. And everybody practices it in one way or another.

DOING SOME PROBING



Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Ho, for the Moon!

HOW seriously the idea of traveling through space from world to world is now taken in some quarters may be judged from a bulletin of nearly 100 large pages published by the Astronomical Society of France. It is the report of a lecture given before the Society by Robert Esnault-Pelterie, who, after an elaborate investigation of the question concluded, under certain reserve, depending upon continued scientific progress in mastering natural forces, that a voyage from the earth to the moon and back again, and even to and from the planets Venus and Mars, is within the range of physical possibility.

The motor vehicle proposed by M. Esnault-Pelterie for such "astronautic" voyages is nothing more than a greatly improved, transformed and enlarged rocket. In driving principle it resembles those that fill Fourth of July nights with fiery streaks and showers of colored sparks. The rocket takes the place of Jules Verne's imaginary hollow projectile, because it admits of being started with a controlled speed which may be gradually increased up to the critical velocity required practically to free it from the earth.

One of the first difficulties dealt with is the fact that the rocket must start with many times its weight of explosives, to be consumed on its way. Professor R. H. Goddard calculated some years ago that a rocket-projectile of this sort would have to consume 600 times its own weight of explosive material. But given more powerful explosives the proportions of weight may be greatly altered.

Another difficulty is to keep the starting velocity low enough to render it possible for human beings inside the projectile to survive the initial shock, and to regulate the subsequent acceleration so that it too would not be destructive to life. In Jules Verne's cannon projectile, M. Esnault-Pelterie says, the adventurers would first have been crushed against the bottom of their chamber and then "killed a second time" against the top, as the projectile encountered the atmospheric resistance.

M. Esnault-Pelterie thinks that if hydrogen in an atomic state could be employed for the motive power, a practicable voyaging rocket might be made, whose acceleration would not exceed 2g., i. e., double the acceleration of gravity at the earth's surface, which is about thirty-two feet per second. But upon the whole he considers that real success will not be achieved until the energy in the atoms has been made available for our use—a desideratum not now in sight, though by no means beyond the range of scientific hopes.

With an acceleration of 2g. it is calculated that the rocket, carrying its voyagers, would attain the critical velocity necessary to complete the journey at a height of about 2,000 miles, a point that would be attained twelve-and-half minutes after the departure.

At that point there would be a sudden suppression of all sensation of weight, and the question is raised whether there might not be fatal physiological effects. Bearing on this the effects on the heart and respiration produced by falling, or a too swift descent in an elevator are pointed out.

The time of the round trip to the moon is calculated at about four days and a half. But all the travelers on the surface of the earth during the thousands of years of history could never have gathered such inexhaustible material for narration, as would be in possession of those returned from the moon!

To get safely down upon the moon from the point of neutral attraction between it and the earth, M. Esnault-Pelterie shows, it would be necessary to have a breaking force to check the fall; and this still more on returning to the earth, when the brake (provided by the same means used to drive the rocket) would have to be applied as soon as the critical point, 2,000 miles above the earth was again reached. An abundance of other curious considerations will be found in this remarkable paper, together with considerable mathematics.

THOUGHTS OF THE GREAT—

The wisdom of the wise and the experience of the ages may be preserved by the quotation.—Isaac Disraeli.

We hope to grow old, and we dread old age; that is to say, we love life and we flee from death. —La Bruyere.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Keep Spirit Unbroken

DON'T allow your spirit to be broken.

You may have had hard luck but don't admit you have been beaten.

It may be a hard struggle to hold your head up, your shoulders back and keep your face cheerful and hopeful.

But these things are necessary to carry you through the trouble zone you have entered.

You are not down and out till you admit it yourself.

When you cave—give in—then you are done.

How can you convince others that you are of value when you own to yourself that you are a failure?

You have done many things creditably in the past.

You would be able to make a good showing still, if you had the right opportunity.

Take a chance in the line where you have done your best work.

But don't make the mistake of turning down or refusing to do what comes along, because you cannot procure the kind of work you want.

You can make a good showing in any kind of a job you take up if you have the will to do so.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Your Gifts

ALWAYS you came with gifts for me;
But not such things as others brought,
A bit of gold embroidery,
A vase of silver, chastely wrought.

Not these, or books or songs or flowers,
The offerings your kindness made;
Those others passed with flight of hours,
Your gifts through changeful years have stayed.

Your gifts; the will to rise above
All petty cares, all sordid deeds,
The certainty that faith and love
Are greatest still of all man's needs!

You came with gifts of honesty,
With vision, steadfastness and truth,
A portion of yourself to me
You gave to aid my groping youth!

Gas Bags

THERE have been gas bags on ocean liners before the TC-5 cuddled on the deck of the American Trader. But not dirigibles.

They have varied between the bore who insists on telling about all his previous voyages to the pest who thrusts his fads on fellow passengers seeking a rest.

The TC-5 had the grace to get off the ship soon after its landing. It is hopeless to expect equal brevity from the human gas bags.

Tales that are Told

Not High Enough

PATRICK had had his pocket picked and was stranded in the great metropolis without a place to lay his head.

He crossed the road and entered the imposing portals of a magnificent hotel. A night clerk informed him that the first-floor rooms were ten-and-six, the second-floor eight-and-six, and so on—each floor being two shillings cheaper than the one below it.

Patrick counted what money he had left, and then led the clerk outside.

"But," protested the clerk, "don't you want a room, after all?"

"No," answered the son of Erin, having cast an eye over the hotel; "your building ain't high enough."—London Answers.

The Only Way

TWO golfing rivals were contesting the final of their local golf championship. They were all square at the eleventh hole.

Chalmers made a perfect drive from the next tee, but his opponent was not lucky, and the ball, curving high in the air, landed in jungle country.

When he went forward to investigate, the unlucky man discovered that his ball had gone down a rabbit-hole.

"Your niblick, eh, sir?" inquired the caddie, reaching for the club.

"No, boy," returned the other in a resigned voice. "Nip back to the clubhouse and get me a ferret."

All the Difference

THE taxi slowed, pulled in towards the gutter and came to a halt. The driver got down and opened the door.

"'Ere you are, sir," he said.

His fare descended a trifle uncertainly and proceeded to search his pockets, one after another, while the taximan looked on suspiciously.

"Sorry, old chap," said the fare finally, "but I haven't got a bean!" Then, seeing the other was not taking it too well, went on: "You can't get—er—blood out of a stone, you know!"

"No," agreed the taxi-driver darkly, rolling up his sleeves. "No, young man; but you're not a stone!"

Where to Begin

MRS. SUFFRAGE had been to a women's political meeting, for she considered that she possessed all the qualifications of a politician.

When she returned she regaled her husband with her party views.

"We are going to sweep the country, John," she enthused.

Her husband, who had been attending to his own wants whilst she was out, scowled darkly.

"Then you'd better start with the kitchen, my dear!" he said quite briefly.

All Right Now

SHE was visiting a zoo, and gathering as much information about the animals as was possible in one short afternoon.

"Are these bears carnivorous?" she inquired of a keeper.

"Well," replied the keeper, slowly, "they was when they arrived, ma'am, but they've been all right since we cleaned 'em down with carbolic."

Primaries

SENATOR CUTTING, of New Mexico, deserves credit for bringing forward again the subject of federal regulation of primary elections to federal offices.

The Newberry scandal disclosed that the only effective power by which the Congress could take cognizance of how a member was chosen is in the provision of the Constitution making each House "the judge of elections, returns and qualifications of its own members."

True, the Congress "may at any time by law make or alter" regulations governing elections of members. But in both cases the elections so mentioned are held to be the general, not the primary, elections.

Primary elections as we know them were unknown to the framers of the Constitution. Had their importance been foreseen, it is probable that the constitutional provisions to safeguard the choice of federal elective officials would have been worded differently.

New York Day by Day
O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 17.—Manhattan's tardiness in arriving at social affairs grows worse with the seasons. It is an almost unwritten social code to arrive at a dinner from a half hour to an hour late. It does not matter if a theater party is to follow.

After the same fashion most guests do not seem to know when to go home. Ten years ago the luncheon hour was 12 o'clock and luncheon places were deserted by 1 p. m. Today the lunch crowd has not reached its peak until 2, and they begin to leave at 3.

The dinner hour has been moved steadily forward until 9 o'clock. This lateness has been the despair of thousands of hostesses and hosts who have had their dinners grow cold. It is responsible for the prevalence of the buffet froid.

Professional people of the stage and screen are the chief offenders in this dilatory gesture. Back of it all is the desire to attract attention. And New York regards it as "smart." Impetus, too, has been given the notion by the chronic lateness of Mayor Walker.

There are a few old-fashioned folk who cling to the idea that to arrive late is a breach of etiquette, but they are a pitiful minority. Irvin Cobb, for instance, always arrives on the precise dot, causing him to observe he frequently helps the hired butler roll in the ice cream freezer.

Congested traffic is the standing alibi of late arrivals, if they care enough to offer an explanation. Another contributing cause, aside from the hope of being noticed, is the fear of being bored. New York has no sympathy for a "flat" party, and will walk right out.

But if it swings into high speed, the guests will gladly remain to greet the sun with a hiccough. These reflections were inspired by an incident of the week. A banker had invited 36 couples to a dinner. At 9 only four couples arrived. He waited until 9:45 and escorted his guests to a private cafe. The dinner was ruined.

A foreign architect observes: "New York expresses splendor in every type of building." He should be wheeled around to some of our street car barns.

There has been an overtone of publicity recently about the democracy of millionaires and their wives. There are reports of them giving dinners at Child's and riding in sight seeing buses. I will believe some of it when I see a millionaire and his wife put-putting through Fifth avenue in one of those flying motor cycles with a side car.

Nor have these flopears ever heard a flapper say: "I mean I actually do"—a phrase featured by their prototypes in every play.

The flapper notion was grossly exaggerated. Every young girl with short skirts and a shingled head was considered a rake-hell ready to get pie-eyed on a few scoops of gin, or neck with a handsome yeast-eater at the drop of the hat. Some simulated the comic paper presentation, but they were merely the showoffs. There are a few young ladies left who do not swig gin, pet in public or read dirty books. They are not so noticeable because they make no effort to be seen.

Times have changed, but not much. The ukulele supplanted the mandolin, the surreptitious cigaret is smoked in the open and in the final analysis youth has acquired more self assurance. I recall the first girl in our town to ride a bicycle in a divided skirt. Grandma warned me about her. "She's as wild as a pigeon," she declared.

High Living

By DR. FRANK CRANE

We speak of certain people as those who live high. Ordinarily we mean those who eat luxuriously, fare sumptuously every day, consume lobsters, champagne and caviar, those who sleep in soft beds and generally pamper themselves.

This kind of high living makes for softness and inefficiency. It usually winds up in boredom or black pessimism. Somehow or other the soul of man cannot thrive on chocolate sundaes. Tannhauser at last came to nausea living a luxurious life with the goddess of beauty in Venusburg. He longed for sorrow and struggle. He truly typifies that the life of man is incomplete without realizing something of the human conflict.

But there are people who persistently and constantly live on a high plane. Such persons occupy their minds with high problems and other things of high endeavor.

They do not let themselves down into the morass of indecency or despair.

It is easy for any one to give up, to say that the buffeting waves of this mundane experience are too much for him, and to live a miserable and complaining life.

This is low thinking. Just as a man is endowed with a spirit that can soar above the animals so this spirit can bring him down to the animal level.

One who lives in obscenity and dirt, who enjoys the evil things of existence and who scorns all high endeavor is, after all, but a wallowing hog.

We can take the high or the low view of whatever happens to us.

None of us are exempt from trouble, but we can bear it nobly or ignobly. Sorrow and loss come to all, but how shall we meet it? It may bring us to a kinship with God or it may drag us down to the level of Satan.

Let us think high thoughts, cultivate high emotions and indulge in high pleasures, and put away from us all degrading thoughts, unworthy emotions or pleasures that soil the soul.

For every one who lives high, who takes a lofty view of himself and of his duties, the world is better off. Too often we think of ourselves as mere creatures of the dust. The high thought of ourselves is as sons of God, destined to a glorious career. Man will usually make of himself something like what he thinks of himself.

LISTEN, WORLD!

Traveling or Bouncing About?

IS traveling improving?

Maybe. That depends on the traveler.

Much of our traveling is merely a restless bouncing about that doesn't do us a particle of good. We can gain more by entering into the lives of a few small places, thoroughly, than we can by scattering all over the universe. Successful travel, like successful living, is a matter of quality rather than quantity. It isn'a a question of how long you live, but how much you live—nor of how far you travel, but of how deep you travel.

For years I've gone to a certain small town, whenever I have had a few days to rest or study. There are hardly a hundred people in this town. The locust trees hang over the narrow streets and mingle their honey-sweet petals with the deep sleepy dust. The dogs sprawl in the dust and the children play there too—the yellow earth oozing up in little spurts between their wiggling, bare toes. In the fall mornings, when the sun lies low, the cattle loiter down the streets and the light rings about them in a golden haze. It is, as you can see, a very pokey little town and you'd never think of calling it foreign for it is only a few score miles from my home. And yet I have traveled to all the countries of the earth, and known all the climates of the human heart in that small town.

If I had passed through it hastily I would have seen nothing but crumbling shacks and stagnating lives. But growing into it as I have done in these many years, I have found beauty and drama, art and philosophy. And amazing adventures.

It is said that each electron—that smallest unit of energy—is a perfect universe in itself. There is a tiny sun and there the diminutive stars revolving about that sun. And there the whole vast wonder of life goes through its orderly round. My little village also mirrors the whole universe. All the elements of life are there for me to see, if I have the eyes to see them.

The romance of Italy, the superstition of Africa, the whole pageant of love and hate, hope and fear, ambition and despair moves along those quiet streets and is at work within those humble rooms. And though it lies but a few miles from my home, the life there is really as foreign to my life as the Egyptian nights would be. And as stimulating.

It is stimulating because I have opened my spirit to its stimulation. I want to find something in that small place and I find it. I have let myself become curious about it and it has given me its secrets in return. It has grown into me and I have grown into it. I travel to the ends of the earth when I go to my dusty town.

And that is the secret of all good traveling. Do you do it with your heart and so widen the frontiers of your life—or do you do it merely with your eyes?

Some people have girdled the globe a dozen times and achieved exactly nothing. And others have never left a wheel chair, yet they are citizens of every nation.
